NEW YORK CLIPPER

THE OLDEST AMERICAN SPORTING AND THEATRICAL JOURNAL.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor. | NEW YORK, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1876. | VOLUME XXIV.—No. 26. Price Ten Cents.

BY THE SEA.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.
BY LIEUT. E. H. KELLOGG.

How bright are the ringlets her shoulders adorning!
Golden and flossy, they charm every eye;
Effulgent they shine in the light of the morning,
As over the clover her fleet footsteps fly.
The sun is just rising o'er hillock and fountain,
Begemming the clover with diamond-like dew,
While onward she flies, sweet maid of the mountain,
To meet once again her brave boy in blue.
How gladly he presses her lips with caresses!
How gladly they kiss!—will they e'er kiss again?
In that moment of gladness, no feeling of sadness
O'ershadows the ones who shall ne'er meet again.

The stars are awaking, her sad heart is breaking,
Her lover lies dead on the surf-beaten lea;
The sea-gull and bittern the gray rocks are shaking
With shrieks for the maiden who weeps by the sea.
As there she sits wailing, the white clouds are sailing,
Like shrouds, o'er the twain who ne'er shall meet more.
Till the last trumpet's breaking, from death's sleep awaking,
Shall summon the lovers who rest on the shore.
How sadly she presses his lips with caresses!
Those lips that, returning, shall never kiss more
Till the last trumpet's breaking, from death's sleep awaking,
Shall summon the lovers who rest on the shore.

ROSE:

THE SPLENDORS AND MISERIES OF THEATRICAL LIFE.

Translated for The New York Clipper from the French of Edouard Cadol.

CHAPTER V—CONTINUED.

The day for the nuptials was announced. Upon its morning a silly idea seized upon her to hide herself within the church, to witness the ceremony, to mourn in plenitude of sorrow. Certain temperaments are tempted to aggravate grief in the trust of exhausting it. She could not summon energy to remain alone in her apartment, dreading to follow in imagination his footsteps on that day. Still, how to foment distraction, whom to see, whom to summon to her assistance? No one. It was a matter of indifference. She dressed herself and went forth. She desired to leave the city wherein her abandonment was definitely consummated. Through a species of intuitive force, impelling us towards familiar localities, she followed those streets which, on a former occasion, that lovely Good Friday, had led her to the station of the Northern Railway. There were three-quarters of an hour to await before the train departed. She seated herself upon a bench. The busy movements of the public and of the railway people changed the course of her ideas. The departing crowd appeared to invite her to follow them. The point of their destination boasted, perchance, some attraction, and, when the unknown does not affright, it fascinates. By her side a young woman held upon her knees a three-year-old child, seemingly delighted to be on the journey. He spoke to his mother of that which he expected to find at its termination—a garden, flowers, shady bowers.

"Did they still remain?" responded the young woman with a sigh.

It was towards October, and the sky was obscured by a tepid mist.

When the office for the sale of tickets opened, the young woman arose with the view of obtaining one. The crowd, pressing towards the ticket-seller, was composed of rude and hurried people. The little boy was threatened with injury through lack of being perceived, and the young mother had difficulty in preserving him unharmed. Rose, who had followed her, proposed to the lady to secure a ticket for her while purchasing her own, and the young mother complied with willingness.

"A first-class for Montmorency," she observed to Rose as she placed in her hand a piece of silver.

The latter, who had no settled project, asked for two first-class tickets for Montmorency, and the two women entered together the waiting-saloon.

They conversed. Still in company, they assumed seats in the cars, and in company made the journey to the landing-station; afterwards they took their respective leaves, ignorant as to their relative names or positions.

Again alone, Rose, who had not revisited the locality, naturally took the road followed on that Good Friday, when she, an humble "double," participated in the festivities of a rural jaunt. Still, what difference between those visits after a lapse of four years, and what had transpired during that interval! Gaining the forest, whose foliage, reddened yet plentifully, contrasted with remembrance of the soft, green verdure characterizing that which she might consider the prologue to her intimacy with George, the romance of her youth, Rose, oblivious of the present, plunged into the delirium of the past. Again she saw the donkeys; again she listened to the railleries of her comrades of the "troop of zinc." Without effort, she rediscovered the pathway wherein George had made his appearance when, carried away by the headstrong beast, she galloped wildly over the ruts. At the foot of that tree was he seated. There it was that the animal stumbled against the projecting root, causing her dislodgment; there was it where George received her in his arms. She seated herself, in her turn, in that same place, at the foot of that same tree, and, succumbing to fascination, gave herself up to the intoxication of reminiscence. Hours flew by without her taking note of their rapid passage. Presently, on the wings of the breeze, wafted by gusts, was borne to her ear the chimes of the village-church, announcing the faithful to their devotions, sounding a melody in unison with the young girl's poetic dreams of the past. Gradually the voice of a man, somewhat harsh, was heard from beyond the underwood. He sang, slow and in a child-like manner, words still more childish, the complaint of Monsieur de La Palisse:

Monsieur La Palisse is dead,
Of sickness sure died he;
An hour or so before he died
He sang right merrily!

Whereupon came the laugh of a child, followed by this injunction:

"More yet, uncle!"

The man's voice resumed:

A proper man was La Palisse
As one would want to see;
A hat he wore upon his head,
And wore it from a tree.

At the termination of a succeeding couplet, the singer and his companion made their appearance a few paces distant. The uncle became silent in presence of the unexpected auditor of his paternal lactate, while Rose, slightly disconcerted at being surprised, turned aside her eyes, as well through embarrassment as through discretion, pretending to be engaged in plucking blades of grass. As they were passing, the child exclaimed:

"Stop! The lady!"

Rose recognized the little boy traveling with his mother.

The uncle mechanically turned his head; then, with a tone of surprise:

"Mamoiselle Varnel!" he said.

It was the author of the piece in which she was playing at the Theatre Jouffroy.

"You are here all alone?" he inquired after some preliminary explanations.

"Yes," she replied. "I know well how I came to be thus. The life of an artist has its lassitudes; this morning I felt weary at heart, oppressed with sad ideas. I started forth without preconcerted aim whither to go, desirous only of breathing another atmosphere than that of the streets. I longed to stroll in the forest, with the pure sky of heaven above my head, and desired for the moment to forget the world, perpetually agitated by a battle I self-interest."

"But," observed the author, "the clock has struck eleven. Have you breakfasted?"

"You call it to my mind," responded Rose. "I must return."

"Listen, mademoiselle," resumed the author. "The house I inhabit is at no great distance; will you do me the favor of partaking there of a couple of eggs, fresh from my own hens? There certainly must be some supplementary dish, for my sister and nephew have surprised me with a visit."

Rose sought to excuse herself; still, the author insisted so courteously that she felt forced to acquiesce—well pleased, however, at the turn affairs chanced to take.

The boy took her by the hand without relinquishing that of his uncle, and in this wise walked to one of the houses on the outskirts of Montmorency.

A species of curiosity excited Rose's attention. He, tendering her hospitality, was, if not the most distinguished member of the Dramatic Authors' Society, at least a dramatist whose superiority was the least contested. He had composed works creating him representative of a school; according to general Parisian opinion, he was a master in the literary art. Commander of the Legion of Honor, member of the Institute, he had made himself what he was by means of his pen. Respecting art and his individuality, less covetous of profit than of reputation, it could be said of him as of a presumptive prodigy—the union of an ambitious talent with an ennobling character. And Rose felt herself at ease in the presence of this master, whose affability and sensibility enraptured her.

Tall, well made, with a pleasing countenance, his cheerfulness attested an excellent disposition—product of robust health and superior intelligence. Only his eyes, comparatively small and slightly too near a prominent nose, with his brown beard, betrayed a natural malicionsness, experienced by more than one person. His repartees were quoted—biting sarcasm, emanating from an observant mind, such as came from the two Dumases, Barriere, Henri Heine, and in an inferior degree from Roqueplan. Clad in a jacket, shod with stout bootees and wearing a round hat, he walked with a hand in his pocket, appearing as a man of the people, thereby astonishing Rose, remembering George in his velvet coat, his slippered feet, his embroidered shirt of fine linen, his ruffled cuffs, as become a singer of the Grand Opera.

His dwelling, covered with creeping vines, presented no very particular appearance. It was an ordinary country-house, erected, perchance, upon speculation, according to the typical design to be encountered everywhere amid the outer environs of Paris. The interior possessed the same characteristic simplicity. A comfortable style of furniture, of no originality in fabrication, some handsome paintings, a bronze or two, and that was all. A bust of Moliere and another of Voltaire indicated that French literature was honored in the house; and, were the library of value, it was rather through choiceness in works than the number of volumes or the richness of their bindings. Upon a table a few sheets of writing-paper scarcely indicated the profession of the master of the household; but nowhere could be seen that paraphernalia, that scenic decoration, denoting a sanctuary, wherein pipes, foils and old crockery cry aloud to the visitor: "Attention! you are in the home of a prince of the pen!"

Upon Rose the impression was otherwise. The household was such as befits any man in comfortable circumstances. He discoursed upon many topics without assuming the tone of an infallible professor, and even upon theatrical matters he explained himself in so reserved a fashion as to convey the idea of not being connected with dramatic art. A person unacquainted with him would have taken him to have been at the utmost a mere connoisseur, a man of education, and one of taste. How opposite to the La Trefailles, Chapelaines, Fortune Lamies and other Philippins—coxcombs who, in two words, pass judgment upon every new piece.

When she emerged from this author's society her ideas were enlarged, more serene, upon a multitude of subjects; her appreciative faculties had found a solid basis; she comprehended more fully art, and could define talent. Obliged to return to Paris for dinner, as she performed that evening, she was conducted by the author, his sister and child, to the railroad station, and, sensible to the attentions of which she had been the object, she took delight in mentally reviewing the impressions created during that agreeable and lovely day. It was simply upon leaving the train that she remembered the motive for the excursion—George's marriage. She was astonished at not experiencing the bitterness of the morning; her sorrow was in some sort modified, and with a sincere pity, while thinking of George and the ceremonial still in progress, she said to herself:

"The poor fellow!"

She arrived at the theatre in a happy state of mind, and with a smile upon her countenance. During an entr'acte, as she entered the greenroom, she observed a group of her companions, joyous and laughing, in the midst of whom one chanted, in a half voice, a species of lamentation, reading from a manuscript. Perceiving Rose, the reader ceased and folded up the sheet.

"What have you there?" inquired she.

"Nothing," was the slightly embarrassed response, and the group dispersed.

It was a lamentation upon George's marriage—a collection of sarcastic couplets, if not in the highest possible style of taste, at least very exact as to the sentiments attributed to its hero. A stanza, the one before the last, alluded to Rose, who was therein complimented.

About the same hour Lemarddy's salons, gleaming with lustrous light, contained a fair proportion of "all Paris," theatrical and artistic, commingled with the cream of shipping-merchants, of express magnates, and of those ruling commerce at wholesale.

"A bouquet of flowers," observed Benjamin.

George, slightly humiliated by the plebeian ideas of his father-in-law, who in truth spoke too freely, although his tongue was perceptibly thick, looked at his watch after the manner of a man commencing to be annoyed at self-exhibition. Nevertheless, on all sides, homage was outpoured upon him. Not one of the two hundred present failed to slip in a compliment upon his literary productions, and there was no telling how many times "The Old Folks" had been brought upon the carpet. In the end George became provoked. Very pretty. "The Old Folks!"—still ever "The Old Folks." Yes, entirely too much of "The Old Folks."

At eleven o'clock the married couple retired, arm in arm, like a worthy husband and wife of some years' standing. Aglae did not shed tears.

In the ante-chamber, while putting on his overcoat, George perceived a group of four or five of his colleagues. They were laughing while listening to something sung by Benjamin in a low tone of voice. He noticed one of the auditors calling the attention of the others to his presence.

"Is it a seditious song?" inquired George with a smile.

"A song for bachelors," responded Benjamin, "and can no longer concern you."

It was the dirge composed upon his marriage.

Five days thereafter, Rose, at her house, in the morning heard someone ring the bell with a violence causing her to tremble. She expected no visitors; who could it be? A presentiment said to her—it is he! Was it so? A little reflection suggested that it was not impossible. What could be his errand? She composed herself, and went to open the door. Her presentiment did not deceive her—it was George. Perceiving him, she recoiled in trepidation.

"Ah!" quoth he, his voice stiding with anger, "fear not. It is no lover returning to you."

"Hello," said he, "you here, my children? What luck?"

The individual was in his proper business, an advertisement collector—that was his solid trade. Still as an honorary one, he was, in addition, editor-in-chief of The Melpomene, a neat little fraud, published daily, but whose reading matter was changed but once a week. It was an opposition to The Entr'Acte, Michel Levy's newspaper. Devoting a large space to the programmes of performances, the edition was distributed in variable numbers at the theatre-doors or in the interior of concert-saloons. To tell the truth, the good fellow had no great care about sales, as his profit came from another source. To the newspaper business was conjoined a dramatic agency, a species of intelligence-office for the employment of actors, singers, dancers, acrobats of either sex, prestidigitateurs, lecturers and learned dogs. The Melpomene entertained no prejudices as to articles dealt in.

Still, the most difficult part of his enterprise was to secure each week a competent supply of reading matter. Not that copy is a rare article of merchandise at Paris; on the contrary, there exists good and bad, and in any quantity you may desire, and, moreover, it is brought to your door, and in the most polite manner, little dreaming that you ever stand in the slightest need of it. But the editor-in-chief of The Melpomene really did stand in need of it. Although there was transmitted to him from Paris and the provinces, by prepaid letters, matter enough to fill eight papers of the size of his, still he was discontented; for be it repeated, copy still failed him. He merely required contributions to possess a solitary quality—they must be gratuitous. It was useless to discuss matters with him on that score—it was his fancy. Hence it was that, having obtained the lamentation at this rate, he pronounced it charming, and hurried to set it up in double columns, heavily leaded, and to print it on his first page. The visit of George, flanked by two friends, was to discover the author of this lamentation. With a couple of words, the matter was explained.

"You seek an affair of honor?" inquired the editor-in-chief.

"Precisely so!" responded George.

"Should I not name the author?"

"I hold you responsible."

"Excellent!" exclaimed the editor. "We have not wind enough to blow in favor of the liberty of the press, and, while we stick at that point, it is better to whip out the sword. I am sorry, my boy," he added, taking out his pipe; "but I have fought five times; my proofs are corrected, and I make my bow. State your cause of action, if you think proper, and we will see who'll have the best of the bargain."

"My boy," retorted George, returning the apostrophe, "I am determined not to suffer myself to be villified by the first scullion coming along. My plays, my works, I surrender to you; as to my individuality, I forbid intrusion—there the public has no business."

He imagined himself to have performed marvels. The editor resumed his pipe, knocked out the ashes, lit it again, and spoke in a paternal manner:

"My dear George, you are but an ingrate. If you are anything, if you sell your merchandise, you owe it less to your talent—which, between us, is not overburdening—than to me, who have trumpeted your praises and rung the changes as if you were a phenomenon. We have chronicled your coughs and colds, we have loaned you the witticisms of Chamfort, of Dumas the elder and of Dumas the younger, of Barriere, and of other acknowledged wits; we have demonstrated to the public by which leg you draw on your pantaloons, how many cutlets you devour for breakfast, besides describing your beauty-marks. You found that all very fine, and consequently you have granted us the right to puff you to all eternity, if it so please us. You consent to surrender your pieces—that's cheek! Your pieces—who remembers them now? The royalty is three francs, my dear fellow, the line—discount off, due you. As to your individuality, it is ours, my handsome friend; you surrendered it to us when bringing, your heart in your mouth, the notes necessary for publication of your biography, when allowing your photograph to be sold at half a franc by all the stationers of civilized Europe; when you shamelessly sold of yourself, to pay at the debating club of the Boulevard des Capuchins. I paid a hundred sous for my place, and I have the right to tell you, if it so pleases me, that you have a hooked nose, cross eyes, and the physiognomy of a vain man. When it came to be praising you, you had nothing but smiles to distribute among us, and for four years we have crammed our subscribers with endless stories on your account, informing them, under latest intelligence, your change in mistresses. And you pretend, at this day, to forbid us attacking your individuality? Too late, my worthy Andre Victor Leon Libourt! In place of supplying us with stones to throw into your colleagues' glass-houses, you had but to continue the sale of your father's hogs, and we would never have taken notice of you—and prayed you to 'accept the expression of high esteem,' and, in default of knowing, would have written you down monsieur, as plain as my arm."

MISS AMY FAWSITT AS LADY GAY SPANKER IN "LONDON ASSURANCE."

Having delivered this harangue, the sturdy fellow, perceiving George grow pale, walked in front of his threatening visitor.

"After all," quoth he, "it was kind in me to put on the Boeotians to have published the lamentation because it suited me; and, if you be not satisfied, it will be prudent to go and complain elsewhere. Patience is not my predominant quality—with blackguards."

As he finished, George lashed his hand across the man's face and dashed the pipe against the wall, shivering it into fragments. Twenty minutes thereafter the coffee-houses De Suede, De l'Ambiger, De la Porte Saint Martin and Des Varieties were in commotion.

"La Trefailles is to fight Father Grignot!"

"Father Grignot?" sneered the exquisites. "A younger son who has wallowed in a mess of muck of the meanest kind, more or less filthy ——"

"The very same."

"Poor George, I fear! This is the last drop in the bucket; he's caved in!"

At that period pistols were in vogue, and they set about casting bullets.

To avoid causing his wife uneasiness, George had recourse to Fortune Lamie, his second, with Fortune Lamie, to receive his adversary's representatives at his house. The conference was very short. Grignot, being the insulted, had, as of right, choice of weapons, place and of time. However, upon this last point George urged a reservation. He did not desire to fight before noon, so that he could leave his wife without exciting her suspicions.

Benjamin had hard work to enforce this stipulation. Furthermore, out of respect for Philippin's sister, Fortune Lamie made the omission of the principal preliminary offices, with the view of obtaining suppression of allusion to the affair for twenty-four hours—a delicate and difficult mission. The public are so ravenous for such scandals! A duel between literary men, is it not likewise a "festival of intelligence?"

When George visited Benjamin's house to exhibit his case of pistols, that gentleman indulged in a grimace.

"Are you expert with the sword?" he inquired.

George shook his head.

"Still," rejoined Benjamin, "the walls of your apartment are encumbered with trophies, foils and sabres?"

"My heavens!" extenuated George piteously. "I admire arms, but ——"

"You must use them," retorted Benjamin with his habitual laugh.

"Hold on, then," he continued, writing hastily on a piece of paper. "Gatechairs' godson is one of my friends, and I will summon him, all excuses laid aside. At all events, he'll teach you a master-stroke, warranted to win."

The summoned individual very shortly arrived, with his fencing implements under his arm. He was a small man, mild, good-looking, who would not harm a mosquito. Through his gentleness, he would have returned out of his way rather than disturb a dog sleeping on the sidewalk. Godson to the leading fencing-master of Paris, he had been pupil to his sponsor in baptism and had succeeded him in the business, firmly believing his mission on earth to be the instruction of his contemporaries in the most scientific method of sending fellow-mortals into a world to come. Upon entrance, he gazed in admiration upon Benjamin's furniture, for that worthy deemed himself dishonored without cabinet-ware of the Mazarin era. It was not wholly appropriate in view of the exigencies of the apartment, still Benjamin was convinced that the effect was "enormous!"

"Old oak, brand-new!" quoth Chapelaine, rallying his colleague.

"La Trefailles is to fight Father Grignot!"

"Father Grignot?" sneered the exquisites. "A younger son who has wallowed in a mess of muck of the meanest kind, more or less filthy ——"

"The very same."

"Poor George, I fear! This is the last drop in the bucket; he's caved in!"

At that period pistols were in vogue, and they set about casting bullets.

To avoid causing his wife uneasiness, George had recourse to Fortune Lamie, his second, with Fortune Lamie, to receive his adversary's representatives at his house. The conference was very short. Grignot, being the insulted, had, as of right, choice of weapons, place and of time. However, upon this last point George urged a reservation. He did not desire to fight before noon, so that he could leave his wife without exciting her suspicions.

Benjamin had hard work to enforce this stipulation. Furthermore, out of respect for Philippin's sister, Fortune Lamie made the omission of the principal preliminary offices, with the view of obtaining suppression of allusion to the affair for twenty-four hours—a delicate and difficult mission. The public are so ravenous for such scandals! A duel between literary men, is it not likewise a "festival of intelligence?"

When George visited Benjamin's house to exhibit his case of pistols, that gentleman indulged in a grimace.

"Are you expert with the sword?" he inquired.

George shook his head.

"Still," rejoined Benjamin, "the walls of your apartment are encumbered with trophies, foils and sabres?"

"My heavens!" extenuated George piteously. "I admire arms, but ——"

"You must use them," retorted Benjamin with his habitual laugh.

"Hold on, then," he continued, writing hastily on a piece of paper. "Gatechairs' godson is one of my friends, and I will summon him, all excuses laid aside. At all events, he'll teach you a master-stroke, warranted to win."

The summoned individual very shortly arrived, with his fencing implements under his arm. He was a small man, mild, good-looking, who would not harm a mosquito. Through his gentleness, he would have returned out of his way rather than disturb a dog sleeping on the sidewalk. Godson to the leading fencing-master of Paris, he had been pupil to his sponsor in baptism and had succeeded him in the business, firmly believing his mission on earth to be the instruction of his contemporaries in the most scientific method of sending fellow-mortals into a world to come. Upon entrance, he gazed in admiration upon Benjamin's furniture, for that worthy deemed himself dishonored without cabinet-ware of the Mazarin era. It was not wholly appropriate in view of the exigencies of the apartment, still Benjamin was convinced that the effect was "enormous!"

"Old oak, brand-new!" quoth Chapelaine, rallying his colleague.

After the finished, George lashed his hand across the man's face and dashed the pipe against the wall, shivering it into fragments. Twenty minutes thereafter the coffee-houses De Suede, De l'Ambiger, De la Porte Saint Martin and Des Varieties were in commotion

NEW YORK CLIPPER.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1876.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

☞ Letters seeking information replied to only through this department; no answers by mail.

HAM, Olympic.—"Oblige three or four of us with the pronunciation of 'Sardanapalus' and 'speciality.'" ..... 1. The ancient and modern schools are in conflict as to classic pronunciation. Again, proper names, more than any other class of words, are the subject of individual taste; so that a man may spell his name Smycelthe, and no one shall tell him that he is wrong in speaking of himself as Mr. Smith simply. "Sardanapalus" is variously pronounced Sar-da-nap-a-lus (modern) and Sar-dan-a-pay-lus, the weight of authority being in favor of the latter. Lord Byron himself, in his poems, placed the accent on the penultimate syllable, as expressed above in pay; but he would also have accented the penultimate syllable in Alexandria (Alexan-dree), and yet modern people will continue to speak of it as Alexandria. This, like Sardanapalus, is to English-speaking people the natural or self-evident pronunciation, and it will ultimately prevail, as Arkansaw must in time wholly give way to Arkansas, which latter has been coming to the front for thirty years past. 2. "Speciality" (spesh-al-i-ty) is no longer sanctioned by general usage, its place being in course of gradual usurpation by a shorter, neater, and equally expressive word—"specialty" (spesh-al-ty). 3. The lines will cost one dollar and fifty cents for one insertion.

R. D. W.—A certain great states he landed in this country thirty years ago, and landed at Castle Garden. How long since has Castle Garden been the emigrant depot, or was it on any occasion used for the landing or storing of emigrants before the Commissioners took possession of it? He states he landed in the ship Ontario, and there was a large number of sick taken off her and landed in the Garden. He also states that it is one hundred and fifty years since it was built. ..... 1. Since 1855. It had been a garden, theatre, a concert and minstrel hall, an opera-house, a ball and Sunday-school anniversary, and a house for the public reception for notabilities for upwards of twenty years before that, or ever since the Indian chief Black Hawk trod its planks, and General Jackson came within an ace of standing up to his neck in mud because of the giving-way of the bridge. 2. The gentleman may have been carried into the Garden in a blanket, on the same principle that his child would have been readily accorded shelter in any of the palatial private mansions abounding in that quarter in 1846; but the proper place for them was at Quarantine, which was then at Stapleton, S. I., and had been for a great many years. 3. It was built until after the Revolutionary War.

JOHN, Pittsburg.—"I have seen in THE CLIPPER at different times that if a man and wife, both American citizens, were traveling in any foreign country, and had a male child born while away, it was an American citizen, and was eligible to the Presidency. I made a bet the agreement was right. He would take no authority but the Constitution of the United States, and I can see nothing in it to prove I am right. Will you please tell me how I can prove him that your paper is right?" ..... Address the Secretary of State, Washington, D. C. Here is what that official years ago addressed to THE CLIPPER: "The sons who have decided that a child born out of the United States is a citizen, if the father was one at the time of its birth. Consequently, such male child is eligible to the Presidency of the United States (though, through the force of circumstances, he was born in a foreign country), the other requirements being fulfilled." The late Maj.-gen. George Meade was born in Spain, and yet it was proposed at one time to make him for the Presidency.

VAN, New York.—"A and B play a game of cribbage of 121 points. A plays to 125 points, counts his hand, which holds 29 points, runs to 125 points in all. B runs to 100 points, counts his hand, which holds eleven, and claims out. The question (which is to decide a bet) is which is out and winner of the game, A or B?" ..... A wins. Such is our opinion in the absence of any rule of the game to the contrary. As A's peg was not in the end-hole, B might well have claimed that A had never gone twice around the board, and consequently was but 65. A has by actual count fixed place in the game, and his peg shows that his place or status must be, if not 125, then either 5 or 65. It seems, from the statement made above, that B, instead of questioning A's hand and score, simply admits the fact that A pegged to or made 125. A player who is 125 has necessarily to be 121, and 121 make A winner of this game. B's admission as to the making of the 125 is fatal to his own claim as to game.

G. W. S.—"A bets B that he will name a day in the month of October, 1876, that a certain yacht dare not sail around the Sandy-hook lightship. B says: 'I am to have twenty-four hours to do it in.' A says: 'Yes, you can have forty-eight, the yacht to start on the day I name.' Now, the yacht starts on the day named by A, after sailing a short distance towards the lightship, anchors and remains so for twenty-four hours or more, but sails around the lightship and returns to starting-point in less than the forty-eight hours allowed her. Now, A says that he meant for the yacht to keep sailing all the time. Does not B win the bet?" ..... The yacht could start any time within the first twenty-four hours, and could anchor or stop only from the lightship during the next twenty-four; but, having started, she could not come to anchor and wait for favorable weather, but must once under way keep on a practical beam, and she could not get under weigh a second time. A wins.

P. R. S., Stooperstown.—"1. A man on each of the bases and a man at the bat. The man at bat struck the ball, and in running to first base accidentally kicked the ball so as to prevent the catcher from getting it in time to catch the man running to first base. Is he entitled to the base, or has to get the ball on home-plate before the man on third base could get in, but did not touch the base-runner. The umpire called the man out on home out. He claims he was forced, and afterwards decided the man at bat out for kicking the ball. Were his decisions right? 2. Is a man out until declared out by the umpire? 3. A man is considered dead when kicked by a player? 4. Has a captain of a nine the right to rule out an umpire for unfair ruling?" ..... 1. Yes, in both instances. 2 No. 3. No. 4 No; he has a right to appeal, but the umpire can only be removed by a mutual agreement by both the captains.

FRANK J.—"A bets B he will win first or second money. Only three horses start. A comes in third; but the horse that won first money was protested. The bet was made previous to the race." ..... Unless A will admit that he never even dreamed of a protest, and was therefore betting simply upon the relative positions of the horses at the wire, the bet will have to go as the protest goes (or has gone, for we are not told what disposition, if any, has been made of it). From the statement here submitted we cannot define the intent of the bettors. It is possible that A may have known or thought that one of the horses was ineligible. If so, he is entitled to the benefit of his knowledge or surmise, and can win it the protest is sustained. But if he will admit that he was betting on the race merely, then he loses.

CARDINAL, Helena.—"There is a man on first base, and the batsman knocks a ball to pitcher, and, under the impression it will be caught, does not run. The pitcher muffs the ball, and, the first-baseman failing to run, the pitcher picks up the ball, and puts it to first base before the striker can get there, and then touches the man remaining on the base. Are both players out? I contend that the base was vacated, as soon as the ball reached it, by the striker being put out." ..... The pitcher should have first touched the base-runner on first base, and then held the ball on the base; then both would have been out. As it was, only the striker was put out.

ELKHART, Ind.—"1. Draw-poker. A is dealing. B and D stay and call for three cards each. A makes a mistake, and gives B two and himself three. B goes on and fills his hand, and D calls. D claims B's hand foul. Which takes the pot? 2. In playing seven-up, and the cards run out to the last card. It is the dealer's right to take the last card, if the man that begs says so; or bunch them, if he says so?" ..... 1. D wins, if B either looked at the face of his cards or raised them prior to discovering that he had but four. Otherwise, the dealer should give him one more card. 2. No. The cards must be bunched, unless all parties agree to accept the odd card as trump.

PHILADELPHIA.—"What is the meaning of the term vaudeville as applied to artists. 2. What is the meaning of the term landaulet, as applied to an ex-Attorney-general of the United States? 3. What is the pronunciation of the words café and carte blanch?" ..... 1. Performers whose specialty is playing in light pieces, the dialogue of which is interspersed with songs. 2. It is a nickname, and her personal application is due to the fact that a certain Attorney-general once figured conspicuously in connection with a vehicle or wagon called landaulet. 3. Fay (as), Kart-blansh.

SCIENCE, Wilford.—"Of chess and checkers, which is the most scientific? And of cassino and whist? ..... 1. Chess in general regarded as the most difficult game, owing to its great number of combinations. 2. To play cassino in first-class style is more difficult than to play whist. Whist can almost be played by rule, and as the cards fall four at a time, and are soon in possession of all, it requires but little effort of the memory to keep run of them than at cassino. But never venture to say this to a man who is a good whist-player and prefer an indifferent cassino-player or none at all. In speaking here of whist, we have no reference to the variety known as "double dummy."

SHORT CITY BOY, Pittsburg.—"1. Is there any of the United States where the Indians or Orangemen are not allowed to parade? If so, what sect or States? 2. Is Harry Hurdic now traveling? 3. Where did J. K. Emmet live when he was a boy? 4. Is there any law against prohibition anywhere in the States; but the local authorities, subject to Executive approval, may at any time forbid whatever parade is likely to jeopardize good order. 2. As the season has not yet fairly opened, we cannot say whether Harry Hurdic is or will be traveling or not. 3. J. K. Emmet, when a boy, lived in St. Louis, Mo.

B. D., Worcester.—"A bets B that Daniel Webster's brain weighed more than Thomas D'Arcy McGee's." ..... There are known to surgery but few larger brains than Webster's. One was that of Cuvier the French naturalist, while the largest of all was that of a day-laborer who did not know enough to come in out of the rain. As we have not the weight of D'Arcy McGee's (which, by the way, we had not supposed to be of remarkable heft), you had better write the editor of The Montreal Gazette, who may give you the results of the autopsy. Give him the date of death—April 7, in 1868, at Ottawa, Can.

BOUNCER, Hyde Park.—"Man on first base; man at bat hits fly ball, which pitcher muffs and throws to first base, and puts batsman out. The question is: Is the man on first entitles to reach second, and first baseman throws the ball to second, and it is held on the base before base-runner gets there. Is he out?" ..... He was not out. The moment the striker was put out by the base-runner running to first, the second ceased to be "forced out," and had to be touched. Not being touched, he was not out. The rule is quite clear on this point.

IGNORANCE, Elizabethport.—The laws of the various States differ on that point. As the State in which you live is not mentioned in the heading of your note, or anywhere else, we cannot decide. Besides, if this is not an idle question, its answer is one that by all means, and in protection of the different interests involved, should be left to one entirely disconnected with the issue. Mere living together is of itself not sufficient to constitute legal marriage in any State. In this State coupled with sundry indispensable conditions, it will suffice.

WALLACE, Greene.—"1. Who was Grace Darling, and where departing for, as represented in the engraving so often met with in the shops? 2. Can the music be obtained at the principal offices in New York of the song published in THE CLIPPER under the head of 'Clipper Varieties'?" ..... 1. Daughter of James Darling, keeper of the Outer Fern Lighthouse, British coast. She and he went out in a heavy sea, one stormy night in 1839, and rescued some fifteen passengers of the wrecked steamer Forfarshire, running between Hull, Eng., and Dundee, Scotland. No.

RYAN COUNTY, San Antonio.—"Where does the plover-bird migrate in Winter? Where does it hatch its young, and what does it feed on?" ..... There are three or four varieties, most of them, if not all, found in the Southern and Southwestern States. Probably you mean the field-plover or sand-piper. Passing to Autumns and Winters in the South we will say that Spring and Summer are found North. Seeds, berries, beetles, crickets, and grasshoppers are its food.

L. S.—"1. Which is the largest river in the U. S. My friend says the Mississippi, and I said the Missouri. We have looked in the geography, but that does not decide it. 2. Also the length of each?" ..... 1. The Missouri. 2. Missouri, 3,600; Mississippi, 2,986. These figures are believed to be nearer than any others. The largeness of the Missouri is not wholly due to its length, however. It has much more volume than the Mississippi.

TOM PEPPER.—"Partner-euchre (not assisting). Partner orders his partner down and plays it alone. I play it alone against him, and he makes three tricks. How many points is he entitled to?" ..... One. You would have been entitled to two had you made three or five tricks. Five tricks would have given him four. You could not go alone against 4, and gain anything by so doing, unless the game was "railroad euchre."

H. W. P., E. Hardwick.—"1. Where is Stokes, who shot Fisk? 2. Why is not Hilton addressed to the lady in care of this office will reach her.

J. G. S., Pittsfield.—We know nothing of them further than that they advertise.

TREMONT HOUSE, Boston.—"Is there more territory in Dominion of Canada than in United States?" ..... No.

W. H. and C. Heenan and Jim Mace sparred together at the Old Bowery Theatre, this city, Feb. 11, 1870.

WAVERLY, Ia.—"Who is the ablest orator in this country?" ..... It is a matter of individual opinion.

T. S., Troy.—"When did American Girl die, and what was her best time?" ..... Oct. 2, 1875. 2. 2:16¼.

INQUIRER, Garrettsville.—Needing but one, B goes out on his high, which takes precedence of A's low-jack-game.

G. S.—"How many miles between Jersey City and Philadelphia?" ..... About eighty-six.

MISS H. Z. R., New Orleans.—No answers by mail. Address a letter to Ann in care of this office, and it will reach.

J. H. C., Halifax.—Thank you for the photo of "Our Boys."

A SUBSCRIBER.—Thank you; but the game is not worth the powder.

READER.—A teacher of music can fit you for the stage as a serio-comic vocalist.

J. C.—We cannot spare the space for their republication.

A. F. F., Baltimore.—Any leading book-store in your city can furnish them.

WM. G.—"1. Is it true that he will beat eleven throwing dice. A throws eleven." ..... A loses.

PIQUE, Boston.—We cannot advise you, except to keep out of politics.

F. F. A., Rockford.—1. Yes, for 1875. 2. There is no such work published.

H. W. C., Meyerstown.—Cannot say whether he is engaged or not.

MERSON CLUB.—The London Clown cricketers are reported to have arrived.

F. R. K., New Brunswick.—You do not state the case clearly.

E. H., Syracuse.—Cannot say. We have yet to see a game played without an error by either nine.

W. A., Newark.—Simmonds & Wall, 10 Union square, New York; Col. T. Allston Brown, 9 West Fourth street.

J. R. LEVINA.—Your subscription will expire with No. 31, Vol. 24.

C. O'N., Marlboro.—Never heard of the company before.

L. C., West Suffield.—"Can you inform me where Gen. Thomas Francis Meagher was drowned, and the name of the steamer on which he was at the time?" ..... 1. Upper Missouri River, near Fort Benton, July 1, 1867. 2. It was the second. M. M. Forrest third. Time, 36min. Knot.

WILLIAMS & CO.—"What is the largest size sheet the New York Herald can print at one impression? Also, is The York Herald can print at one impression? Also, is The York Herald the largest sheet printed at once?" ..... 17x25 inches. 2. Both sides are printed at the same time.

UNO.—Generally, a husband can be held responsible for contracts made by a wife, whether she is under age or over. Consult a lawyer, if any "fine work" is contemplated.

W. J. S., Canajoharie.—Length of steamship Great Eastern, 680ft.

EX, Sarnia.—Bets are off, that particular game having been declared null and void.

ROCK, Trenton.—Yes. Address The Scientific American or The American Artisan, this city.

H. L. M., Waverly.—"I saw in The ..... Lulu's best time given at 2:14¾. Is that correct?" ..... No. 2:15.

R. A. L., Rutland.—Address E. George, 164 Maiden lane, New York.

W. J. H.—1. Nat C. Goodwin was born in Boston, Mass. 2. In Ireland.

J. H. J.—Billy Edwards and Sam Collyer last fought in West Virginia, Aug. 11, 1874.

THOMAS SEABURY, Washington.—1. The fight was given to Campbell. 2. Apply to the secretary for information.

E. H. L.—THE CLIPPER ALMANAC, price fifteen cents, contains the information desired.

H. H. Brown, Amboy.—Bill Poole was shot Feb. 25, 1855, and died March 8.

GLICK, Chicago.—Neither Lester Wallack nor James W. Wallack Jr. ever managed a theatre in Boston, Mass.

L. J. C., New Haven.—We never heard of her; but a letter addressed in care of this office may reach her.

STEVE.—The man who bet upon Higgins wins, Morris being out of it entirely on the first day.

SALEM.—You win. It is the non-dealer's right, at two-handed seven-up, to make the misdealer deal again.

H. F. C., Council Bluffs.—Your theory as to table stakes is not a popular one.

H. G. S.—Write to Theo. J. Harbach, who advertises.

TENTH MAN.—He is not much over thirty, if that.

RACE.—Decidedly a first-class performer.

CLIPPER READER, South Bend.—Dexter is living.

S. B. V.—Letter No. 1 will be sent.

EXCELSIOR.—"Lula's best record ....." 2:15.

MIKE.—Your O'Flaherty's dope is correct.

L. W. C.—We have a correspondent there.

DUFFER.—Tom Sayers never fought Mace.

F. S., Boston.—See answer to "H. J. D."

AMATEUR.—C bats first.

E. J. B.—A loses.

ON THE SQUARE.—Of the many sporting events which have been brought to the notice of the public during our Centennial observances, no other has given such general satisfaction as the international rifle-shooting contest at Creedmoor, a report of which may be found in another part of this issue of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER. We do not wish to be understood as saying that our gratification was caused by the triumph of the American team over the representatives of Ireland, Scotland, Australia and Canada, although we certainly feel a pride in the victory achieved by our own sharpshooters over such experts as the "foreigners" have proved themselves to be. No; the general satisfaction was in the knowledge that the match was on the square; that each participant in the contest exerted every honest effort to secure the laurels for the country he represented, and for the team of which he was a member. Each and every man "shot for his side," if we may so express it, without regard to pools or any other outside influences; and the thousands of spectators who viewed the shooting knew that the match would be decided on its merits, as it most surely was. There was no wrangling, no charges of foul practices, no throwing-off, no buying or selling, nor any of those many fraudulent artifices which, we regret to say, have characterized sporting matches of late years, and brought them into such disrepute. There was nothing of the sort to mar the world-wide interest manifested in the great rifle-shoot at Creedmoor; vanquished and victor were alike congratulated on the splendid display they had made; and if there was any regret at all, it was because all were not victors. When the shooters assembled at Gilmore's Garden on Friday evening last, to witness the presentation of the grand prize, and badges and medals for individual skill, eight thousand persons gathered there in honor of the occasion; showing, by their presence, and by the interest they manifested in the proceedings, that honest effort will ever receive public encouragement and support, while dishonest practices in the sporting world will meet with condemnation and disapproval. We thank the world's representative rifle-shooters for the example they have shown our sporting friends, for the good influence they have and manly dealing must exert in behalf of our pastimes, which, owing to corruption and fraud, have almost ceased to possess interest for the public. Let those concerned learn to profit by the lesson the riflemen have taught them.

IT DOES seem a little bad that, after fruitlessly endeavoring to make both ends meet during the heated term, the proprietors of "the illegal frame shanties" in the vicinity of the Centennial Exhibitions should be compelled to remove their structures just at the time that they were beginning to make up for their Summer losses. If the buildings were put up in violation of law, the owners should have been notified before they had expended time, labor and money in the hope of doing a paying business when the cool weather set in.

CRIMINALS have an abhorrence to being brought up before Recorder Hackett, because he seems to know all about them before any evidence is heard. A man, unknown to fame, but not to the Recorder, recently saved himself twenty years' imprisonment by pleading guilty; his sentence would have been forty years, but he got off with twenty!

BRET HARTE and Stuart Robson the comedian have succeeded in waking up a very lively discussion about the merits of "The Two Men of Sandy Bar," and in their way have secured a good deal of cheap advertising, which ought to successfully carry the two men through the country without any bar.

IF ANY of the conscientious critics of this city have received a "retainer" for favorable comments on new plays, they must have kept it to themselves; and that is what exasperates those guileless critics who are above suspicion, and who received no sugar!

THE EQUINOCTIAL STORM made things very uncomfortable for strangers in Philadelphia last Sunday. Some of the old-timers, who got pretty well "soaked," say they never before saw so much water!

THE FESTIVE SEASON opened last week at Creedmore, with "The Rifle Ball," in which the representatives of all nations participated.

THE "RACE for the 4-year old stakes" can be seen in Jim's boarding-house any morning when the gong sounds! So he says.

VICTORIA WOODHULL has just been granted a divorce from her husband. This is the latest case of Blood-shed.

A WESTERN baseball club is so fair in its dealings that it's poison to all fraud. It should be called the strict nine!

ISN'T it about time that something was said about Lucius Robinson's income tax? Why this apathy?

IT MUST be easy for monarchs to write, because they can always find plenty of subjects.

POLITICIANS running for office may be old men, and still not attain their majority!

FASHIONABLE PEOPLE admire lacquer work, but poor people don't.

NEWS OF THE WEEK BOILED DOWN.

. On Sept. 11: The State election in Maine was carried by the Republicans, large gains over last year being reported in their favor .....Foreign telegrams stated that an attempt was made to assassinate President Grevy of France, and in the fight which ensued four men were killed; that at a banquet in Belgrade, at the Russian Consulate, Prince Milan, in proposing the health of the Emperor of Russia, said that Czar was Serbia's great friend and protector, and the Russian Consul-general, in acknowledging the congratulations of a delegation previously received, said that henceforth Russia and Serbia were united; that Earl Derby, in replying to the address of deputations of workingmen, denied that the English Government was in any sense responsible for the atrocities in the Turkish provinces, and that the conviction that England desired fair play had done more than anything else to prevent the war from assuming the character of a religious war, and that henceforth Turkish reforms would be in many provinces instead of in one; that the Sub-prefect of Port Mahon, Spain, had been arrested, and will be prosecuted should it be proved that he has violated the religious toleration clause of the constitution; that the people of Crete are satisfied with the Government's action, and will oppose the landing of filibusters; that the Turks had commenced their movement against the Servian D p gs alone after B, his partner, has made the trump?" ..... High, low, jack, game, pedro. 2. No. 3. No.

J. F. P., Detroit.—To avoid paying a dramatic agent his fee for procuring you an engagement, apply personally to some manager for an engagement, or advertise therefor. An advertisement will cost you 15 cents per line for each insertion.

MEPHISTO, Boston.—Actors never use false noses of the kind you name. They chance the shape of their own by the adjustment of wax, which they mould to suit and satisfy their complexion. Any theatrical costumer can supply the pasteboard noses.

FLAX, Marion.—"1. Can you give me names of any papers (American) which quote prices of flax, flax-tow, hemp, hemp-tow, etc? 2. What is the correct English pronunciation of Psyche?" ..... 1. Journal of Commerce, this city. 2. The pronunciation is dictated by fashion.

BILLIARDS, Richmond.—As we know nothing of your capacity for receiving instruction, we cannot tell how long it would require to make you once more "the finest private billiard player." What an expert could teach you at billiards would be but a drop in the "first-rate" bucket.

W. H.—The late Charlotte Cushman acted Meg Merrilies on a few occasions at the National Theatre, Boston, about Nov. 21, 1851, for the first time, and at Brougham's Lyceum, this city, Nov. 24, following. She also acted Romeo with great success at the Old Bowery in 1845 or 1846.

SUICIDE.—Dr. Bonnell, Cardinal Mayor's physician in Paris, R. I.; Capt. James Clark, by hanging, at Newport, Ky.; Chas. Kaufman, by drowning, at Cincinnati, O. ..... Cable dispatches stated that on the 20th inst. the Danish Vice-consul at Porto Rico, while seated in the deck-house of the steamship Cimbria, was killed by a sudden lurch of the vessel, which crushed his head against the bulwarks; that seven hundred Russians had arrested at Belgrade for the two days; that a new commission of inquiry appointed by the Turkish Government will go immediately to Philippopolis to investigate the Bulgarian atrocities, to the perpetrators of the outrages and punish the guilty; that the Turkish Government has ordered all its commanders to discontinue hostilities until further notice, and Prince Milan has sent similar orders to General Tchernayeff and the other Serbian commanders; that many cipher dispatches have passed between Belgrade, London and Constantinople; and that the Queen Regent of Spain, has ordered the Protestant pastor there to keep the door of his chapel closed, because external manifestations are prohibited by the constitution .....Thomas Tripp of Westport, and James G. Dower of Newport, were reported to have been lost overboard from the schooner Petrel Aug. 20 .....Patrick J. McNamara was run over and killed on the railroad at Avery Junction, Mass .....Daniel Dudley was shot and mortally wounded by John Bennett at South Boston, Mass .....F. H. Conant & Sons' furniture and chair manufactory, at Camden, N. Y., was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of about $50,000; insured for $15,000.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Weekly Record of the Decease of Prominent Individuals.

COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

RUTHERFORD, Gen. George V.—A native of Rutland, Vt., where he was born in 1830. After receiving a liberal education, he studied law and was admitted to practice. Later he was appointed a superintendent of the construction of telegraph lines in the Southern States, and was for several years thereafter engaged in telegraphing in that locality. He afterwards engaged in the practice of his profession at Tuscumbia, Ala., but after two years removed to Quincy, Ill., a short time before the outbreak of the Rebellion. In 1861 Gov. Yates appointed him Assistant Quartermaster-general for the State, and a similar position was afterwards given him in the U. S. Government service under Gen. Grant. He subsequently went to Washington, where he remained until the close of the war. He then returned to Quincy, Ill., and in 1872 removed to Northampton, Mass., where he was engaged in manufacturing business. His health failing, he removed to the Pacific coast last November—St. Helena, Cal., Aug. 28, aged 46.

BROWN, Thomas G.—A native of New England. He removed to Philadelphia when quite young, and for the past twenty years had kept a boot-and-shoe store on Market street, below Seventh. Suicide by drowning—Sept. 10.

BOOTH, Hon. James W.—An old resident of the Ninth Ward of this city, where, from his business and office building, he transacted an immense amount of business. A native of this city, was educated in its public schools, and was apprenticed to the dyeing business, which he followed in Bedford street until about 1864. Early in his career he manifested a deep interest in the affairs municipal of the metropolis, and nearly forty years ago was prominent in the Volunteer Fire Department, having been one of the original members of No. 40. Was also a Mason, and for years he was a School-trustee of the Ninth Ward, and he was a Regent of the State University, being succeeded by Oswald Ottendorfer, when the deceased gentleman was three years ago elected Senator on the Republican ticket. His Democratic candidate. One year ago he was re-elected Senator, Sydney P. Nichols, the present Police Commissioner, being his opponent. He was one of the Fire Department Commissioners appointed by Gov. Fenton, and later was a member of the Board of Education. He was in the last two sessions of the Legislature the only Republican Senator from this city—Nyack, N. Y., Sept. 15, aged about 58.

BARBER, Henry A.—A well-known resident of Philadelphia—there, Sept. 14, aged 56.

CLEANLY, Rev. Charles—Rector of the Presbyterian Church, Schenectady, N. Y.—there, Sept. 9, aged 83.

DITTMAN, Frederick—Lawyer and politician in Philadelphia, and a member of the Constitutional Convention. He came to America in 1852—Philadelphia, Sept. 13, aged 43

DOREMUS, Francis—An old resident of the Palisades, N. Y.—Sparkill, Rockland Co., N. Y., Sept. 12, aged 89.

FROMENTIN, M.—French painter and writer—Paris, recently.

FOSTER, Israel—Of the firm of Israel Foster & Co., Philadelphia—there, Sept. 14, aged 67.

GUTTERIDGE, Robert G.—Manufacturer of shades in Philadelphia, and a member of the Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias and Red Men—there, Sept. 14, aged 56.

HAMRICK JR., Charles H.—Of the Philadelphia jewelry firm of Hamrick & Bro.—San Francisco, recently.

HAWES, Mrs Nancy—Mother of the late Dr. George E. Hawes of Fall River—there, Sept. 25, aged 96.

HOFMAN, Samuel C.—Of Norwich, Ct. He was the oldest member of the bar in that county, and but one older than he survives him in all the State—Norwich, Ct., Sept. 11, aged 86.

JANES, Edmund Storer—Senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church of this country, from a complication of diseases. He was born in Sheffield, Mass., Oct. 27, 1807, and in 1824 began the study of law, which he continued until 1830, when he resolved to study for the ministry, receiving his appointment as a Philadelphia Conference in April of said year. He was ordained as deacon in 1832, and as elder in 1834. After studying theology for six years, and while engaged in his labors as a pastor, he began to study medicine, and in 1842 received the degree of M. D. from the University of Vermont. In May, 1840, he was elected financial secretary of the American Bible Society. He remained in this office until 1844, when he was chosen bishop—his city, Sept. 18.

KELLEY, Edwin A.—Formerly a merchant of Philadelphia, but of late years had resided in the oil regions, where he died on Sept. 9, aged 45.

KING, Edward B.—Proprietor of a circulating library on Buttonwood street, Philadelphia, and a member of the Old Guard of the Second Regiment—there, Sept. 15, aged 72.

MITCHELL, Edward A.—President of Rogers, Smith & Co.'s silver-plating works, East Haven, Ct.—there, Sept. 14.

MOORE, Jonathan—Founder of Moore's Academy, Salem, Ind., to which institution he had, furthermore, donated $150,000—that city, of apoplexy, Sept. 12.

QUAIN, Sir John Richard—Physician of the Court of Queen Victoria, England—London, Eng., Sept. 12.

RIBBLESDALE, Lord — Stepson of Lord Russell. About 1865 he visited this country, spending a season at Newport—Continental Europe, recently, aged 47.

RUBICAM, Charles A.—A prominent builder in Philadelphia, having built the old State Arsenal (now in part the Sanitary) and Fair R. R. depots in that city. He was also one of the leading members of the Carpenters' Company—that city, Sept. 13, aged 62.

SEWARD, Major Augustus H.—Eldest son of the late William H. Seward. A graduate of West Point, and served twenty-eight years in the regular army, having been last stationed at St. Paul, Minn.—Montrose, N. Y., Sept. 10, aged 50.

WISE, Henry A.—Ex-Governor of Virginia, in which capacity he will be best remembered by the general reader for his hostility to Know-nothing-ism—Brant Rock, Mass., Sept. 12, after the hanging of John Brown (Dec. 2, 1859) in face of personal appeals and of threats of assassination. During the Rebellion he was a brigadier-general upon the Confederate side, but was not successful in the field, and had the added mistortune to lose a son in battle. Since the war he had been visible but seldom, and never conspicuously. He was born in Drummondtown, Accomac County, Va., on December 3, 1806, and was descended from the Wise family that settled the Eastern Shore of his native State over two hundred years ago. His parents died when he was a child, leaving him to the care of his relatives, by whom he was sent, in 1821, to Washington College, Pennsylvania. Here he distinguished himself as a debater, and in 1823 graduated. After his graduation, the following year he entered the law school of Henry St. George Tucker, and in 1828 was admitted to the bar. Soon afterwards he went to Nashville, where he established a profitable practice, and also married his first wife, the daughter of Dr. C. Jennings, a Presbyterian minister. In 1830 he returned to Virginia, and was elected a delegate to the Democratic National Convention in Baltimore, where he advocated the nomination of Andrew Jackson. During the Spring of 1832 he became a candidate for Congress as, in some respects, a supporter of President Jackson. His competitor for the position of Representative was Richard Coke. The canvass was a very fierce one, but Wise was elected, and soon after hung himself in Brooklyn, N. Y. ..... Losses by fire: Merritt, Jones & Co.'s oil works, at Canuja, Mich., $30,000, partially insured; Charles Swall's dwelling and outbuildings, at Bedford, Me.—loss $4,000, insured for $2,600; John L. Snell's barn, North Dartmouth, Mass.—loss $2,000.

. Sept. 15: While standing in her doorway, at Penslow Falls, Ont., Mrs. Richardson was killed by a shot fired by some person unknown .....A railroad accident near Montpelier, Vermont, resulted in the death of William Barry.

Philip Kepp was killed and George Doerbaum and John Hoombein dangerously injured by the fall of an elevator in which they were ascending, at Cincinnati, O. Daniel Meirille, perhaps fatally, at Newport, R. I. ..... Charles Denning, a railroad brakeman, caught his foot in a frog at Guelph, Ont., and was run over and killed .....Colonel Dudley Sheil's barn, North Dartmouth, Mass., was burned; was shot and mortally wounded by John Bennett at South Boston, Mass. ..... F. H. Conant & Sons' furniture and chair manufactory, at Camden, N. Y., was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of about $50,000; insured for $15,000.

CRIMINALS have an abhorrence to being brought up before Recorder Hackett, because he seems to know all about them before any evidence is heard. A man, unknown to fame, but not to the Recorder, recently saved himself twenty years' imprisonment by pleading guilty; his sentence would have been forty years, but he got off with twenty!

BRET HARTE and Stuart Robson the comedian have succeeded in waking up a very lively discussion about the merits of "The Two Men of Sandy Bar," and in their way have secured a good deal of cheap advertising, which ought to successfully carry the two men through the country without any bar.

IF ANY of the conscientious critics of this city have received a "retainer" for favorable comments on new plays, they must have kept it to themselves; and that is what exasperates those guileless critics who are above suspicion, and who received no sugar!

THE EQUINOCTIAL STORM made things very uncomfortable for strangers in Philadelphia last Sunday. Some of the old-timers, who got pretty well "soaked," say they never before saw so much water!

THE FESTIVE SEASON opened last week at Creedmore, with "The Rifle Ball," in which the representatives of all nations participated.

THE "RACE for the 4-year old stakes" can be seen in Jim's boarding-house any morning when the gong sounds! So he says.

VICTORIA WOODHULL has just been granted a divorce from her husband. This is the latest case of Blood-shed.

A WESTERN baseball club is so fair in its dealings that it's poison to all fraud. It should be called the strict nine!

ISN'T it about time that something was said about Lucius Robinson's income tax? Why this apathy?

IT MUST be easy for monarchs to write, because they can always find plenty of subjects.

POLITICIANS running for office may be old men, and still not attain their majority!

FASHIONABLE PEOPLE admire lacquer work, but poor people don't.

NEWS OF THE WEEK BOILED DOWN.

. On Sept. 11: The State election in Maine was carried by the Republicans, large gains over last year being reported in their favor .....Foreign telegrams stated that an attempt was made to assassinate President Grevy of France, and in the fight which ensued four men were killed; that at a banquet in Belgrade, at the Russian Consulate, Prince Milan, in proposing the health of the Emperor of Russia, said that Czar was Serbia's great friend and protector, and the Russian Consul-general, in acknowledging the congratulations of a delegation previously received, said that henceforth Russia and Serbia were united; that Earl Derby, in replying to the address of deputations of workingmen, denied that the English Government was in any sense responsible for the atrocities in the Turkish provinces, and that the conviction that England desired fair play had done more than anything else to prevent the war from assuming the character of a religious war, and that henceforth Turkish reforms would be in many provinces instead of in one; that the Sub-prefect of Port Mahon, Spain, had been arrested, and will be prosecuted should it be proved that he has violated the religious toleration clause of the constitution; that the people of Crete are satisfied with the Government's action, and will oppose the landing of filibusters; that the Turks had commenced their movement against the Servian D p gs alone after B, his partner, has made the trump?" ..... High, low, jack, game, pedro. 2. No. 3. No.

J. F. P., Detroit.—To avoid paying a dramatic agent his fee for procuring you an engagement, apply personally to some manager for an engagement, or advertise therefor. An advertisement will cost you 15 cents per line for each insertion.

MEPHISTO, Boston.—Actors never use false noses of the kind you name. They chance the shape of their own by the adjustment of wax, which they mould to suit and satisfy their complexion. Any theatrical costumer can supply the pasteboard noses.

FLAX, Marion.—"1. Can you give me names of any papers (American) which quote prices of flax, flax-tow, hemp, hemp-tow, etc? 2. What is the correct English pronunciation of Psyche?" ..... 1. Journal of Commerce, this city. 2. The pronunciation is dictated by fashion.

BILLIARDS, Richmond.—As we know nothing of your capacity for receiving instruction, we cannot tell how long it would require to make you once more "the finest private billiard player." What an expert could teach you at billiards would be but a drop in the "first-rate" bucket.

W. H.—The late Charlotte Cushman acted Meg Merrilies on a few occasions at the National Theatre, Boston, about Nov. 21, 1851, for the first time, and at Brougham's Lyceum, this city, Nov. 24, following. She also acted Romeo with great success at the Old Bowery in 1845 or 1846.

SUICIDE.—Dr. Bonnell, Cardinal Mayor's physician in Paris, R. I.; Capt. James Clark, by hanging, at Newport, Ky.; Chas. Kaufman, by drowning, at Cincinnati, O. ..... Cable dispatches stated that on the 20th inst. the Danish Vice-consul at Porto Rico, while seated in the deck-house of the steamship Cimbria, was killed by a sudden lurch of the vessel, which crushed his head against the bulwarks; that seven hundred Russians had arrested at Belgrade for the two days; that a new commission of inquiry appointed by the Turkish Government will go immediately to Philippopolis to investigate the Bulgarian atrocities, to the perpetrators of the outrages and punish the guilty; that the Turkish Government has ordered all its commanders to discontinue hostilities until further notice, and Prince Milan has sent similar orders to General Tchernayeff and the other Serbian commanders; that many cipher dispatches have passed between Belgrade, London and Constantinople; and that the Queen Regent of Spain, has ordered the Protestant pastor there to keep the door of his chapel closed, because external manifestations are prohibited by the constitution .....Thomas Tripp of Westport, and James G. Dower of Newport, were reported to have been lost overboard from the schooner Petrel Aug. 20 .....Patrick J. McNamara was run over and killed on the railroad at Avery Junction, Mass .....Daniel Dudley was shot and mortally wounded by John Bennett at South Boston, Mass. ..... F. H. Conant & Sons' furniture and chair manufactory, at Camden, N. Y., was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of about $50,000; insured for $15,000.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Weekly Record of the Decease of Prominent Individuals.

COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

RUTHERFORD, Gen. George V.—A native of Rutland, Vt., where he was born in 1830. After receiving a liberal education, he studied law and was admitted to practice. Later he was appointed a superintendent of the construction of telegraph lines in the Southern States, and was for several years thereafter engaged in telegraphing in that locality. He afterwards engaged in the practice of his profession at Tuscumbia, Ala., but after two years removed to Quincy, Ill., a short time before the outbreak of the Rebellion. In 1861 Gov. Yates appointed him Assistant Quartermaster-general for the State, and a similar

SHORT STOPS.

The Live Oak B. B. Association was lately formed in Lynn, Mass., for the purpose of running a first-class club during 1877, to be known under the old name of Live Oak..... On Tuesday, Sept. 12, the Confidence B. B. C. of New Rochelle, N. Y., played and defeated the Wonderers of New Rochelle landing by a score of 17 to 10..... Sept. 12, at Lowell, Mass., Lowell vs. Rhode Island, 13 to 8.....11th, at Lowell, Lowell vs. Beacon, 15 to 8.....Same day, at Providence, R. I., Rhode Island vs. Dexter Jr., 16 to 2..... 12th, at Buffalo, N. Y., St. Louis Reds vs. Cass of Detroit, Mich., 9 to 6.....8th, at Guelph, Ont., Cass vs. Maple Leaf, 11 to 6..... 9th, at Ilion, N. Y., Star of Syracuse vs. Ilion, 12 to 0.....9th, at Chelsea, Mass., Clipper vs. Mystic, 7 to 4.....10th, at New Orleans, La., Boston (amateur) vs. Amateur, 10 to 1.....13th, at East Cambridge, Mass., Clipper vs. Picked Nine, 36 to 11.....6th, at Elizabeth, N. J., Olympic of Paterson vs. Resolute, 7 to 6..... 9th, at Jersey City, N. J., Resolute of Elizabeth vs. Olympic of Paterson, 12 to 4 (eight innings).....4th, at Memphis, Tenn., Mutual of Paris, Ky., vs. Memphis Reds, 15, to 12.....Games in this vicinity Sept. 9: Orchard vs. Greenville, 13 to 11; Our Boys vs. Athletic 17 to 7; Arlington vs. Resolute of N. Y., 15 to 11. .....5th, at Brooklyn, N. Y., Witoks vs. Our Boys, 12 to 10.....Games in Massachusetts on the 16th: at West Newton, Prospect vs. Alert, 33 to 12; at Cambridge, Franklin vs. Union, for $70, 7 to 1; at Worcester, Irving vs. Mount Hollis, 33 to 3; at Fall River, Rhode Island vs. Fall River, 7 to 6; at South Groveland, Haverhill vs. Groveland, six innings, 19 to 4; at Boston, W. A. Emorson & Co. vs. Hallett & Davis, 19 to 11; at Taunton, Anawan vs. Oakland, 22 to 2; at Edgeworth, Mutual vs. Alert, 13 to 13; at Stoneham, Gen. Worth vs. Shorey, six innings, 13 to 1; at Hyde Park, Star of Hyde Park vs. Star of Quincy, seven innings, 61 to 6; at Winthrop, Enamel of East Boston vs. Resolute of Lynn, 28 to 25; same day and place, Winthrop vs. Grand View, 25 to 12 .....Same day, at Manchester, N. H., Manchester vs. Star of Farmington, seven innings, 9 to 5..... 14th, at Burlington, Mass., Active vs. Spirit of '76, 8 to 6.....12th, at Cortland, N. Y., Star vs. Ithaca, 15 to 2 .....14th, at Melrose, N. Y., Eagle Theatre vs. New York, 18 to 11.....Games in this vicinity: 15th, Resolute vs. Story Paper, 16 to 6; 14th, Alaska vs. Nassau, 13 to 3; 14th, Witoks vs. Lafayette, 13 to 6; 13th, Alpha vs. Quickstep, 17 to 13; 16th, at Orange, N. J., Alaska vs. Orange, 7 to 1, eight innings; 16th, Witoks vs. Contest, 10 to 6; 13th, Nassau vs. Hudson, 6 to 2 .....A new baseball association was formed at New Haven, Ct., on Sept. 13, with a capital stock of $25,000, the shares numbering 50..... From the following, sent us by William Coates, manager of the Allegheny (Pa.) Club, it seems that injustice has unintentionally been done to said organization: "In your issue of Sept. 16, giving record of Chesapeake B. B. Club of Washington, D. C., there is given the score of five games (said to have been played with the Allegheny Club), as follows: May 26, score 3 to 2, in favor of Allegheny; May 27, 2 to 0, in favor of Chesapeake; June 15, 2 to 1, in favor of Chesapeake; June 16, tie, 2 to 2; June 17, score 3 to 2, in favor of Chesapeake. In regard to the above, we would say that we never played a game with the Chesapeake B. B. Club, either in Allegheny or in Washington."..... M. C. Allen writes to us from Brooklyn to say that, acting upon the advice of Mr. Canmeyer, he and others interested in the project have decided to abandon the idea of holding a tournament at the Union Grounds in that city. He informs us that five clubs had entered, whose entrance fees were returned..... 10th, at Galveston, Texas, R. B. Lee of Houston vs. Pastime, 14 to 14.

NEW YORK VS. BROOKLYN.—Among the interesting baseball events of 1875 were the series of contests between picked nines of the amateur clubs of New York and Brooklyn. This week another of these series is to be commenced, and, judging from the selection of players made for the first match of the series, a first-class contest may be expected. The first game will be played on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, on Wednesday next, Sept. 20, and the contesting clubs on the occasion will be as follows:

BROOKLYN.	NEW YORK.
Clare, c. of Chelsea.	Fallon, p. of Resolute.
Rule, p. of Olympic.	McGinnis, 1st b. of Resolute.
Redmayne, s. s. of Nassau.	Isherwood, 1st b. of N. Y.
Slade, 3d b. of Nameless.	Dover, 2d b. of N. Y.
West, 2d b. of Chelsea.	Pearcy, s. s. of N. Y.
Hayes, l. f. of Chelsea.	Hunkanson, 3d b. of N. Y.
Lee, c. f. of Nameless.	McCracken, l. f. of Olympic.
Dunne, 1st b. of Chelsea.	Dovey, c. f. of Alaska.
Curtain, r. f. of Olympic.	Hall, r. f. of Alaska.

The admission fee will be but twenty-five cents. The New York nine will be awarded prize balls for the best running catch of a fly ball, and one for the best fielding catch; these being the gifts of Meyer, Peck & Snyder. The Brooklyn nine will have similar prizes given for the best catches by Mr. Marsters. Mr. Chadwick will award the prizes.

LOUISVILLE CLUB.—At the annual meeting of the club, held the 7th inst., referred to in our past issue, Mr. Chas. Seday, the treasurer, officially announced the re-engagement of the following players: Chapman, Devlin, Snyder, Gerhardt, Somerville, Hague and Ryan. Clinton and Allison will also, in all probability, be re-engaged. Fulmer had signed contract for 1877, but was given his release.

ALLEGHENY VS. ERIE BROWNS.—A game was played at Erie, Pa., Sept. 14, between the Allegheny (Pa.) Club and the Browns, the former winning.

Allegheny	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	1—3
Browns	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0—1

ACME VS. ATLANTIC.—These nines met at Clayton, Ill., Sept. 7, when the Atlantics were blanked nine times successively.

Acme	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	1	2—5
Atlantic	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

OLYMPIC VS. ECKFORD.—A game played at St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10, between the clubs named above, resulted as under:

Olympic	0	0	1	1	4	0	0	0	0—6
Eckford	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

Umpire, W. F. Dahlum

WE HAVE A LETTER for "Steve" Libby.

THE RING.

FLYNN TO GOSS.

It will be remembered that, shortly after the making of the match between Goss and Allen, we received a challenge from Frank Flynn of Brooklyn to whoever should prove the winner thereof, the same being accompanied by a deposit of one hundred dollars. It will be observed by the subjoined communication that Flynn is still desirous of having a go with Mr. Goss:

BROOKLYN, Sept. 16, 1876.

EDITOR NEW YORK CLIPPER.—Dear Sir: Since Joe Goss has been declared the winner of the fight for the championship, it is time he should reply to my challenge, issued three months ago in THE CLIPPER. I am ready to fight Goss any time for $1,000 a side, according to the new rules above, we will say that we never prepared a game with the Chesapeake B. B. Club, either in Allegheny or in Washington."..... M. C. Allen writes to us from Brooklyn to say that, acting upon the advice of Mr. Canmeyer, he and others interested in the project have decided to abandon the idea of holding a tournament at the Union Grounds in that city. He informs us that five clubs had entered, whose entrance fees were returned..... 10th, at Galveston, Texas, R. B. Lee of Houston vs. Pastime, 14 to 14.

NEW YORK VS. BROOKLYN.—Among the interesting baseball events of 1875 were the series of contests between picked nines of the amateur clubs of New York and Brooklyn. This week another of these series is to be commenced, and, judging from the selection of players made for the first match of the series, a first-class contest may be expected. The first game will be played on the Union Grounds, Brooklyn, on Wednesday next, Sept. 20, and the contesting clubs on the occasion will be as follows:

BROOKLYN.	NEW YORK.
Clare, c. of Chelsea.	Fallon, p. of Resolute.
Rule, p. of Olympic.	McGinnis, 1st b. of Resolute.
Redmayne, s. s. of Nassau.	Isherwood, 1st b. of N. Y.
Slade, 3d b. of Nameless.	Dover, 2d b. of N. Y.
West, 2d b. of Chelsea.	Pearcy, s. s. of N. Y.
Hayes, l. f. of Chelsea.	Hunkanson, 3d b. of N. Y.
Lee, c. f. of Nameless.	McCracken, l. f. of Olympic.
Dunne, 1st b. of Chelsea.	Dovey, c. f. of Alaska.
Curtain, r. f. of Olympic.	Hall, r. f. of Alaska.

The admission fee will be but twenty-five cents. The New York nine will be awarded prize balls for the best running catch of a fly ball, and one for the best fielding catch; these being the gifts of Meyer, Peck & Snyder. The Brooklyn nine will have similar prizes given for the best catches by Mr. Marsters. Mr. Chadwick will award the prizes.

LOUISVILLE CLUB.—At the annual meeting of the club, held the 7th inst., referred to in our past issue, Mr. Chas. Seday, the treasurer, officially announced the re-engagement of the following players: Chapman, Devlin, Snyder, Gerhardt, Somerville, Hague and Ryan. Clinton and Allison will also, in all probability, be re-engaged. Fulmer had signed contract for 1877, but was given his release.

ALLEGHENY VS. ERIE BROWNS.—A game was played at Erie, Pa., Sept. 14, between the Allegheny (Pa.) Club and the Browns, the former winning.

Allegheny	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	1—3
Browns	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0—1

ACME VS. ATLANTIC.—These nines met at Clayton, Ill., Sept. 7, when the Atlantics were blanked nine times successively.

Acme	0	0	1	0	1	0	0	1	2—5
Atlantic	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

OLYMPIC VS. ECKFORD.—A game played at St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10, between the clubs named above, resulted as under:

Olympic	0	0	1	1	4	0	0	0	0—6
Eckford	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0—0

Umpire, W. F. Dahlum

WE HAVE A LETTER for "Steve" Libby.

PEDESTRIANISM.

NEW JERSEY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.—The Fall games of this Association were held at Ridgewood, N. J., on Saturday, Sept. 16, in presence of a fair-sized assemblage. The opening event was the one-mile walk, for the gold medal won by D. M. Stern last year, and a second prize, also a gold medal. Stern again won, in the excellent time of 7:13½, defeating E. C. Hoiles by eight seconds, Charles Conner being nearly a half minute behind. The next contest was a championship one-hundred-yards race for two gold medals, which was decided in heats, the first being won by H. Lauterbach, defeating J. H. H. Ferguson and M. J. Hogencamp; the second by R. La Montagne, beating Geo. H. Parker and A. S. Pennington; the third by F. C. Saportas, who defeated W. J. Duffy and W. W. Phillips. The final was a dead heat between La Montagne and Saportas, in running off the latter came out victorious by about six inches. Time, 10½ sec. A 440-yards bush hurdle handicap followed, for a gold medal, which was won by Bennet Greig, 20 yards start; C. E. Chapman, 40 yards, 2; C. L. Richard, 30 yards, 3. The race was won by about three yards. Time, 1min. 4½ sec. A mile walk, handicap, was next, the prize therefor being a gold medal, which was captured by Chas. M. Shaw, 325 yards start, in 6min. 18sec., vanquishing W. H. Griffin, 295 yards, by over half a minute; R. H. Sayre, 230, third. The succeeding event was a half-mile run, handicap, the victor in which was John L. O'Brien, 55 yards, Oliver T. Johnson, 30, being second by 30 yards; C. A. Mahoney, 45, third; and W. J. Duffy, scratch, fourth. Time, 2:03½. For the half-mile (Ladies' Cup) race there was only one entry, James Lynch, who ran over the course alone, and carried away the trophy. Time, 2:23½. Judges: S. D. Graydon and M. B. Kukuck; starter, E. D. Davis; timekeeper and handicapper, Jas. Watson; referee, J. R. Denton.

A FOOTRACE of 200 yards came off at Rensselaer Park, Troy, N. Y., Sept. 10, between W. Thompson of Auburn and R. Nichols of Troy. The stakes were $50 a side, and Thompson won easily. Jack Goulding was starter, and G. Champney referee.

THE FOLLOWING PEDESTRIANS are notified of letters addressed to them in our care: John Allinson, Geo. M. Wells, John Stubbs, Mr. Avery and John Taylor. There is, also, one addressed to the secretary of the N. Y. Athletic Association.

THE YONKERS LYCEUM'S annual games will be held at the Skating Pond, South Broadway, Williamsburg, L. I., on Tuesday, Sept. 26. The programme embraces throwing the hammer, running high leap, short race, 100yds. (senior race), short race, 100yds. (junior), running broad jump, three-mile walk, throwing the baseball, quarter-mile race, vaulting with the pole, half-mile race, one-mile walk, one-mile race, hurdle-race (junior), hurdle-race (senior), three-legged race, sack race over hurdles

THE TURF.

TROTTING AT SYRACUSE, N. Y.

The Syracuse (N. Y.) Driving Park Association held their annual Fall meeting last week, commencing on the 12th inst. The first race was for three-minute horses, and had eleven starters, the prizes being $300, $150, $90 and $60. The race was won by A. F. Brown's g. g. B. F. Bruce, who took the second, fourth and fifth heats. John Taylor won second, Annie Page third, and Lottie K. fourth money. The others were distanced. Time, 2:38¾, 2:38, 2:35, 2:35, 2:38¾. The only other event of the day was the 2:34 purse—$450 to first, $225 to second, $135 to third, and $90 to fourth—the winner of which was A. J. Feeks' c. g. Lysander Boy, taking three straight heats. Second money went to Lady Pritchard, third to Factory Boy, and fourth to Tommy Ryan. Time, 2:32, 2:32½, 2:34¾.

The second day commenced with a trot for horses that had never beaten 2:40, for prizes of $350, $175, $105 and $70 respectively. The race was taken in three successive heats by Thomas Grady's g. g. W. H. Arnold, Maggie Mitchell second, Torrent third, and Star fourth. Time, 2:38½, 2:38¾, 2:40. Horses of the 2:25 class were then brought to the post to contend for prizes of $600, $300, $180 and $120, which were won respectively by Clifton Boy, Ella Madden, Jack Draper and Tom Keeler. Time, 2:26¾, 2:28, 2:28¾, 2:30¾, 2:30, 2:29¼. Ella Madden won the first heat, the third was dead between her and Keeler, and the fourth was taken by Draper. Rain prevented a continuance of the sport on the 14th, but a resumption was had on the 15th, when the trotting began with a contest between horses of the 2:50 class, of which eight started. The winner turned up in B. F. Bruce, who was ahead at the finish of three consecutive heats. Tom Malloy took second money, Governor Tilden third, and Lottie K. fourth. Time, 2:39¾, 2:36, 2:38. This was followed by a trot for 2:30 horses—$400 to first, $200 to second, $120 to third, and $80 to fourth. Lysander Boy won in three straight heats, Lady Pritchard being second, Clover third and Damon fourth in each heat. Time, 2:35, 2:32, 2:32¼. In consequence of inclement weather the attendance on the 15th was smaller than on the other days. The meeting was brought to a close on the 16th, when two good races took place. The first, for 2:45 horses, was won by J. B. Burlew's bk. g. Tom, who took the second, third and fifth heats. Torrent won second money, Annie Page third, and Lady Decker fourth. A trot for 2:25 horses closed the meeting—$750 to first, $375 to second, $225 to third, and $150 to fourth. J. H. Phillips' Adelaide took the second, third and sixth heats and first prize, second money going to Mazomanie, third to Joe Brown, and fourth to Idol. Time, 2:29¼, 2:32, 2:29¾, 2:30¾, 2:31½, 2:30.

MYSTIC PARK TROTTING MEETING.

The Fall trotting meeting of the Boston association commenced on Sept. 12, with a trot for a purse of $1,000, for horses of the 2:40 class, the winner receiving $500, the second $250, the third $150, and the fourth $100. The starters were J. Golden's g. g. Dick Swiveller, M. Carroll Allen, T. S. Carpenter's b. m. Nellie, Jesse Smith's g. m. Rosa, C. E. Mosher's c. g. Ilderim, J. J. Bowen's c. s. Dagger, Ben Mace's b. s. Elevator, H. Rogers' b. g. Brockton, Lon Morris' c. g. Boston Pilot, H. Woodruff's g. g. Frank Hull, G. Darling's b. m. Kitty, and J. S. Sawyer's c. m. Gentzella. The two last-named horses were distanced in the first heat, which was won by Dick Swiveller in 2:32, with Carrie Allen second, Ilderim third and Dagger fourth. The second heat was also won by Dick Swiveller in 2:33½, Nellie second, Rosa third and Ilderim fourth, Frank Hull distanced. Dick Swiveller won the third heat and the race in 2:33¾, Carrie Allen taking second place and money, Nellie third money, and Rosa fourth.

On the second day, Sept. 13, the first trot was for a purse of $1,000 for horses of the 2:32 class, the money divided in four parts for first, second, third, and fourth honors. Ten horses started, and, darkness coming on after five heats had been trotted, it was postponed until the following day, when three more were required to decide which was the winner. The starters were A. Woodward's b. s. Aristos, W. Bassford's b. m. Carrie N., W. H. Saunders' bk. s. Young Ben, J. P. Keeler's c. m. Lizzie Keeler, J. W. Simpson's b. m. Nira Belle, J. A. Carpenter's bk. m. Celerity, T. Trout's bk. g. General, F. M. Berry's b. g. Prize, and D. Bigley's b. m. Lady Margett. Carrie N. won the first and third heats in 2:28, 2:30¾; Young Wilkes the second, and with in 2:31, 2:29; Lizzie Keeler the fourth in 2:30¾; and Aristos the second, seventh, and eighth heats and the race in 2:28¾, 2:29, 2:27¾. The second race was for horses of the 2:50 class, for a purse of $1,500, the winner taking $750; second, $375; third, $225; and fourth, $150. A. B. De Hart's b. m. Hannah D., J. P. Faranon's b. m. Lucy, and Trout's b. g. Frank Reeves, W. Comee's b. g. Comee, J. Splan's s. g. Planter, and W. Goff's b. m. Little Gipsy came to the scratch as contestants. The two horses ran away, and were obliged to be poisoned until the next day, after four heats had been trotted. Hannah D. won the first and second heats in 2:23¾, 2:21¾, Commonwealth the third in 2:26¾, Hannah D. and Frank Reeves making a dead heat for second place. Frank Reeves won the fourth heat in 2:26¾, Hannah D. the fifth, and the latter mare, in order to insure herself of second money, Frank Reeves third, and Comee fourth money.

The first of the two races on the third day, Sept. 14, was for a purse of $1,000 for horses of the 2:36 class, the winner taking $500, second horse $250, third $150 and fourth $100. Eight horses started, and J. Golden's b. g. Dick Swiveller won, as he had done the 2:40 purse on the first day, in three straight heats. Time, 2:30¾, 2:31, 2:33. He beat C. E. Mosher's b. m. Nellie (third money), H. Woodruff's g. g. Carpenter's b. m. Nellie (third money), H. Woodruff's r. m. Delightful (fourth money), T. S. Foster's b. s. Commodore Perry, J. A. Carpenter's r. g. Carpenter Boy, C. E. Hicks' b. m. Annie E. and Ben Mace's br. s. Elevator. The second trot was for horses of the 2:29 class, for a purse of $1,000, divided into four similar moneys to the previous purse. Seven horses started, and C. E. Mosher's b. g. Joe Ripley won in three straight heats, beating G. Hicks' b. m. Jean Ingelow (second money), T. S. Foster's g. g. Gray Bill, A. Tuft's b. m. Pet, J. J. Bowen's c. s. Chassina Prince, J. Golden's r. s. Alton Boy and J. A. Carpenter's bk. m. Celerity. Time, 2:28¾, 2:30, 2:29. Joe Ripley won each heat with great ease.

The meeting was brought to a successful close Sept. 15, with two interesting trots. The first was for horses of the 2:40 class, for a purse of $600. It was won in three straight heats by H. Woodruff's g. g. Frank Hull, beating Carrie Allen (who won second money), Boston Pilot (third money), Belle Oakley, Lady Balch, Jesse Benjamin, Gentinella, Annie E., Elevator and Granger. Time, 2:31½, 2:32½, 2:33¾. The second trot was for horses of the 2:26 class, for a purse of $1,500, divided in four moneys. It was won in three straight heats by A. B. De Hart's bk. m. Hannah D., Ben Mace's b. m. Nellie Walton second, J. M. Bolton's b. m. Kitty Cook third, and Lon Morris' br. g. J. S. Heald fourth. Time, 2:25½, 2:26½, 2:26.

KENTUCKY FALL MEETING.

SIXTH DAY.—SATURDAY, SEPT. 16.

The Lexington meeting was brought to a termination this day. The weather was fine, the attendance large, and the track fast, but the programme of sport was poor. There were three races, the first being mile heats for the Consolation Purse of $300, of which the winner took $250 and the second horse $50. Horses beaten once during the meeting, allowed 7lb; twice, 12lb; three times, 16lb. Only four horses came to the post: Ewalt & Swyney's Emma C., Green Clay's Orel, T. J. Megibben's Easter Planet, and J. A. Grinstead's Marie Michon. The last-named filly was the favorite, selling for $40; Emma C. and Easter Planet, $15 each; and Orel, $7. Orel took the lead, but, before they reached the quarter, Marie Michon had passed him. She retained her position along the backstretch to the half-mile, with Emma C. and Easter Planet in close attendance. On the lower turn Emma C. challenged, took the lead at the head of the stretch, and won the heat handily by three lengths, Orel second, Easter Planet third, Marie Michon fourth. Time, 1:52½. Emma C. was the favorite, selling for $40; Marie Michon, $15; and the field, $10 each

THE SPORT'S LAMENTATION.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER.

I never loved a bright-blue eye,
Or thought to win a heart,
But what some other cove than I
Did always prove too smart.

never got my ball in place,
Positioned, in croquet,
But what another ball did chase
My luckless one away.

I never went unto a bank
And gave my stamps in trust,
But what, by some blamed hook or crank,
The thing was sure to bu'st.

I never played "draw-poker" yet,
And held the winning hand;
I never made a racing bet
Come out as I had planned.

I never "bucked" a "faro-bank,"
I know, at any time,
But what, by some strange fortune's prank,
I lost my every dime.

In "policy" I've done my best
To "beat the little game;"
In "keno," too, and all the rest;
But luck was just the same.

I never did a gol-derned thing
I'd like, as I can see,
And don't know why the fates should fling
Such rough-shod luck at me.

I give it up as a job that's bad,
The reason trying to find;
It's no use, so I think, egad,
Henceforth I'll go it blind! L. T.

OF NOBLE BIRTH.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER,
BY MRS. A. ELMORE.

A gloomy, gray, lonely Winter day was passing rather wearily to a class of students who were preparing to breast the cold wind just making itself known by creaking signs and moaning voices at the windows, preparatory to the snowstorm that was soon to find its way from the ominous gray to the streets of the city, and open the way for delightful sleigh-rides beneath clear, blue skies.

These gay, light-hearted young men, who were soon to go out into the world as earnest workers in their professions, or drones that would bring discredit to themselves at least, were assembled in the dissecting-room of one of the oldest and most popular medical colleges of our country, where they had listened to an interesting and instructive lecture by one of the professors. The arm, and the injuries most frequently sustained by it, had been ably discoursed upon, and the interest of the class continued to the close, which is not always the case, as many a vexed professor would willingly admit.

The "subject," in college parlance, was a woman, but only the arm was exposed previously to the lecture—that had been of remarkably perfect contour—whether the face and body were endowed with the same symmetry and waxlike purity of complexion, was not discernible through the enveloping cloth.

One of the students, with a fair, boyish face, and mild, yet keen blue eyes, had watched the dissection with more than professional interest; and long after the janitor had closed the room, hours subsequently to the conning of the last lesson, and neatly copying the notes of the lecture for future reference, Charley still sat in the lecture-room, involved in thought. In vain his "chum" rallied him about his abstraction; he permitted any surmises the rattlebrained fellow chose to invent, without even a smile crossing his usually smiling face; but when they retired, to gain a respite from the teasing of his curious friend, he admitted that his thoughts had been of the "subject," which was lying cold and marred by the scalpel in the gloomy room at the college, unthought of by any for love's sake. And already the sound of merry parties was heard as the bells went tinkling by in the yet falling snow, past the gloomy walls of the college—revelers with laughter and song, with no thought of the young, unwept dead, whose still ears caught none of their harmony that was borne on the breeze up to the casement and crept into the gloomy silence to meet no thankful, smiling faces.

When they met again in the dissecting-room, and were waiting the coming of the professor, a sly whisper flew about among the students that Charley was in love with the "subject," and would interfere to prevent further dissection. Men, you know, never gossip—they only joke. All the class joined in the merriment at Charley's expense, while his face was very grave as he answered:

"No, not in love; but I tell you, boys, there," pointing to the covered table, "is noble blood, and I cannot divest myself of the idea that some foul and terrible wrong brought that woman, still youthful, to a strange land and pauper death."

"O pshaw, Charley! that's all nonsense. You have been reading novels," spoke up a boisterous, wide-awake youngster, who preferred creating romance to reading it.

"Did you see her face?" asked James Whitman, a tall, ungainly fellow, with a visage that would never make him a welcome guest in the sick-room.

"No," answered Charley.

"Then go and look at it—that will cure you of any vagaries about noble blood."

Charley raised the stained cloth that, damp and clinging, covered the face, with gentle hands, as though there might yet be life in the still form. The light fell on a face swollen and disfigured by drink, and bearing the marks of a recent injury that purpled the forehead and changed the outline. The eyes, but partially closed, had doubtless been a deep, bright blue, while, sloping away from the neck, was a wonderfully beautiful shoulder, white and smooth as newly-polished marble. To the mouth there yet remained a vague expression of rare beauty.

Tenderly he lifted the unbound hair, which was soft and fine. Although damp with the dew of death, stained by the remedies applied to the injury, and bearing token of willful neglect, it was still glossy.

As he drew the cover again over the face, some one of the students, who were eagerly watching him, inquired:

"Now, Charley, what do you say? Where is your noble blood?"

"You need not laugh," he replied. "I know that I am correct, and if I can find a clue I will follow it up and learn the noble truth. The face has been ruined by sin and shame. The flesh has lost the firmness that belongs to it by birthright, but the symmetry of the bones could not belong to other than a good line of blood."

"Oh, yes," rejoined the cadaverous Whitman, "you are so proud of your own blood and aristocratic features that you will become an enthusiast, if you are not very cautious."

"Have it as you will!" exclaimed boisterous, restless Harry. "Here comes the professor, and we will probably see the outline of the shoulder before he is through."

When the lecture was over, Charley started ostensibly to see his laundress and find fault with sundry shortcomings not suited to his fastidious tastes, consequently there was no necessity for any arm-in-arm companion. Really he was in search of the clue he proposed to follow. For him to undertake was to accomplish, if it was in the range of possibilities. There was no unnecessary delay in his movements when once a plan was formed, and it mattered not to him how many of his fellows were enjoying "the best of sleighing," with all the accompaniments that make the pastime memorable in the way of bright smiles, joyous laugh, witty reply, supper and dance, and romances that are only written on the heart.

Charley, ardent lover of beauty and song and all the joys that belong to youth, turned his steps towards the home of the grim, silent old man, who the students knew, really did the work popularly supposed to be done by the janitor in the way of furnishing "materials" quite as necessary to their profession as their books. The immutable signs of a medical fledgeling were readily detected by this fathomless receptacle of professional secrets about the dead.

"Do you want one?" he asked with an expectant leer.

"No; I came to see if you could tell me anything about this last one—where she lived, or who she was."

"I dunno nothin' 'bout her," was the surly answer, accompanied by a vicious, disappointed look, as he continued the mending of a dilapidated basket (which was his ostensible business, designated by a dingy sign that swung above the small, old-fashioned window).

"It is of no consequence," observed Charley with a monchalant air. "I thought I would like to know; but, when you bring me one for my own use, I want a better one than that."

"One all yourself, eh?" with a greedy look that quite disgusted his visitor; but, with a purpose in view, he could afford to overlook the want of refinement.

"Yes, I want a fine one, and will pay accordingly," and he turned to leave the shop.

"Well," growled the old man, "I dunno but I can tell you summat about her," nodding his bushy head towards the college. She wor a bad sort—lived to Old Martin's, by the river, a-drinkin' and worritin'. I minded when she wor done and saved a box; mebbe, but the sextant wor paid all the same. An' it's not a good un?" The shaggy brows were elevated, and the steel-gray eyes glared out furtively as he made the inquiry.

"She was decaying, and is so small, I would prefer a large subject for myself," answered Charley, his face flushed with a half-angry feeling, for which he could not account.

Tossing a piece of silver to an unkempt youngster at the door, he left, to search for "Old Martin's," and found a low groggery, kept by an Irishwoman of the most degraded stamp, who let "furnished rooms" to women "out of luck."

"Furnished!" was the exclamation that rose to the lips of any who caught a glimpse of the dark, empty, narrow, unventilated cells; yes, furnished with rags and vermin.

Old Martin was a frequent visitor at her own bar when someone else paid the bill. The sight of Charley's face doubtless prompted her to solicit a "treat," which she speedily received and enjoyed. From some midnight region of foul smells three frowsy girls made their appearance to beg a similar favor at his hands, which was granted with a grimace that would have shocked them if there had been woman enough remaining to be shocked at anything. He declined the honor of drinking with them, and inquired:

"Where is the other girl?"

"Agatha, do you mean?" asked one of the other girls, looking up from her drained glass.

"I don't know her name—she was here last week."

"It must be Agatha; but, if she's been stealing, you're too late to take her now—she's dead."

"When did she die?"

"Last Tuesday. She was drunk and fell, and they took her to the hospital, and she died."

"Do you know anything about her?" he continued.

"She was the handsomest girl I ever saw when she took to drink, and proud as Lucifer; she never made up with any of the boys that came to see us," was the reply of the girl.

"Do you know her other name?" asked Charley.

"No; but mebbe this is it? There's something writ here," and with a dirty hand she brought from her pocket a fine handkerchief, now much soiled, and bearing the name "Agatha Miriam."

The girl continued, as she leaned her slatternly figure against the dingy counter in rather unpleasant proximity to Charley's sensitive nose and discerning eyes:

"She used to cry over that, and say: 'O, mamma, mamma! the last thing your dear hands gave me!' She's dead now, and I took it. She always said that her name was Ann Smith until she took to getting crasy drunk; then she talked of her home in England, and called herself Agatha."

Another drink procured the handkerchief, and Charley departed, leaving the ignorant, half-drunken wretches in a state of wonderment as to what he knew or wanted to know of Agatha. In his own room he washed the handkerchief, preferring to retain it entirely in his own possession. In addition to the name was some heraldic design, not quite distinct.

At the hospital, on another day, with the freedom accorded to medical students, he passed through the "accident wards," and made inquiries that brought out a report of Agatha's case. She had been drunk; had fallen from a stoop, receiving serious injuries; and remained entirely unconscious until death. No letters or addresses had been found. She was scantily clothed in cast-off garments that had been given her from time to time, as she solicited alms. Of jewelry she had but one slender ring, evidently quite old, which was now in the possession of the matron. She was registered as "Ann Smith, widow, English, twenty-four years old; contusion of the forehead."

Charley's pleasant face had long before made him a favorite of the kindly old lady who was in charge of the hospital, and he readily obtained from her the ring. The original design was marred. It had represented a serpent; but the jeweled eyes had been removed by unskilled hands, and the chasing was worn. On the inner surface were engraved "A. M. W." and an indistinct date. Here there seemed an ending of his clue, and he renewed his studies with vigor, to make up for the time spent in what seemed a fruitless search.

CHAPTER II.

In the suburbs of London, with all the usual and unmistakable indications of wealth, stood a substantial, old-fashioned mansion. The trees were in their most perfect beauty, and from an unseen rosegarden was wafted to a dusty, weary, footsore traveler a sweet and refreshing fragrance. He turned and looked towards the house; but the windows were closed, and stillness reigned, as though it had long been forsaken.

"I am sure to find at least a servant," he soliloquized, as he paused. No one but a resolute American would have found an entrance or roused the inmates; but his long walk as a "sightseer" had created a peremptory demand for rest and food. Turning from the road, he opened the gate that missed its usual guardians, and, lifting his hat to feel the cool air of the shady avenue, he found himself as he strode eagerly up past the fountain, now empty, and with its bronze nymph beseeching some unseen power for her beloved and beautiful spray, but her prayer was unheard, and her hands were extended in vain. On past a parterre of rare plants, through the carriage-way to the servants' porch, although no sign of life appeared; and yet there was a window open beneath the swaying branches of the blossom-laden honeysuckle and climbing, fragrant sweet-brier. In response to the third vigorous rap the door opened cautiously, and a stern-visaged housekeeper asked:

"What do you want?"

"I am very tired and want to rest in your shady porch for a little while, and will you please give me something to eat? I do not see another opportunity of obtaining it now," with the same, easy frankness with which he would have assailed a New England farmer's home where he was a welcome guest.

Over her shoulder looked out at the handsome traveler a merry eyed, rosy-cheeked girl of sixteen, with pleasure beaming on her face at thought of a little excitement from a stranger. And then he was such a splendid fellow, that she was eager to attend, and she spoke quickly:

"I will wait on him, mother."

The door was set open wide, while a little table was brought out and set before him, with a snowy napkin covering its well-scoured surface. Bessie bustled about, completing the preparations. The traveler refreshed himself with a bath of face and hands at the trough of cool, clear water that set below the overflowing spring, and, shaking off some of the dust, he turned back to the comfortable splint-bottomed chair, and enjoyed the bowl of fresh milk from the well-kept dairy, and its accompanying loaf of sweet, new, home-made bread. While appeasing his appetite his eyes took in all the view of well-kept grounds and cultivated trees, noting the care and taste displayed in garden and lawn.

"What a grand old home!" he exclaimed. "They who own so charming a residence must be happy."

A few more well-chosen words opened the lips of the girl, and softened the face of the mother.

"Are your master's family traveling?" he inquired.

"No, sir," answered the girl. "Lord Wellesby, our master, is dead, and my lady is so sad since her daughter went away, that she has no company, and mostly all the servants is gone—only father and mother, me and the gard'ner."

With slow and weary steps out of the rose-garden, holding an exquisite bouquet in her thin, white hands, came a delicate lady, while the sturdy gardener walked close behind her with the most reverential air. From the exquisite face had almost faded all sign of life, save the look of inquiry in the dark-blue eyes. She approached the porch more as a friend than as a mistress, her delicate, white draperies falling gracefully about her, and the lace-mantle of creamy tint, thrown over the rich snow-white hair, so plainly gathered away from the patrician features, gave to her colorless cheeks an ethereal look that almost transfixed the always elegant, self-possessed stranger, who now rose to acknowledge her presence with easy grace, offering an apology for the intrusion. A chair was brought for her by the ready Bess; and when she was seated her self-invited guest resumed his seat, and Bess cleaned away the symbols of a repast that had been appreciated with the keen appetite created by youthful vigor, energy, and a freedom from all vices.

"Are you not an American?" she inquired in a cultivated voice.

"I have the honor so to be, madame."

"I have sometimes almost determined on visiting America, but my health will not permit. May I ask of your home?" she continued, with a vain attempt at a smile.

"I shall indeed be happy to reply," was the prompt response.

"Do you know Philadelphia?"

"Very well; I graduated there as a medical student, and my home is but a few miles distant."

"I have never taken so much liberty with an entire stranger before," said the lady; "but I had a dear friend, a most beautiful girl, who resided in Philadelphia a few years since. I have lost all trace of her; but the thought of her dear face is so constantly present with me, that the presence of an American gentleman prompts me to overlook all conventionality and to make inquiries which may sound rude."

The keen, gray eyes of this educated man detected the suppressed emotion, and recognized the fact that to some extent the delicate mind had lost its normal condition.

"If you would trust me with your friend's name," he said kindly, "I think I could find her."

"Agatha Miriam Wellesby," was pronounced slowly and with apparent effort—"nearly the same as my own."

With a nonchalance that the English greatly deplore in the American traveler, he left his name and home-address with Lady Wellesby, and, bidding her good-evening, hastened to find a conveyance that would bear him to his London hotel, as the friends whom he had deserted for his ramble would doubtless already be anxious about him.

As he walked rapidly down the lawn-bordered walk, a slight figure came from the depths of the shrubbery, and, checking his progress with her uplifted hand, said:

"You look kind and true, and I make bold to come and speak to you."

The earnest face of the young servant Bessie was turned imploringly towards the handsome, noble face, so far above hers that he must bend his head to hear, and, with the courtesy that all American gentlemen accord to women, he bared the broad forehead, with its clustering curls, while he listened attentively.

"Lady Agatha," she continued, "was the only child that was ever born to my lady. She was her heart's idol. If you could only send her some tidings of her it might save her life; the suspense is killing her."

The girl was gone, feeling that she had enlisted the interest of one who would prove true to her confidence. She was correct in her estimate of the man.

Deeply interested, he pursued his way, thinking how fortunate it was that he had separated from his friends during the day, and resolving to say nothing of his adventure to them, but to return and learn more fully the circumstances of the case before he should sail for home. Again avoiding his party, he retraced his steps to the country-house of the Wellesbys. He learned that Lady Wellesby was suffering from a low, nervous fever, and he did not meet her with the hope that he might be the means of restoring the daughter, or at least of establishing communication between her and the disconsolate mother. The faithful old servant repeated the story so often conned over in the hall by those whose deathless love would keep them with the mistress through all changes, until she had no more need of their services.

The daughter had been a remarkably beautiful girl, and when introduced into society had created quite a sensation—a descendant of two of the best families of Great Britain, not only best as to rank, but of pure records, with gifted intellect and with lofty principles.

Great care was bestowed on Lady Agatha, and a mind of rare culture was the result. Her accomplishments were worn as her beauty, with unmistakable grace. In her face was reflected the purity of her guileless heart. Out of the deep-blue eyes looked only kindness and truth. Many admirers sought her society. Of the number was an officer in Her Majesty's service, whose rank gave him additional honors, and he had proven himself a brave and daring soldier, wearing on his breast the approval of his sovereign in decorations that are not often given to men so early in life. His military dress added to the courtly mien and enhanced the manly beauty of his magnificent development; but from the eyes emanated a dangerous gleam, that spoke of a life of dissipation and the experience of an accomplished roue.

Every beautiful girl, unsoiled by contact with the world, who crossed his path, was marked as his prey; and the stealthy, prowling denizens of the forest are not more wary in their approach to an intended victim than was this "man of the world," who lived but for himself; a vampire more cruel than that which soothes the unconscious minister to an insatiate appetite, with the cooling, noiseless wings, until, bloodless, the heart ceases to beat, and painless death ensues. Ah, yes; far more cruel is the man-vampire, whose fiendish work is the ruin of woman's heart, and whose victims feel all their wrong. General Morton's experience led him to adopt the surest method of conquest, and soon the toils enveloped the unwary girl, and he held the fortress of her heart with an invincible force.

CHAPTER III.

Unfortunately, Lady Agatha numbered in her list of friends Lady Blanche Levering, who was many years her senior—a fascinating, irresistible woman, whose numberless intrigues were conducted with such consummate skill and judicious secrecy as to be entirely unknown, except by those interested, and were certainly unsuspected by the pure-minded Lady Wellesby. Agatha frequently paid morning visits to Lady Blanche, unattended by her mother, and met there General Merton, who was far too wise to appear as her suitor when he called at her father's house. It seemed strange how readily he learned of her presence at Lady Blanche's, and how sure he was to be disengaged in all other directions when there was an opportunity to meet her.

Lady Blanche favored the amour, and the artless girl was frequently left alone on some slight pretext with the unprincipled man, either in the exquisitely-furnished morning parlor or in the conservatory.

At home, Lady Agatha's spirits seemed to be depressed; and, as she had ever been a joyous child, filling all the house with her loving heart, the change was greatly deplored by all, even to the little scullery-maid and chore-boy, who held confidential chats, with lugubrious countenances, about Lady Agatha's solemn face and quiet ways. Urged by the anxiety of the faithful nurse, as well as her own heart, the loving mother sought her daughter's confidence, and learned of the meetings at the house of Lady Blanche.

Alarmed at this unexpected discovery, she called her carriage, and, accompanied by her daughter, drove to the elegant mansion and met Lady Blanche, tearfully beseeching her to use her influence to undo the wrong she had doubtless been unintentionally guilty of. General Morton had the reputation of being a heartless man, and, as he had not openly sought Lady Agatha, his conduct certainly had not been honorable.

The easy effrontery and needless sarcasm with which she was met by Lady Blanche almost maddened her, and she returned to her carriage, resolved to seek advice of their family counselor, in the absence of Sir Guy Wellesby, who was traveling in Spain, called there by business of so great importance that he was not, as usual, accompanied by his family.

He was made acquainted with the facts, and in a few days, with all the available means at his disposal for rapid journeying, he arrived at home. Lady Agatha was bowed with remorse at the discovery of the utter worthlessness of the object on which she had lavished so much love, and the sorrow caused to her parents.

Lady Wellesby was greatly shocked to learn that Lady Blanche, having been foiled in an attempted intrigue with the haughty, handsome Sir Guy, had determined on revenge, and her malice had fallen on the innocent daughter into whose love-awakened heart she had whispered that the caresses of pure love were always right. She had urged her to yield to the General, whose pathetic and eloquent allusions to what he might become with so sweet a wife had overcome all scruples. She did not confess to them how much of the time passed with him had been passed alone. She shrank from admitting even her mother into the deeper secrets of her now pained and tried heart; but she promised her father to see her lover no more, and to use her best endeavor to forget. But she had set for herself a task that never yet was satisfactorily accomplished by a woman, and she found that his words and caresses were ever before her, a continuous panorama.

Weeks passed by, and for the sake of her parents she had regained, through great effort, something of her former cheerfulness, when her heart became agonized by a fear she dared not name, even to herself.

Without being observed, she sent a letter to General Mordton—a brief, imploring letter:

WELLESBY HALL, Monday morning.

EVER DEAR ARTHUR.—On Wednesday next, at 3 P. M., I will pass Mordaunt Villa on my way to Lady Lemoine's. Will you meet me once more? It is all important that I see you. Adieu. AGATHA.

With a trembling, throbbing, anxious heart, she set out, with only her old nurse accompanying her. Soon a showy equipage came up with them, and General Mordton was invited to a seat with her. The nurse knew nothing of the cause of the sorrow that had lately seemed to rest on their house, and, being quite accustomed to seeing her young mistress the object of flattering attentions, she nodded and napped complacently while they talked low and earnestly. She expressed with painful blushes her fear, and he, taking her little hand with an affectatation of sorrow he was incapable of feeling, answered her:

"Doubtless your fears have foundation. There is now but one thing to do—fly to America. A steamer sails to-morrow. I may be able to procure passage, and when we arrive at New York we will be married without delay."

He returned to his own carriage, and Agatha was driven to her cousin's for a brief call. Returning to her home, she proceeded to pack her jewels and money, of which she had just received her quarter's allowance, and a few mementoes of her loved home, preparatory to her flight. She could only trust herself to say good-bye to her pet canary, who, roused from his slumber, gave her a short, sweet song, that she never forgot. Then, out of her room, stealthily over the porch, to the roof of a lower room, down the lattice of the grape-arbor, and, flitting through the gardens, she hurried to the designated point of meeting, never once looking back to where so peacefully slept the household without thought of the blight that the morrow would bring them knowledge of.

The General met her with every protestation of joy. All had been satisfactorily arranged, and, hastening to the railway, they were soon flying over the road, and landed at the pier in ample time.

How proudly happy the "little darling" looked as the stalwart, haughty, elegant fellow led her to her state-room. "Until then," she explained, "that no chance acquaintance may see and recognize us."

He left her there, to look after his baggage. She laid in the berth where he had left her with kisses, and listened to the bustle on deck, heard the calling of the captain, and felt that the great ship was moving, and yet he did not return.

Horrible suspicions of faithlessness overcame her, and she called the stewardess, to make inquiries for her "husband," as he had instructed her to call him. The messenger came back with the intelligence that "Capt. Smith went ashore, to attend to an extra package that was missing, and was left."

"Alone, going to a strange land, disgraced, forsaken!"

In her heart she knew that was what it portended. Vainly the lady passengers endeavored to console her, in vain the captain offered his cheery words; she was inconsolable. And even if he did not intentionally desert her, weeks must elapse before she could hear from or see him. There were no Atlantic cables in operation, and letters were not so swift as now in their journey over the sea.

Landing in New York, she found, under the captain's guidance, a comfortable boarding-place "until her husband would come." With a reticence that the captain could but respect, she gave him no clue to her parentage, and before he made a return trip she had changed for another and cheaper home, and he could obtain no trace of her. Her appealing, tear-stained letters to General Morton won no reply as months rolled away. Her jewels were nearly all gone, and she had learned to sew, as it was necessary to add something to her slender stock of fast-diminishing means. With wonderful courage she had denied to herself even the most ordinary luxuries, living with the closest economy. Her slender hands grew weary with her endless tasks, and her landlady was becoming suspicious of Capt. Smith's deserted wife. True, "she wore a wedding-ring," but there were "strange" letters received.

In pain and anguish, one hot Summer's day, she sought admittance into an hospital; and when the glaring sun at last went down, pale and quiet, with no tears to shed, she looked on the dead face of a little daughter, whose pinched features spoke of the sorrow that preceded her birth.

Oh, it is a bitter pang to bear when loving hands minister all the way, tender eyes and caressing lips give sympathy in the trying hour; but alone, without one supporting word of love, without husband or friends to welcome the little stranger, and help the mother bear it, it is indeed terrible.

Agatha cared nothing for this waif, so happily dead. While she was yet lying in the hospital, her old landlady came to see her, with an English newspaper containing an offered "reward" for the recovery of the body of the Lady Agatha Miriam, Wellesby, supposed to have been murdered after abduction. The description was so accurate as one of what Mrs. Smith must have been a few months previously to her acquaintance with the inquisitive visitor, but she denied emphatically all knowledge of the parties, and the following day left New York for Philadelphia.

Mrs. Murphy wrote an illegible, badly-spelled letter to Sir Guy, who, on its receipt, caught eagerly at the possibility of recovering his daughter, and dispatched a trusty messenger to Mrs. Murphy; but all trace of Agatha was lost, beyond the embarking for Philadelphia. He searched for her with care, but in vain, and returned to refresh his own household with the sight of his daughter's face, and to relieve the anxiety of her mother

THE TRIGGER.

THE CENTENNIAL RIFLE MATCHES.

THE AMERICANS WIN THE INTERNATIONAL LONG-RANGE MATCH.

The Irish Second, Scotch Third, Australians Fourth, Canadians Fifth.

THE MATCH WON BY 29 POINTS.

A FULL SCORE AT 1,000 YARDS BY MEMBER OF THE IRISH TEAM.

The international rifle competitions gotten up under the auspices of the Centennial Commission, the Amateur Rifle Club, and the National Rifle Association were decided during the past week, commencing Sept. 12, and continuing three days, at Creedmoor, L. I. The principal match, open to teams of eight from all nations and colonies, for a magnificent Centennial trophy, was the chief event of the meeting, and was contended for by teams representing Ireland, Scotland, Canada, Australia and America. It was shot for under auspices of the most favorable nature, everything being conducted in a manner to leave no room for complaint on the part of any of the contestants, and the result is calculated to afford unbounded satisfaction to the friends of the American team, who, though third on the list at the close of the first day's shooting, won by twenty-two points. We give below full particulars:

FIRST DAY—SEPT. 12.

Not more than two thousand people felt enough interest in the comparatively unimportant contests then arranged for decision to take the trouble of journeying to the range on the opening day, but riflemen were there in large numbers. There was very little wind, and though the greatest heat of the time the sun was hidden behind leaden clouds, the conditions being very favorable for the work in hand. The first competition was the which commenced shortly after 11 o'clock A. M., with 164 competitors and 186 entries. Conditions: Open to all comers; distance, 200 yards; position, standing; rifles, any not exceeding ten pounds weight; minimum pull of trigger, three pounds; ten shots; no sighting shots; entrance fee, $2. The shooting was fairly good, the two top scorers being on 45 out of a possible 50 points, and three others scoring 44 each. Underneath we give the names of the prize-winners:

SHORT-RANGE MATCH,

E. J. Rabbath	45	D. E. Vannett	42
E. T. Osgood	45	John Rueger	42
G. M. Hard	44	G. W. Yale	41
G. W. Davison	44	J. G. Freaman	41
G. E. Elder	44	W. Robertson	41
C. J. Stewart	42	George Disher	41
William Hayes	42	F. H. Holton	41
M. A. Scull	42	J. B. Smith	41
J. E. Stetson	42	C. W. Coleman	41
H. J. Quinn	42	E. W. Burd	41

Eight others made 41 points, and fourteen scored 40 apiece. This was followed by the

MID-RANGE MATCH.

Nearly all of the 158 riflemen entered came to the firing point, the number including many of the team men. The conditions were: Open to all comers; distance, 500 yards; position, standing rifles of 150 calibre or over to be used at 500yds., other rifles at 600yds.; position, any without artificial rest; ten shots; no sighting shots; entrance-fee, $2 each distance.

The marksmanship here displayed was superior to that noted in the short-range contest, and showed that the handicap of 100 yards for the finer rifles was entirely too light, for those using military arms had no sort of a chance with them. The leading scorer, H. S. Jewell, made a perfect score of 50 points, Ballard and Overbaugh each counting 49. Below we present the names of the prize-winners:

H. S. Jewell	50	R. C. Coleman	47
L. M. Ballard	49	A. S. Swan	47
C. E. Overbaugh	49	Col. S. A. Gildersleeve	47
R. Rathbone	48	E. H. Sanford	47
D. Sargent	48	Maj. Henry Fulton	47
H. L. Allen	48	S. Barker	47
R. G. McVicker	48	J. K. Milner	46
R. J. Haire	47	J. Booth	46
G. W. Yale	47	L. C. Bruce	46
C. E. Rider	47	W. Weber	46

THE TEAM MATCH—FIRST DAY.

The more enthusiastic and sanguine members of the committee having the control of affairs confidently anticipated the attendance on the first day of the big shoot of at least half a dozen times as many spectators as passed through the gates—but five thousand in all—and they were unable to account for this great falling-off from their calculations, for the weather was delightful, and there appeared nothing to deter people from going. Rifle-shooting in connection with Centennial is described, as far as spectators are concerned, rather monotonous at best, and it is presumable that the majority of those who felt interested in the issue of the meeting preferred to save themselves from this infliction of sedentariness by waiting until the end approached. The day was such as to leave naught to be wished for by any but marksmen, who have been accustomed to do their shooting during the prevalence of high winds, the sun shining forth bright and warm, and the breeze coming hot too freshly from the westward. Each team had two targets, at which they fired from tents which sheltered them from the sun's rays, and at the same time saved them from the annoyance caused by the intrusiveness of well-meaning but thoughtless outsiders. The Americans had the benefit of windward position, with the Canadians on their right, the Irishmen next, Australians fourth, and the Scotchmen on the eastern end of the line. The signal gun to commence operations sounded at eleven o'clock A. M., and first to fire was Cruit of the Kanuck eight, who opened the ball auspiciously for his side of the house by scoring a bull's-eye. He was followed by Draper of the Australians, who did likewise, but, unluckily, the "bull" was on a wrong target, and the shot counted nothing. The Americans and Scotchmen were slow in commencing, and didn't open out quite so well as the Irishmen, who got more quickly to business also. For a couple of hours the crack-crack of the rifles was heard almost without intermission, the spectators, who were gathered in squads behind the five tents, hoping that their presence would give encouragement to the team in whose favor their sympathies were enlisted. The Americans, notwithstanding the fine skill shown by the Irish and Scotch—the former especially—in the preliminary practice of the week previously, were naturally the favorites in the pools and betting generally, and when, at the close of the firing at the shorter range, they were announced to have made 509 points, leading the two next highest teams—Irish and Scotch—fifteen points, a rousing cheer went up for them, and they became still greater favorites. In the shooting at 900 yards (which commenced after lunch had been discussed), however, where the "Yanks" had a fall, Weber being the only man of the eight who equaled his score at the former distance; and when the shooting ceased at this range, though they still led by nine points on the aggregate of 800 and 900 yards, they could show but 63 points for the latter, the Scotch leading with 528, and the Irish and Australians scoring 524 each. At this range Col. Bodine, for the first time in his life, had the misfortune to make a bull's-eye on the wrong target, which counted just as many as Fulton's miss at 800 yards. After a brief intermission we resumed, this time at the long range, in which the stalwart riflemen from Scotia, who took plenty of time to do their shooting, maintained the advantage they had secured, although the Irishmen tied them in their score at this range, each making a total of 523 points. The Australians did not come up to expectations, falling fourteen points behind the leaders, which left them nine points in the rear of the victorious Scotchmen, and five behind the Irish. The Scotch were last to finish, shortly after half-past five o'clock, and the spectators, most of whom had lingered to see the finale, greeted their victory with cheer upon cheer, given with hearty good-will. The best score of the day was credited to Edward Johnson of the Irish team, who, at the long range, made fifteen consecutive bull's-eyes. Below we present the total individual and team scores at each range, and the aggregate number of points scored.

International Long-range Championship Match for the championship of the world; open to riflemen of all countries. Each team shall consist of eight men. Members of the various teams participating must be native-born citizens and residents of the countries they respectively represent, except in the case of teams representing a provincial form of Government, in which case a residence in the prcvince will be sufficient, provided the member is a native-born subject of the parent country. Any rifle, not exceeding 10lb weight; minimum pull of trigger, 3lb; 800, 900 and 1,000yds. Thirty shots at each range by each competitor. No sighting shots. Match to last two days. Competitors to fire fifteen shots at each distance upon each day, commencing at 800 yards. Any position without artificial rest. Captains of the competing teams shall elect two referees, and the referees so chosen shall appoint an umpire, whose decision in all cases shall be final. Prize—An American Centennial trophy. Such trophy to be shot for in each subsequent year, upon the same terms, in the country of the team holding it, at such time and place as said team, or a majority thereof, shall prescribe. Each member of the winning team to receive a medal representing the trophy, and also the medal of the United States Centennial Commission. Each competitor in this match will receive a diploma issued by the United States Centennial Commission. Sights, targets, marking and scoring in the foregoing matches to be according to the printed regulations of the National Rifle Association of America.

SCOTCH.	800yds.	900yds.	1,000yds.
R. McVittie	71	67	71	209
N. Thorburn	65	70	67	202
J. Mitchell	66	67	73	201
W. Clark	65	68	65	198
P. Rae	71	63	62	196
D. Fraser	67	67	62	196
T. Whitelaw	64	68	64	196
M. Boyd	66	63	63	191
Totals	535	528	523	—1,586
IRISH.
W. Rigbey	69	69	68	206
E. Johnson	78	67	64	206
J. K. Milner	67	66	71	204
G. Fenton	65	66	69	200
A. Ward	64	65	65	194
W. G. D. Goff	66	65	65	196
H. Dyas	66	65	61	192
W. R. Joynt	65	64	59	188
Totals	535	524	523	—1,582
AMERICAN.
T. S. Dakin	69	65	69	203
L. Weber	68	69	65	202
H. Fulton	66	64	70	200
R. Rathbone	70	66	63	199
J. L. Allen	68	65	65	198
H. A. Gildersleeve	70	79	55	194
W. B. Farwell	70	66	58	192
John Bodine	69	57	63	189
Totals	550	518	508	—1,577
AUSTRALIAN.
J. H. King	69	68	69	206
D. Gee	65	68	65	201
J. T. Sleep	69	69	61	199
J. S. Lynch	64	66	66	196
J. J. Slade	63	66	64	193
R. J. Wardill	71	64	58	193
J. McG. Smith	69	69	55	187
T. T. Draper	60	59	54	173
Totals	531	524	490	—1,545
CANADIAN.
J. Adam	68	67	66	201
W. H. Cotton	65	64	71	200
J. J. Mason	63	64	64	191
J. M. Gibson	64	59	61	184
G. Murison	64	57	60	181
D. Disher	62	57	61	180
W. Crull	67	53	59	178
W. H. Cotton	67	56	53	176
Totals	521	476	493	—1,490

SECOND DAY.

That the number of people who witnessed the opening competition in the championship-match did not indicate the depth of public interest in the result was made apparent on the closing day of the struggle, the trains which were run at intervals from Hunter's Point to the scene being throughout the day crowded to repletion, while upon the grounds were numerous carriages, stages, wagons, and other vehicles filled with sightseers. Still, there was nothing like the number of people present that had been expected, and, considering the bad management on the part of the railroad officials—who, though deriving the major part of the pecuniary profit accruing from the meeting, made little or no effort to provide for the comfort or accommodation of the teams or excursionists—it is fortunate that more were not subjected to the annoyances incident to the journey there and back, especially the latter. The weather was not so favorable as on the preceding day, differing in the main therefrom in the force and direction of the wind, which had shifted to the southeast, and swept across the range at the rate of about twenty miles an hour, and, as it blew very unsteadily, the marksmen were at times sorely puzzled, as will be observed by the record of the firing, especially in the first rounds at each of the three ranges, no sighting shots being allowed. Sometimes the wind would suddenly veer at the moment the marksman's finger pressed the trigger, and the bullet would be carried out of its true direction, which will account for apparently poor shots made by some of the best and most reliable of the contending riflemen—a notable example being furnished by the case of Gen. Dakin of the American team, whose score was marred by only one miss at 800 yards and two at 1,000 yards. The Scotch, Australian and Canadian teams were early upon the ground, and when they opened fire, shortly after half-past ten o'clock A. M., the Irish marksmen, who had been quartered at Garden City, had not yet arrived. They came upon the scene shortly afterwards, however, and got to work a little past eleven o'clock. The general opinion was that the Americans—who to-day occupied the two targets on the extreme east of the line, having the Canadians on their left, the Scotch next, the Australians fourth, and the Irish on the west—would have a more difficult task than on the first day, in consequence of the high wind, which was supposed to be favorable to the Scotch, Irish and Australian teams; but, notwithstanding this impression, the friends of the Americans never lost confidence in their skill, as was evidenced by their remaining at the head of the list in betting.

The shooting progressed rapidly at 800 yards, the crack of the rifle mingling with the cheers and encouraging exclamations of the crowds of sturdy countrymen gathered in the rear of the respective teams, and pressing heavily upon the ropes, which formed a barrier to their nearer approach to the contestants. The Americans opened badly; but subsequently improved so much that, when the discharge of the cannon announced the close of the competition at this range, the gratifying fact became known that they had held their own with the Scots, each team scoring 525 points, thus leaving the latter still nine points ahead. The Irish team, after beginning fairly, very unexpectedly fell off twenty-three points, which threw them back to third place, eighteen points behind the Americans, while they were but seventeen ahead of the Australians, the latter having done well, running up a score of 522. Bad work was done by the Canadians, who, with 129 points to get, were now certainly out of the race, as they themselves admitted. Some delay was occasioned by the inability of the markers to decide whether the eleventh shot of Major Fulton was a centre or an inner, and when Col. Wingate and the referees, Gen. Shaler and Col. Mitchell, had galloped down the range and inspected the target, Gen. Hawley, the umpire, was called upon to decide, which he did by giving it as a centre, and the shooter was given four points. The second day of the firing at 800 yards naturally elated the friends of both the Scotch and the American team and exercised a correspondingly depressing effect upon the partisans of the Irish marksmen, who had been expected to do much better. Of the individual scores, the most noticeable were those of Capt. Thorburn of the Scots, who made 73 out of a possible 75; Daniel Gee of the Australians, 72; D. Fraser of the Scots and J. J. Slade of the Australians, 70; J. M. Gibson, Canadian, 69; Cols. Gildersleeve and Farwell of the American and J. King of the Australians, and G. Fenton of the Irish, 68.

After having refreshed themselves with luncheon, at two o'clock the riflemen again took up their positions before the butts, and commenced peppering the 900-yards targets. The wind had by this time increased in strength, and became more shifty, thus adding to the work of the trigger-artists. As the teams from the Dominion and the Antipodes were not considered to have the slightest chance, the interest centred on the targets upon which the contest between Scotland, the Australian

THEATRICAL RECORD.

Movements, Business, and Incidents of the Theatrical, Circus, Musical and Minstrel Professions.

THE CLIPPER POST-OFFICE.

☞ A PRINTED KEY-BLOCK, plainly addressed, must be inclosed for each and every letter, and the line of business followed by the party addressed should be given, in order to prevent mistakes.

NOTE.—Professionals and others should bear in mind that, by a late change in the postal laws, all letters, etc., in transit between the United States and Canada, must be prepaid, otherwise they are not forwarded.

Letters received for week ending 5 P.M., MONDAY, Sept. 18.

LADIES' LIST.

Alexander, Sara
Atkinson, Maude (of Johnson'sCo.)
Allyne, Kittie (2)
Blossom, Mrs. "Nat"
Bramscombe, Maude
Barry, Mrs. Virginia
Broyer, Mary
Brennan, Mrs. R. A.
Blande, Edith
Benford, Mrs. S.
Bent, Belle Carroll, Jennie
Cammara, Marie
Comecelles, Miss M.
Clifton, Carrie
Caselli, Mrs. Fannie
Clifton, Minnie C. (vocalist)
Cazelli, Mad.
Cleveland, Nellie.
De Mott, Mrs. Josephine
Darling, Mrs. C. A.
Dove, Ada M.
De Yon, Adele
Daly, Ida
Dunbaar, Maria L.
Dickson, Marie Louise
Daly, "Polly"
Debonaire, Mrs. Jeannette
Daly, Alice
Elberis, Kittie B.
Ellis, Hattie (with perform. dogs)
Elbert, Daisie
Everett, Ella
Florence, Rena
Fox, Mary
Ferguson, Mrs. Della
Forrest, Katie
Fobbs, Mrs. E.
Fritz, Kittie Sharp
Freeman, Ada
Fay or Eliza Grime, Lizzie
Hastings, Lizzie
Howard, Annie (manageress)
Hall, Laura
Harrison, MissHarrie B.
Hazelton, AnnieE.
Herbert, Carrie
Hanauchek, Mad.
Kneass, Mrs. Nelson
Kelsey, Lila
Kemp, Alice M.
La Point, Lottie
Louise, Maggie
Lottus, Miss
Laurent, Edna
Lawrence, Nellie
Lengel, Mrs. Kate
Lee, Rosa (2) 5c.
Laurent, Ada
Lewis, Mrs. Ida Y.
"Leader"
Lee Fevre, Miss
Montague, Anna (of German Op. Co.)
McCarte, Mad.
Mitchell, Maggie
Mennette, Emmie
Nelson, Nettie
Phillips, Adelaide
Pezzuolo, Mad.
Proudfoot, Miss E. V.
Perley, Josephine 5c.
Peck, Nellie
Putnam, Katie
Richards, Belle
Ryan, Mrs. Belril
Rivers, Mrs Rich'd
Reddell, Cora (of Mabel'sDramCo)
Russell, Mad. (with Peak Family)
Robertson, Minnie
Reed, Nellie
Rabert, Miss M.
Rowell, Kittie
Reynolds, "Vic"
Sanley, Mabel
Somers, Alice
Stanhope, Adeline
Smith, Miss M.
Theadore, May
Thomas, Rosina
Thompson, Charlotte
Wildman, Clara
Wilson, Mollie
Whitin, Mrs. 15c.
West, Lillie(statue "biz")
Willis, Jennie & Jessie
Whitland, Kittie
Wakeman, Annie
Weatherby, Eliza
Wyndham, Alice

GENTLEMEN'S LIST.

Arnold Bros.
Allerup, P. S. (2)
Adams, "Tommy"
Abie, "Gus"
Ashley, Jack
Atchison, L. D. (2)
Adams, Edwin Almonte, Chas.
Aiden, Genl. D. A.
Aiken, F. E.
Arnold, W. N.
Allaman, John
Atkins, Chas.
Ala, —
Allman, Palmyra
Adams, "Den"
Bennett, H. (of Bennett& Kernell)
Byington, E. E.
Butler, Chas. W. (2)
Brown, "Gus" (2)
Burton, "Johnny"
Bacon, S.
Brown, W. H.
Barrett, Lawrence
Black, J.
Bardwell, F. H.
Blood, Col. J. H.
Braham, Harry (comedian, etc.)
Blanchard, W. E.
Bryant, "Neil"
Byron, Fred
Brown, Wm. P.
Bruffey, B. C.
Burgess, "Cool"
Bush, Chas.
Boyd, W. Andrew
Benjamin, F. L.
Blitz, Jerome 6c.
Bailent, (2)
Barnes, J. (of Van Amburgh's Cir.)
Barry, J. (of O'Brien's Cir.)
Cooper, Bailey & Co.
Crus, Chas. A. (musician)
Clifton & Forepaugh Cir)
Castello, D. (of Castello's Cir.)
Cleary, "Ned" (of Chas. Arnold)
Conway & Kerrigan 6c.
Callender, Chas.
Collins, Chas. (Dutch "biz")
Culberton, G. H.
Cook, J. G.
Cole, A. (of Forepaugh's Cir) 10c.
Chenet, "Joe" (of Forepaugh's Cir.)
Cushing, J. (of Howes & Cushing)
Cushing, Geo. L.
Clark, Geo. M.
Cowles, T. G.
Carlo Bros. (2)
Callender, Harry "C. E."
Carroll, Chas.
Camp, Sig.
Cari & Rotz
Collins, O. B.
Cunningham, Jas. 6c.
Cooper, Frank C.
Carr, E. M.
Cardwell, L. D.
Chanfrau, F. S.
Clark, G. Brooks
Cordella & Victorelli
Christie, Chas.
Charleston, Jno.
Dixon, "Bob" (of Haverly's Minst.)
Dame, Chas. "Pop"
Dyson, Junius C.
Delacelle & Tilly
Dixon, F. (of Holman's Op. Co.)
Dobson, C. W.
De Haven, Claude (2)
De Mess, G. W.
Deachon, J. W.
Delaine, Chas.
Davenport, G. C.
Davis, Jr., J. H.
Danberry, Chas.
Dorie, J. B. (with O'Brien's Cir.)
Donneson, E. B.
Dougherty, Thos.
Delehanty & Cummings
Deming, John
Elliott, "Dick" (of VanAmburgh Cir.)
Erni, Sig. (3)
Ellis, C. H. (gymnast)
Ellis, Sam
Everett, Frank
Emerson, Jas.
Ellis, C. T. (of Barnum's Cir.)
Emidy, Jas.
Fowler, Wm. M.
Forbes, Chas. (manager)
Fox, "Joe" E.
Fitzpatrick, M. J.
Fitzpatrick, J.
Fox, Ed. (manager)
Fillman, Chas.
Fitzgerald, "Steve" A.
French, Ed. (banjoist)
Ferguson, Jas. (circus "biz")
Fowler, W. W.
Flinn, Jas. (2)
French, "Jack"
Foster, Hernandez W.
Fitzgerald, Alex.
Forepaugh, W. (of J. O'Brien's Cir.)
Fish, Sr., Thos.
Ford, Thos.
Fian's Father, "Tommy"
Griffin, J. E. (2) (of Griffin & Rice)
Gardner, C. R.
Gray, Chas. S.
Gale, Walter
Gregory, Chas. (barrel "biz")
Gregory, C. J. (gymnast)
Gardner, W. H. (sideshow "biz")
Grinnell, Geo.
Girard, Robt. Durrie
Gorman, John
Garner, Arthur
Graham, John
Gilday, Chas. (2)
Gray, C. (manager of European Cir.)
Guy, Sr., Geo.
Gothold, E. S.
Gaynard, Prof.
Heywood, Jas. (manager)
Hopper Op. Co. Manager
Haverly'sMinstrels
Healey, Richd. A.
Henderson, Wm.
Hogan, John
Holly, Jas. H.
Hanlon, Geo.
Harrison, Chas (comed.)
Havey, Thos. W.
Howson, F. A.
Hart, Henry
Hammond, G. H.
Hawley & Sharp
Hayden, Chas.
Hall, J. W.
Hogan & Lord
Hengler, T. B.
Hallett, Jr.
Hall, F. A.
Hallett, Mr.
Hartman, L. W. (2)
Hayden, W. R.
Harris, Wm.
Jordan, Chas. C.
Josephs, Harry
Jones, Arnold (2)
James, S.
Johnson, J. (of Johnson& Bruno)
Jones, H. Wheeler
Jerome & Cammeron
Kent, Frank (2)
Kidder, E. E.
Kelley, J. or J. K.
Buckley
Kennedy, Dr. A. B.
Kendall, "Archie"
Kelly, Arthur J.
Kirkpatrick, Jno. J.
Lester, Prof. J.
Le Clair, Jas.
Liston, Alf.
Little, Chas.
Lingard, Jos.
Lawlor, W. F.
Lucas, Saml.
Lodge, Jas. J.
Lawson, Mr. (opera "biz")
Lawlor, Frank
Larsen, Prof. Sec.
La Mont, J.
Leo, Magician (3)
Lind, Karl
Leslie, Eddie
Lowery (with Colored Comp.)
Luke, "Dan"
Lacy, John
Lusbie, "Ben"
Lennon, John
Lamkins, Harry
Lawson, J. (of N. Y. Minst.)
"Leader"
Lewis, Mrs. Ida Y.
Lee Fevre, Miss
Montague, Anna (of German Op. Co.)
McCarte, Mad.
Mitchell, Maggie
Mennette, Emmie
Nelson, Nettie
Phillips, Adelaide
Pezzuolo, Mad.
Proudfoot, Miss E. V.
Perley, Josephine 5c.
Peck, Nellie
Putnam, Katie
Richards, Belle
Ryan, Mrs. Belril
Rivers, Mrs Rich'd
Reddell, Cora (of Mabel'sDramCo)
Russell, Mad. (with Peak Family)
Robertson, Minnie
Reed, Nellie
Rabert, Miss M.
Rowell, Kittie
Reynolds, "Vic"
Sanley, Mabel
Somers, Alice
Stanhope, Adeline
Smith, Miss M.
Theadore, May
Thomas, Rosina
Thompson, Charlotte
Wildman, Clara
Wilson, Mollie
Whitin, Mrs. 15c.
West, Lillie(statue "biz")
Willis, Jennie & Jessie
Whitland, Kittie
Wakeman, Annie
Weatherby, Eliza
Wyndham, Alice
Power, W. H.
Peak, Wm. H. (2) 5c.
Postl, Thos.
Price, Saml. (of Wagner's Minst.)
Peak Family Bellringers
Pool Brothers
Potter, W. J.
Plunkett, Chas.
Petrie, W. O. (2)
Phoite, John
Phillips, "Gus" (2) (of Phoite, Jos.
Robinson, Harry
Reynard, S. B.
Robinson, Jas. (equestrian)
Reed, S. D.
Rice, "Dan" (circus "biz")
Rickaby, "Jack"
Ross, W. A.
Rankin, McKee
Rogers, Frank F.
Robinson, F. C. P.
Reynolds Bros.
Robinson, Jas. (circus prop)
Robinson, L. (brother Wm. Robin.)
Rose, Byron
Ringler, "Add"
Roberts, Mr. (clog. Cadet)
Rooms, Jas. D.
Richards, Geo. (late of Magician)
Riches, G. (of Cambridge, Eng.)
Reily, Jno. (vocalist) (2)
Robinson, H. (of Robinson Minst.)
Silk, Albert
Roylance, A. H.
Robinson, W. B. 6c.
Sands, "Will" A.
Sprague, Dan'l
Sage, Geo. A. (musician)
Sully, J. (late of Enoch's Variet.)
Smith, J. W. (of Leavitt's Bellrin.)
Sheridan, W. (of Sheridan Bros.
Strebinger, Fred.
Showles, W. (of Costello & Cir.)
Stanton, W. (pantomimist)
Skiff & Gaylord's Minstrels
Smith, Dr. W. H. (with Washburn)
Skillings, Geo.
Smith & Fox
Stubbs, Stokes
Sothern, E. A.
Schutz, J. C.
Sharpley, Jas. W.
Sherwood, Chas.
Smith, Jas.
Smith, Jno. G.
Stoepel, Harry
Schofield, F. S.
Schoen, R. T.
Sackett, J. E.
Summers, J. W.
Shields, J. H.
Scott, A. R.
Sautelle, Geo.
Spriggs, Harry Sawtelle, Ed.
Sparkes, Wm.
Sheehan & Jones
Sands, "Will"
Sprague, D.
Train, Richd.
Thatcher & Hume
Taylor, Green & Taylor
Taylor, "Joe" (of Taylor's Cir. Co.)
Toomey, W. F.
Turner, "Ned"
Turner, J. H.
Vane, "Will" H.
Vincent, Felix A.
Varry, E.
Wolhalla Bros.
Westhall, C. H.
Wagner, "Cal" (2)
Ware, Geo.
Wells, Geo. M.
Wentworth, Walter
Whitney, John
Whitehurst, Thos. (3)
White, Geo. H.
Wilcox, L. M.
Weaver, E. S.
Wildman, F. J.
Washburn, E. S. (2)
West, F. H. (of Haverly's Minst.)
White, F. G. (manager)
Williams, J. ("Lancashire Lad")
Wood, Geo. (with Wyman)
Whitecar, F. (of Barnum's Cir.)
Walton, G. (of "Bill-ly" Pastor's Co.)
Williams, ——— (Dutch "biz")
Whitney, Chas. ("biz" manager)
Ward, J. (of Rothschild's Cir.) (2)
Wilson, Geo. E. (manager)
Wood, Geo. W. (vocalist)
Wells, Geo. S. (manager)
Ward, Jno. F. (actor)
Wilkinson, W. H.
Worley, Chas. E.
"Wally Thomas"
Williams, Le Percy
Walker, Whimsical
Wolhalla & Leo
Wold
Warren, Geo. (gymnast)
Williams, Harry (actor) (2)
Williams, "Bob" (of Bryant & Will'm) (clown)
Young, Chas. W.

CITY SUMMARY.

SUCCESS THAT IS DESERVED, when attained in any pursuit or calling, merits commendation. Manager Sinn, since he has had control of the Olympic Theatre, by the energy and activity he has displayed, and by constantly supplying his patrons with numerous fresh performances each week, has auspiciously opened a season which bids fair to be one of the most successful in the annals of this theatre. On Sept. 11 Hugh Fay, Commodore Nutt, Gus Lee, Major Nutt, the Russian Athletes—George Dunbar, Wash. Antonio, Natalio Lowande, and C. J. Gregory—the Misses Bettie Remmelsberg and Antoinette Corsi, the Troy Sisters, and the Barlow Brothers were engaged, and the premises and the Dickinsonian compound possessing considerable comic power, as was evinced by his performances in a sketch called "Blood Will Tell," in which he had the assistance of Bob Hart. Commodore and Major Nutt and Gus Lee created much amusement by their acting of a musical sketch called "On the Way Up to Centennial." The Russian Athletes, all of whom are skilled and graceful performers, and who have had a long experience in the practice of their profession, were seen in a series of difficult acrobatic feats, which drew forth emphatic approbation. Later in the evening two of them—Natalio Lowande and George Dunbar—performed a very clever act, entitled "In Nubibus, or the Equilibristic Circle." Bettie Remmelsburg and Antoinette Corsi, in a double dance entitled "Pas De Bouquet," exhibited their choreographic skill to the complete satisfaction of the spectators. The Foy Sisters—Bertha and Josie—performed for the first time a musical sketch called "Moonlight Shadows," in which they impersonated two young ladies who were, unknown to each other, in love with the same young man, and who had both come to meet him. The endeavors of each to rid the other of her presence forms the ground work of the sketch. When the young man, to keep his appointment, mutual confession follows, and rancor gives way to friendship. The sketch proved quite entertaining, and was very well acted. Both of the young ladies were attired in new and costly garments of the latest fashion, Ida wearing a short dress of light-blue silk and satin, profusely trimmed with rich lace, and Bertha a costume of the same material, but of a pink color. Their excellent singing of a duet entitled "Gates Ajar" was deservedly and loudly applauded, and won for them an encore, in responding to which they gave other specialties. The Barlow Brothers, eccentric song-and-dance men, met with success, they being in ability fully up to the average standard of that class of performers. Annie Engle continued to warble popular ditties; Sam Devere sang banjo-songs, interlarded with witty dialogue and local hits; George S. Knight sang songs in the German dialect, and recited quite effectively a parody on "Casbianca;" Bob Hart gave a burlesque oration, and "Cartouche, or the Stolen Jewels," in which the dramatic performers appeared, filled out the programme.

THE CONCERTS AT GILMORE'S GARDEN during the past week have afforded entertaining programmes, including all the executants who have taken part in the concerts of the past few weeks. On Friday evening an immense audience was assembled to witness the presentation of the trophy to the American victors in the late international rifle-match, who, in addition, were furnished with a musical bill filled with the popular and characteristic melodies of the several countries represented by the recently competing teams, the expressive rendering of these homely numbers receiving more enthusiastic applause than would have been accorded a more pretentious programme. Levy, the cornet soloist, received a benefit on the 16th. The Horticultural Exhibition this week, commencing Tuesday and continuing until Friday, will be open both day and evening, with special concerts at one o'clock each day.

HARRY BECKETT returned from Europe in the steamship City of Chester, which arrived in this port Sept. 18.

AT THE CHATEAU MABILLE VARIETIES the company the past week included Mlle. Lucille, Ida Phillips, Annie Conroy, Emma Leach, Flora King, Kitty Gardner, Lizzie Harron, Melinda Nagle, Kitty Doyle, Fred Warren, Harry Lester, Harry Le Clair, W. J. Mills, Signor Novisimo, Mlle. Leman and Lottie La Point

THE GLOBE THEATRE has been rented for three years to a person whose name has not yet been made public. The lease was signed last week.

THE GRAND OPERA-HOUSE is to be opened for a season Sept. 18, under the management of Poole & Donnelly. The Oates Comic-opera Company is to be the opening attraction.

JOHN THOMPSON was the star at the Bowery Theatre the past week, acting in a drama entitled "Moses the Old-clothes Man," which was preceded by "The Young Widow" until Saturday night, when the latter gave way to "The Elf of the Eddystone Lighthouse."

JOHN ALLEN is to be added to the company of Kelly & Leon's Minstrels this week.

AT THE PARISIAN VARIETIES the new people for Sept. 18 are Henrietta Mollenhauer, Harvey Collins and Walter Wentworth.

MISS. G. C. HOWARD'S COMBINATION are to perform "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Bowery Theatre this week.

JULIAN KENT and the trained bear Julia are to perform day and night this week at Wood's Museum, opening in "Wild Bill."

MISS ELOISE ALLEN and De Witt Cooke are to reinforce the company at the Theatre Comique Sept. 18.

AT THE OLYMPIC THEATRE the fresh attractions this week include Mons. and Mme. D'Omer, Keating and Sands, Ada Lynwood, Charley Benedict and George W. Wood.

MISS JEFFREYS LEWIS of Daly's Fifth-avenue Theatre was suddenly called to Boston, Mass., on Tuesday last to act Mabel Renfrew in "Pique," owing to the illness of Fanny Davenport. Miss Georgina Drew supplied Miss Lewis' place in "Money."

TONY PASTOR has postponed the opening of his regular season until Oct. 2, having decided to make a second tour of the New England cities with his traveling company.

JOHN H. MURRAY'S CIRCUS is to commence a season at the foot of Houston street, near the East River, on Thursday, Sept. 21. The chief attractions will be Woods Cook, Prof. Parker and his trained dogs, Fred Runnells, George Francis, Eugene Leach, James Donovan, Tom Barry, "Whimsical" Walker, William Marks, Charles H. Adams, Mlle. Vera and the Misses Minnie and Sallie Marks.

THE REGULAR SEASON at the Fifth-avenue Theatre was inaugurated Tuesday evening, Sept. 12, when "Money" was performed with the following cast:

Alfred Evelyn	C. F. Coghlan
Graves	C. Fisher
Stout	J. Brougham
Lord Glossmore	Geo. Parker
Sir John Vesey	W. Davidge
Capt. Dudley Smooth	J. Drew
Sir Frederick Blount	W. Barrymore
Frantz	F. Bennett
The Old Member	J. H. Ring
Tyke	I. Davenport
Sharp	W. Beekman
Grab	F. Willard
Crimson	G. Gilbert
Clara Douglas	Miss Jeffreys Lewis
Bailiff	Mr. Sullivan
Georgina	Miss Emily Rigl
Lady Franklin	Miss M. Wells

The theatre remained closed Monday evening, and during the brief recess the partitions were removed from the private boxes on the first and second balcony tiers, thus throwing the former two boxes into one, and the large pillars were removed from between the orchestra boxes. A telegraph office has been opened in the vestibule of the theatre, which connects by special wire with all the offices of the Atlantic and Pacific and Franklin Telegraph Companies in this city, with certain offices in Brooklyn, L. I., Jersey City, N. J., and Long Branch. This will be found a great convenience to persons desiring to secure seats in advance, as all that is necessary to be done is to go to any one of these offices, select the desired seats and pay for them, and on arriving at the theatre they will be found reserved. The comedy, as represented, was in six acts, and the old scene, which is often omitted, was restored. The central figure of attraction upon this occasion was Charles F. Coghlan, an English actor of repute, who made his American debut, acting the character of Alfred Evelyn. He has a slight but well-proportioned figure, a pleasant, mobile countenance, black hair, and a clear, musical voice of somewhat limited compass, it being deficient in the lower tones. He possesses that repose which can only be acquired by years of practice, and his gestures and movements are, in the main, graceful and easy, the latter, however, being somewhat marred by a disposition to attitudinize. He did not at once strongly impress the audience, but gradually grew into their favor. It would be unwise, perhaps, to judge too critically of his abilities by his performance of this single character, and more particularly so because his attempt was made on his part to give a correct portrayal of Alfred Evelyn, instead of reproducing the Evelyn of the period designated in the comedy. Mr. Coghlan presented us, as nearly as the dialogue would possibly permit, with the representation of a young gentleman of the present day, and the remembrance we can now judge, we think that his forte lies in the acting of the heroes of modern society plays, and in that line, we doubt not, he will become deservedly popular and successful. We cannot commend the acting of the other characters in the comedy, as a whole. Mr. Brougham, who is seldom able to conceal his personality, was, as usual, himself on this occasion. Charles Fisher was likewise out of place as Graves, and W. Davidge was only fair as Sir John Vesey. Had Mr. Davidge been cast for Graves and Mr. Fisher for Sir John Vesey, we think the result would have been far more satisfactory. George Parkes was tame as Lord Glossmore. Maurice Barrymore was fairly successful as Sir Frederick Blount, he being the young to act a character like Captain Dudley Smooth, which exerted himself to the best of his ability. J. H. Ring, who made his first appearance in this city, he was the past twenty years in the Boston (Mass.) Museum, created much amusement by his really artistic impersonation of the Old Member, in the club scene. Miss Jeffreys Lewis acted Clara Douglas in a single act, Miss Georgina Drew assuming that role on Wednesday evening. The latter, considering her brief experience, is deserving of commendation for the pains she took with the part and for the comparative success which she achieved. Miss Mary Wells is an excellent actress, but she was out of place as Lady Franklin, and the German accent of Miss Emily Rigl totally mutilated her Georgina. The minor parts received due care and attention. The attendance was large during the week. "Money" will continue the attraction until Tuesday, Sept. 26, when Mr. Daly's new play is to be produced, and Miss Amy Fawsitt will make her American debut, and Miles. Sohlke and Bonfanti will make their first appearances in this theatre.

COOL BURGESS, John Queen, John Tudor, Eva Gray, Achille S. Phillion and Seamon and Somers comprised the reinforcements to the Third-avenue Theatre last week. Cool Burgess gave his well-known musical specialties, and acted Old Daddy Longlegs in the sketch of that name, all of which were received with uproarious manifestations of delight. John Queen acted in a very humorous manner the character of Rarey the horse-tamer in a sketch with the same title. John Tudor gave character songs which met with a fair degree of favor; but we fear that his style of performances will not become a favorite here. Eva Gray as a vocalist has some faults to overcome ere she attains the success to which she aspires. Her enunciation is quite indistinct, and she does not always sing in time. She has a pleasing appearance, and was tastily attired. Achille S. Phillion gave an exhibition of his skill on the revolving globe, which he rolled up as he ascended, and from form to the top of a high pedestal, and, while in that position, he performed quite deftly a number of juggling feats with balls, bottles, knives, etc., and wound up with a display of plate-spinning under a shower of fireworks. Seamon and Somers proved themselves clever dancing and singing men. The minstrel first-part was continued; Ida Devere danced a Centennial medley; Dollie Warren was seen in songs-and-dances; Eunice Moore sang serio-comic songs; and the sketch of "Stage-struck," which introduced James Quinn, Sam Ryan, E. D. Gooding, George Warren, Jerry Leslie, Bessie Warren and others, was given for the twenty-third time.

JOHNNY MORTON, song-and-dance performer, who gave "The Dancing Barber," and Adams and Lee, who performed quite skillfully banjo and guitar duets, and gave other musical specialties, were added to the company of Kelly & Leon's Minstrels on Sept. 11, when the following changes were made in the programme: Edwin Kelly sang "Messenger Swallow;" Edwin Lester, "Baby's Got a Tooth;" C. H. Gordon, "Come, Live With Me;" and for the finale of the first-part "Soldiers to the Front" was revived. In the olio Leon was seen as "Fashionable Kate," in which character he favored the audience with some witty dialogue; and the comedietta of "The Two Doves" was acted by Edwin Kelly and Leon. The burlesque of "Sir Dan O'Fallus" continued an attractive feature.

JOHNSON AND BRUNO, acrobatic song-and-dance men, whose performances have been frequently reviewed in these columns, and Frank Bell, who delivered a burlesque stump-speech in so comical a manner as to create a success unsurpassed, were the additions to the company at the Theatre Comique on Sept. 11. The programme also included singing by Maggie Weston, Adah Richmond, and the Orpheus Quartet, consisting of G. W. H. Griffin, S. Holdsworth, H. J. Burt, and G. W. Hall; banjo-songs by William Carter; Irish character songs-and-dances by Kelly and Patrick Gilmore; the local sketch "Bob" by Harrigan and Hart; and the sketches of "The District Telegraph," "Whar's Dat Gal ?" with Billy Barry in the chief character, and "Down Broadway, or the Miniature 69th," which was produced with new scenery. In the latter Edward Harrigan introduced a new specialty, "The Veteran Guard;" in the act depicting the interior of Harry Hill's, Billy Barry did an old-time song-and-dance, and J. T. Ryan was seen as a ballad-singer; and at the termination of the sketch a company of boys did some excellent marching, and executed the manual-of-arms in a highly commendable manner. The audience continued large, and the success of Harrigan and Hart's managerial venture now seems pretty well assured.

AT THE SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS the programme has been enlivened by the following changes: In the first part H. W. Frillman sang "Down by the Sea;" Frank Lapolla, "The Gray Old Man and My Mother;" Charley Backus, "Meet Me on the Cross-roads;" and D. S. Wambold, "Bring Back the Old Folks, Willie," all of which received marks of approbation. In the olio greater latitude was given for the provocation of mirth, and Johnson and Powers commenced the fun with a rollicking song-and-dance sketch entitled "We, and Bertha Ann;" Will Dar;" Ricardo burlesqued the airs and graces of the young lady of the period, and sang a fresh song, entitled "Fie! for Shame;" "The Funny Old Gals," which Birch, Backus, Ryman and Johnson made so popular last season, was revived, and proved to be as provocative of laughter as then; Ed Ryman repeated his humorous remarks on "Reform;" and Hall gave some scientific banjo-playing; and an old sketch, under the fresh title of "The Coal Combination," sent the spectators to their homes in the best of spirits.

THE CAST of "Clouds," the opening piece at the Park Theatre, will include Mrs. Alexina Fisher Baker, the Misses Rose Wood, Ida Jeffreys, Laura Edmondson, May Gallagher, Isabel Herman and Emma Harding, Messrs. W. J. Cogswell, Cyril Searle, J. B. Polk, A. D. Bradley, J. B. Brutone, J. C. Padgett, and J. W. Langley. The stage-manager is J. C. Padgett; musical director, W. Withers Jr.; scenic artist, Geo. Heinneman; treasurer, Frederick A. Sayer; master carpenter, R. Berger; gasman, James Garbitt; property-man, Robert Stack.

AT THE PARISIAN VARIETIES the newcomers since our last report were Annetta Galletti, the well-known dancer; Armstrong and Oaks, who performed a sketch called "Susie's Serenade;" and Mons. Cardella, dancer, who was seen in a divertisement called "Love and the Priest," Miles. Galletti and Bertha being the chief dancers. The programme also included the Watson Brothers in acrobatic and gymnastic feats; songs by Minnie Hall, Minnie Seaman and Sophie Victoria; banjo performances by Horace Weston; a minstrel first-part; and the sketches of "Old Nipples' Latchkey" and "Midnight Bathe."

THE ATTENDANCE was large throughout the past week at Booth's Theatre, and the success of "Sardanapalus" is now assured.

ROBERT HELLER, the well-known magician and pianist, arrived from England in the steamship Queen on Sept. 19. Since he left here, some years ago, he has made the tour of the world.

CHANDOS FULTON has retired from the management of the Park Theatre, and is no longer connected with it in any capacity.

"THE TWO ORPHANS" is to be the attraction at the Union-square Theatre when the regular season opens on Oct. 2. There will be some few changes in the cast.

THE DATE OF THE OPENING of the Park Theatre has been changed to Sept. 18. J. B. Polk, A. D. Bradley, and Mrs. Alexina Fisher Baker are among the new members of the company.

A LARGE INFLUX of Centennial visitors into the city the past week not only crowded all of our hotels, but increased the attendance at all of our places of public amusement.

ILLION DAVEAU, whose name was inadvertently omitted from the list of the company at the Fifth-avenue Theatre this season, published in our past issue, will continue to perform there. He should not have been ignored, as he is a painstaking and rising young actor.

MISS AMY FAWSITT, the leading lady of the Fifth-avenue Theatre, has arrived. She was a passenger in the steamship Parthia from Liverpool, Eng., which reached Boston, Mass., Sept. 10.

MISS KATHARINE ROOKER is to be the leading lady at the Union-square Theatre the coming season.

"UNDER THE GASLIGHT," acted by the stock company, formed the attraction at Wood's Museum at both matinee and evening performances last week.

AT THE COLUMBIA OPERA-HOUSE a good business has been done, and a varied programme presented by the people named in our past issue. The following will be added to the company this week: Lillie Raymond, Carrie Avery, Mlle. Lavinia, Nellie Picketts, Greacon and Arlington and J. L. Howard. The front of the theatre is being repainted, and the main entrance enlarged.

DRAMATIC, Managers, Agents, Doorkeepers, and Others

Are respectfully requested not to extend any courtesies or information to persons claiming to be correspondents of THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, unless they can exhibit a card of a LIGHT BLUE COLOR, with an engraving of THE CLIPPER BUILDING on one side, and on the other the names of the city, correspondent, etc., signed by the proprietor of the paper, with the stamp of the office, and date of Sept. 1, 1876, affixed thereunto, each card running for six months. Every authorized correspondent is supplied with a card of the above description, and has no authority to use any other upon our behalf. Managers will save themselves from imposition by demanding an exhibition of said card, and refusing to accept any excuse whatever for its non-production. The card is not transferable; and, if it be presented by any person other than the one whose name it bears, managers and others will confer a favor if they will retain it and mail it to this office. Applicants for the position of correspondent not receiving any reply are politely requested to consider silence a negative. Applications need NOT be made for the position of TRAVELING CORRESPONDENTS, as THE CLIPPER never employs any person in that capacity.

NELLIE JONES, leading lady or soubrettes, can be engaged for the season by addressing as per card.

AZEBE PLACIDE is at liberty to engage for leading business, or as the attraction of a traveling company. See card.

MME. IVAN C. MICHELS advertises that she thoroughly understands plain and gentlemen for the stage and lecture-room.

JAMES OWEN O'CONOR, tragedian, is open for starring engagements. See card.

THE MANUSCRIPT of the play "Katrina" is offered for sale by M. L. Cain, who advertises.

JOHN LANCASTER of Manchester, England, who has many warm friends among American professionals, numbers of whom have enjoyed his bounteous hospitality while in England, was married in Brighton, to Miss Wallis, a well-known actress, on Aug. 17.

SAM B. VILLA is at present playing an engagement with the Worrell Sisters.

AT THE BROOKLYN (L. I.) THEATRE, E. A. Sothern commenced an engagement of one week Sept. 11, acting in "Our American Cousin" until Friday, when "David Garrick" and "Dundreary Married and Settled" were produced and performed the rest of the week. He was supported by the regular company, strengthened by Miss Linda Deitz and Messrs. M. C. Daly and Ed. Lamb. The plays presented received a neat and tasteful setting. Mr. Sothern on his first night was greeted by a large and brilliant audience, which was followed by a steadily increased augmentation of numbers on each following night. Miss Augusta Dargon and combination are to commence an engagement Sept. 18. The attaches of the front of the theatre for this season are Ramine Rogers, business-manager; B. H. Butler, treasurer; Thomas F. Shea, the head usher of the Union-square Theatre, New York, presides during the day as box-book keeper.

MISS KATE RANOE is making a tour of Canada, supported by the following company: Messrs. Harry Lindley, C. F. Hall, Allan Halford, F. McCall, R. Gaylor, J. Vickery, J. Campbell, Macanly and Bradshaw, Mrs. W. A. Bradshaw, and the Misses Fanny Tyson, Stella St. Clair, and Marian Robinson.

THE WORRELL SISTERS—Sophie and Irene—and a company are to perform in New Haven, Ct., Sept. 18. Their combination has Sam Villa, George Richards, Henry Clarke, Miss Rosettai, Hallam's orchestra, and Oberfeld's brass band. Charles H. Day is the business-agent.

THE HON. G. B. EDWARDS, formerly a prominent politician in Murfreesboro, Tenn., we are informed, is organizing a dramatic company to travel this season. R. Crosby is the advance-agent; George Neeley, press-agent; and A. J. Mosby, billposter.

FRANK E. AIKEN'S company, with Genevieve Rogers, is to perform in Springfield, O., Sept. 18, Dayton 19, Richmond, Ind., 20, Logansport 21, Fort Wayne 22, Toledo 23, Cleveland 25, one week; Cincinnati Oct. 2, one week; Pittsburg, Pa., 9, one week.

MACAULEY'S, Louisville, Ky., is to open for the season Sept. 25. It was Manager Macauley's intention to have opened Sept. 11, but he failed to make the necessary arrangements. The stock company will appear the first week in several society plays, and Miss Mary Anderson will be the first star, commencing Oct. 2.

THE SEASON of 1876-7 was inaugurated at the Opera-house, Wheeling, W. Va., Sept. 11, by Miss Genevieve Rogers, supported by F. E. Aiken's company, in the play of "Maud Muller." The attendance was large, considering the unfavorable weather. The drama was liberally mounted, the scenery, mechanical effects and stage appointments being new. Miss Rogers was greeted by a large audience on her first appearance, and throughout the difficult role of Maud proved herself worthy of praise by a careful and pleasing impersonation. Messrs. J. E. Nugent, Frank Bosworth, Geo. Ober, J. Bancroft, J. S. Norton, and the Misses Annie Mortimer and May Nugent deserve commendation for their parts. The house on the 13th Miss Rogers was tendered a benefit by prominent citizens, upon which occasion the Opera-house held a large and fashionable audience.... John E. Owens is to play here Sept. 21, 22. Letter 14.

THE SEASON was inaugurated in Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 11, by Dill's Dramatic Troupe, presenting "Our Boys and Girls," Louie Lord appearing to good advantage as Mary Melrose. J. A. Lord made the most of Perkyn Middlewick, whilst Jenny Woltz, John J. Simms, Harry A. Lee, H. A. Hanker, Cecile Wallace and Minnie Simms made up an admirable support. On the 12th "The Gilded Age" was put on.... A Lord acting Col. Sellers, and Miss Louie Lord, Laura Hawkins—and gave satisfaction. On the 13th "Our American Cousin." On the 14th "Our Boys" was repeated. Business light. Letter of Sept. 15.

MISS FLORENCE RICHMOND, supported by Boyd's Star Company, commenced a tour in Allentown, Pa., Sept. 11, thence to Easton 12, Phillipsburg 13, Trenton 14, and is to perform in Wilkesbarre 18, Pittston 19. The company includes W. Andrew Boyd, manager; James Harrison, stage-manager; Harry H. Turner, business-manager; S. Fred Boyd, press-agent; Emmitt Watson, programmer; Robert M. Sheridan, W. Davidson, Harry Chessman, Geo. Gilbert, Eugene Gordon, Miss Ida Vernon, E. Case, James Devlin, Mrs. W. N. Drew, Annie Dalton, Letitia Cameron, and Florence Noemie.

SOME CHANGES have been made in the company known as Salsbury's Troubadours for this season. Miss Clara Fisher has supplied the place of Miss Alice Merritt, and Mr. Gourlay that of J. C. Bennie.

THE "JULIUS CÆSAR" COMBINATION, under the management of Jarrett & Palmer, with E. L. Davenport as Brutus and Lawrence Barrett as Cassius, is to start on an extended tour of the country at Bay City, Mich., Sept. 25, thence to East Saginaw 26, Grand Rapids 27, Jackson 28, Milwaukee 29, 30, giving a matinee on the latter date, St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 2, Minneapolis 3, La Crosse, Wis., 4, Dubuque, Ia., 5, Rockford 6, Bloomington 7.

"FANCHON" was presented at the Portland (Me.) Museum Sept. 15, and at matinee 16, by a company under the direction of Wm. Calder; Alfy Chippendale assuming the title-role. Houses good. The third regular season at this house commences Sept. 18, its opening attraction being "Pique," with Fannie Marsh as star, her engagement lasting four weeks. The following is a list of the company and officers: Ida B. Savory, Lizzie May Ulmer, Mrs. M. L. Berrell, Isabella C. Morris, Sarah Lewis, Geo. F. Learock, Walter A. Donaldson, F. J. Morris, H. L. Bascomb, C. Whitmer, C. B. Leonard, F. P. Barton, John L. Wooderson. Proprietor and manager, Will Wyer; stage-manager, W. A. Donaldson; musical director, Prof. Charles Grimmer; prompter, F. P. Barton;

THE LADIES AND GENTLEMEN engaged for the traveling season of the Henrietta Chanfrau Combination are requested by Manager Tayleure to assemble at the Globe Theatre, Boston, Mass., Sept. 27. See call published in our business department.

FOREPAUGH'S FIFTH-AVENUE COMBINATION is to perform in Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 18, 19, 20, Lacrosse, 21, Minneapolis, Minn., 22, 23, St. Paul one week commencing 25

JAMES S. MAFFIT SHOT.—This well-known pantomimist was performing in Washington, D. C., with George H. Tyler's "Humpty Dumpty" Troupe, in the National Theatre during the past week. At an early hour on Wednesday morning he received a stray bullet in one of his hands from a pistol fired by one ruffian at another in a shooting affray that took place on the street on which the theatre stands. Mr. Maffit was an entire stranger to both parties, and was in no way connected with the affray. The wound he received is very severe, and will incapacitate him from following his profession for several months.

MISS ANNA E. DICKINSON has added another play to her repertoire, written by herself, entitled "Love and Duty," adapted from the novel of "Jane Eyre." She will begin her season at Macauley's Theatre, Cincinnati, On Oct. 16, and announces that her time for the entire season is filled. Her business-manager, O. G. Bernard, publishes his address in another column.

MISS HELEN HOUGHTON, who is now one of the stock company at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, is thus favorably commented upon by two of the Philadelphia journals for her acting in "Led Astray:"

Miss Houghton presented a very charming and natural Matilda. She was entirely at her ease in the role, graceful in her movements, piquant and artful in her manner, perfectly natural in the rendering of her lines, and she pictured the phases and impulses of the wayward girl's life with a fidelity we have rarely seen surpassed.—The Press.

Miss Helen Houghton, who appeared as the pretty, warm-blooded and girlish Matilda, contributed one of the best performances of the evening, her acting being very natural, while she looked the part to perfection.—The Evening Bulletin.

MUSICAL.

"FRIENDSHIP'S GOLDEN DAYS," a song by B. S. Haskell, dedicated to Nell Burgess, can be obtained of W. B. Nelson, publisher, who advertises.

A LEADER OR ORCHESTRA desires an engagement. See S. R.'s card.

JOHN MAGES, manufacturer of banjo bass-strings, advertises elsewhere.

A CORNET-PLAYER desires an engagement. See J. Nevotel's card.

A TUBA-PLAYER desires an engagement. See Ed. Fowles' card.

THE BERGER FAMILY and Sol Smith Russel open in Fort Wayne, Ind., Sept. 20; thence to Logansport, Ind., 21, Jacksonville, Ill., 22, 23, Carrolton 25, Jerseyville 26, Keokuk, Iowa, 27, Ottumwa 28, Des Moines 29, Council Bluffs 30, Nebraska City, Neb., Oct. 2, Brownsville 3, St. Joseph, Mo., 4, Lincoln, Neb., 5, Plattsmouth 6, Omaha 7, and then to San Francisco, Cal.

FOR A LIST of the latest comic songs, see L. P. Goulland's advertisement.

SPAULDING'S BELLRINGERS performed in Lynn, Mass., 11, Beverly 12, Gloucester 13, Rockport 14, Amesbury 15, Newburyport 16, and are billed in Portsmouth, N. H., 18, Biddeford, Me., 19, Saco 20, Portland 21. Business is reported as having been large.

THE AIMEE OPERA TROUPE opened in the Academy of Music, Montreal, Canada, Sept. 13, to a full house and business has been good since. "Giroflé-Girofla," "La Grande Duchesse" and "La Fille de Madame Angot" have been given. The troupe will remain there the greater part of next (this) week.

MUSICAL NOTES.—The Oates English-opera Company open the opera-bouffe season at the Grand Opera-house this evening with an English version of "La Fille de Mme. Angot."..... The Young Apollo Club, the youthful vocalists who have made so capital an impression by their performances at Gilmore's Garden during the season, are to start on a concert tour at the conclusion of their engagement.

SOL SMITH RUSSELL'S songs are published by L. P. Goulland. See card.

A SEASON OF ITALIAN OPERA, under the management of Max Strakosch, was commenced on the 11th of September at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, "Norma" being the opening opera, with Mme. Fabbri in the title-role, Geo. A. Conly making his first appearance in Italian opera, and creating a favorable impression as Oroveso. "Il Trovatore," "Lucrezia Borgia," "Favorita," and "The Barber of Seville," made up the programme for the remainder of the week. Mlle. Anna Bosco making her debut in Philadelphia Sept. 12, as Rosina in the last-named opera. A couple of extra nights will be given. "Il Trovatore" being announced for the 18th, and "Semiramide" receiving its first representation in Philadelphia on the 19th inst.

A CENTENNIAL MUSICAL FESTIVAL under the direction of Theodore Thomas will be given at the Academy of Music, Philadelphia, commencing Sept. 20 and concluding Sept. 30. A number of distinguished vocal and instrumental soloists and the Women's Centennial Chorus will appear in conjunction with Theo. Thomas' Orchestra.

THE OPEN-AIR CONCERTS at the Mannerchor Garden, Philadelphia, were discontinued on Sept. 16.

AT FOREPAUGH'S TROPICAL GARDEN, Philadelphia, concerts are given nightly, the singing of Miss Agnes Harcourt, Miss Jessie Bartlett and Mr. W. H. Stanley being attractive features thereof. Miss Bartlett has become an established favorite there.

CHARLES L. GIBBS, B-flat cornet-player, advertises for an engagement with a reliable company.

PROF. JOHN J. ADAMS, band-orchestrion performer, advertises for an engagement.

THE LANCASHIRE BELLRINGERS and Specialty Troupe performed in Providence, R. I., Sept. 13. Route: Danvers, Mass., 18., Lawrence, 19, Portsmouth, N. H., 20, Biddeford, Me., 21, Portland 22. James Heywood is the manager.

MISS KELLOGG and several members of her company sang Sept. 12 at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, Md., the occasion of the celebration of the battle of North Point.

THE GERMAN MILITARY BAND, under the direction of Carl Beck, is giving daily and occasional evening concerts at the Lookout House, Cincinnati, O., a Summer resort kept by Frank Harff.

VARIETY HALLS.

THE S. F. T. F. O. C. IN CALIFORNIA.—In a recent issue we gave an account of the arrest and holding to bail of C. E. Mortig in San Francisco, on the complaint of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, for causing his two infant children to perform acrobatic and gymnastic feats in the Bella Union Theatre, in that city. Upon this, the first trial before the Court the jury disagreed. A second trial was held on Sept. 5, when the charge of so employing his daughter, Lottie Mortig, aged five years, was investigated. The defendant did not deny the alleged charge, but sought to prove that the feats performed were not dangerous to life and limb. The Judge charged the jury that, in order to find the defendant guilty, they must not only find that the child performed the feats as alleged, but that the feats were dangerous to life and limb and prejudicial to health. The jury, after an absence of five minutes, returned a verdict of guilty, and on Sept. 6 Mr. Mortig was sentenced to pay a fine of $30. Another case in which he was charged with a like offense regarding his infant son, Walter, being called for trial, Mr. Mortig pleaded guilty, and in consideration thereof was fined only $5. Samuel Tetlow, the manager of the Bella Union Theatre, was arraigned for trial in one case, being charged with permitting one of the children to perform such feats in his theatre, and the jury returned a verdict of acquittal.

CHARLES A. BULLOCK, professionally known as Will E. Harland, pedestrian and pantomimist, has commenced an action in New York City for divorce from his wife, Adelaide M. Bullock, professionally known as Della Gonzales, serio-comic.

THE GUY FAMILY performed in Springfield, Mass., Sept. 15, 18.

TONY PASTOR'S COMBINATION is to perform in Lynn, Mass., Sept. 18, Salem 19, Manchester, N. H., 20, Lowell, Mass., 21, Worcester 22, Providence, R. I., 23, Springfield, Mass., 25, Hartford, Ct., 26, New Haven 27, Bridgeport 28, Paterson, N. J., 29, Newark 30, and there close their traveling season.

LOLA, the trapeze performer, who went to Havana, Cuba, in October, 1875, with the Russian Athletes, has arrived at her home in Rochester, N. Y. After being in Havana two months she was taken ill and confined to her bed for four months. A time last she left Cuba and went to the West Indies. During her performances in St. Thomas she fell from the trapeze, a distance of nearly forty feet, receiving severe injuries, from the effects of which she is still suffering, and which will probably prevent her performing for some weeks to come. From St. Thomas she took passage in the brig Marie for New York, and after being out five days the vessel sprang a leak, and the pumps gave out. With four feet of water in the hold they put into Porto Rico. After repairs the vessel again set sail for this port, where she arrived Sept. 5, after a voyage of five weeks. This series of misfortunes shows that a performer's life is not all sunshine.

JOHN STETSON'S NOVELTY COMPANY appeared in Salem Sept. 13, Lawrence 14, Manchester 15, Lowell 16, Worcester 16, and open in the Howard Athenæum, Boston, 18.

THE NEW METROPOLITAN THEATRE, Louisville, Ky., under the management of Harry Wharfe, was to have opened Sept. 16 with the following company: The Morosco Family—Walter, Young America, Charley and Edward—acrobats; Nellie Taylor, vocalist; Homer and Holly, song-and-dance; the Claire Sisters—Minnie and Maggie—female contortionists; Fred D. Harris, comique; Nellie Howard, jig-dancer; Willie Estelle, serio-comic; Ed. Chrisie, character comedian; Fannie Florence, dancer and vocalist; Master Charley, equilibrist; Billy Wylie, comedian; Mlle. Cornielle, dancer. Prof. Gus Gebert will lead the orchestra.

A PARTNER in musical-moke business is wanted by S. W. Hopkins, who advertises in this issue.

FREEMAN SISTERS, specialty sketch-artists, announce in their card that their time is being rapidly filled up. They publish a list of their engagements ahead. They have two new features, the specialty sketch "Now and Then," and a burlesque entitled "Our Two Orphans."

CLARK BROTHERS advertise that they play several musical instruments, entirely new in the musical-moke business.

FRANK, who advertises that he is good in Dutch and negro specialties, desires an engagement to learn the business.

A SEMIO-COMIC VOCALIST, a song-and-dance lady, leader of orchestra, and a lady to learn the business are wanted by J. D. Rowley. He also requests D. S. Gerry to communicate with him. See card.

AT THE REVELLE THEATRE, Chicago, Ill., under the management of Ryder and Foley, with John Nichols stage-manager, and J. F. Woulf musical director, artists can find engagements by applying as per advertisement.

SENSATIONAL STARS and specialty artists desiring engagements at the Holliday-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md., are referred to the manager's card.

LITTLE TODD, the juvenile acrobatic performer, contortionist and balancer, opens at the Holliday-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md., Sept. 18. He will be at liberty Oct. 2, and can be engaged through his letter and manager, Chas. Crocker. See card.

CHAS. H. YALE, pantomime clown, now at Theatre Comique, Providence, R. I., opens at the Boylston Museum, Boston, Mass., Oct. 9.

R. M. CARROLL and SONS can be secured by managers to appear in their several specialties, including the well-known "McFaddens" and others, mentioned in their card elsewhere.

E. C. HAYDEN, who is well known through the New England States as one of the Whitcomb Brothers, song-and-dance performers, shot his wife twice in the abdomen, and wounded his brother-in-law, on Aug. 31, at Derby Line, Vt. For a short time last season he traveled as agent for Wilson & Gerry's Dramatic Company. Mrs. Hayden died from the effects of her injuries Sept. 6, and Mr. Hayden has since been confined in the jail in Dranburg.

AN IRISH COMEDIAN, a lady balladist and a pianist, violinist and organist desire to engage with a good party for a long season. See Trio's card.

THE PARK THEATRE, Brooklyn, L. I., for the week ending Sept. 16 offered an unusually strong programme, numbering features that were there seen for the first time in Brooklyn, the most noteworthy being Master Martin and Robert Butler in their new act entitled "Jim James," which was received with considerable favor. Mlle. Cecile Lecomte sang selections from French opera-bouffes in a vivacious and spirited manner, and, though well received, would have proved more acceptable to the majority had they been rendered in the English instead of the French tongue. John Cottrell proved himself an expert upon the revolving globe, as did Messrs. Keating and Sands in a "Musical Moke" act. Scanlon and Cronin also appeared in their familiar and favorite sketch "Life in a Tenement-house," which act, as now given by them, is robbed of much of that which on its first presentation caused it to become so very popular. In endeavoring to polish a stone which is more desirable in the rough, these young men have, to a certain extent, spoiled what was once quite a gem in its way. The Freeman Sisters appeared in a new sketch, in which they introduce some very meritorious singing. The Robinson Family—two young misses and a youth—gave solos on the harp, violin and banjo, interspersed with songs, clog and jig dancing. The Orrin Brothers were the recipients of hearty and prolonged applause upon the conclusion of their gymnastic feats, which were brought to a termination with their wonderful head-to-head balancing, done without the usual caps or head-covering. Walters and McKee made their first bow in this city since their recent copartnership. Both performers retain entire all the line of business peculiar to their previous acts. J. H. Clifford in a jig-dance called the attention of the audience to his peculiar steps, which were claimed by him to be exact imitations of such style of dancers of the olden time. Annie Ward Tiffany as Madam Freeze in the two-act drama entitled "Justice" met with a hearty reception, it being her first appearance since her recent severe illness, which wellnigh proved a fatal one. The attendance throughout the week has been highly satisfactory..... The Olympic Theatre has continued to hold as large an attendance at each performance as that noticed during the preceding week. The programme has consisted of the sketches of "Helping Hands," "Take It and Don't Take It," "Love's Flirtations," and a farce, "Love and Politics," interlarded with motto songs by George May, John Pendy in his specialties, M. Le Fowler in mid-air feats, Petite Florence in change acts, Fanny Wood in Irish songs, Master Dunn in song-and-dance, Harry McCarthy in his act entitled "Moments with Merry Momus."..... The season at Grey's Opera-house was brought to an abrupt close Sept. 12. C. S. Grey, the manager, defaulted on the afternoon of that day, leaving, it is alleged, the company unpaid and all other bills unsatisfied. Advices of Sept. 16.

AT THE METROPOLITAN, Indianapolis, Ind., an almost entirely new company appeared the past week, the programme introducing the Martinetti Bros., gymnasts and pantomimists; the D'Alves Sisters in banjo duets, songs-and-dances and character specialties; Josie Farron and Jennie Eagan, fancy dances; Hugh Eagan, dialect comedian; Billy Wylie, Irish and Dutch comedian; Harry Lester, Ethiopian delineation; and Taylor, Green and Taylor in their musical specialties, concluding with Mr. Martinetti's specialty "The Mischievous Monkey." The following closed Sept. 15, all going to Louisville, Ky., to assist in the opening of the new Metropolitan, at that place: the Claire Sisters, Nellie Taylor, Nellie Howard, Mlle Estella, and Harry Wharfe. Wharfe assumes the management of the new theatre. Next week Leonore Fredericks, serio-comic, and Nully Pieris, operatic vocalist, will be added to the list. Letter of Sept. 15.

AT SAUM'S OPERA-HOUSE, Grand Rapids, Mich., the business has been good the past week, the new faces being Bobby Gaylord in an Irish sketch and afterwards in burnt-cork specialties; Joe Mack, who is good in songs-and-dances; and Agnes May, vocalist. The departures 16 were Weaver and Fletcher, to Jackson, there to join A. O. Miller; Hattie Ellis, to Toledo; the Martens, to St. Louis, Mo.; Peasley and Lea, to Chicago; and Dan and Flora Mason, to Akron, O. Frye and De Bar, Alice McGowan, Jennie Howard and Harry Clarke, who will take the stage-management, are booked for 18.

THERE WERE NO NEW ARRIVALS at the Theatre Comique, Toledo, O., Sept. 11, the company of the week before remaining. Closing 16 were Charles Diamond, to Cleveland, and Miss Gray, to Detroit, Mich., to commence 18; J. B. Green, Minnie Ward, Billy De Vere, Ella Arnold, the Gorman Brothers, and Miss Willis, who has just recovered from a severe fever. The matinee given at the Opera-house 9 having been a success, another was to be given 16. ..... The Adelphi is to reopen 18 with Angelo Kelly and troupe for a season. Albert Vanderpool, for a long time connected with this theatre, joins Hickey's Statue Party at Chicago shortly.

SPECIALTY ARTISTS, sensation stars and novelties of all kinds can find engagements at Front-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md. See card.

AT HEUCK'S HALL, Cincinnati, O., a number of performers are wanted, as stated in the advertisement in another column. James and Baby McDonald, Zittella, Tommy Fish and the Snow Brothers are particularly requested to communicate with Manager Douglas.

BOYD AND WADE are now performing at the New Central Theatre, Baltimore, Md., where they can be addressed until Oct. 16.

CHARLEY BOYD, formerly of Boyd and Scott, comedian and specialty artist, has concluded his engagement with the New Orleans Minstrels, and will rejoin his former partner, Tommy Wade. All communications can be addressed to Boyd and Wade, as per card.

CALL.—The ladies and gentlemen engaged for the Grand Central Theatre, Galveston, Texas, and Thompson's Theatre, Dallas, are requested by Manager Sprague, in his card in another column, to assemble at the Grand Central Depot, this city, Sept. 24, at 9 o'clock. The company includes the Cole Brothers, Eurardo, Collins and Moore, Andy Morris, Frank Eeland, Frank Stansell, Lillie Francis, Fanny Knight, Lizzie Wilson, Emma Clifford, Ida Mausey, Bella Moore, Maggie Wesner, Nellie Marshall and the Florence Sisters. Harry Wells is leader of orchestra.

THE NEW ATTRACTIONS at Ward's Opera-house, Newark, N. J., Sept. 11 were Connors and Kelly in double songs-and-dances, and later in a well-executed double jig, both acts eliciting applause, and Prof. Neil Smith and his troupe of trained dogs. A good business was done. Week 16: Pauline Blanchard, to Meriden, Ct.; Chace and Davis, to Hartford; Poole Bros., Mlle. Poole, Master Zaulo Poole and Prof. Neil Smith, to New York; Sam and Maud Sanyeah, to Baltimore; Ada Sanborn, to Brooklyn; Connors and Kelly, Mlle. Nannie and Mlle. Clair, no engagement. Billed for 18: Rachel Alexander, John Pendy, Tierney and Cronin, the St. Felix Ballet Troupe, the Watson Brothers, Frank Raymond, Fanny Knight, Fanny Morrello, and Alfred Chase. Week 18 et seq.: The Manhattan business has been of an excellent character. The new people 11 were Frank Steele in a burlesque bellringing act; Jennie Wade in vocalisms; Sam and Kitty Parker in Irish musical sketches; and the Manhattan Sisters in song-and-dances and double-clog; Frank West in songs-and-dances on roller skates, giving satisfaction. Closures 16: Will H. Vane, Frank Steele, and Sam and Kitty Parker, to New York; Prof. Fabra and Mlle. Faltony, to open at Coliseum 25; the Twin Sisters French, to Detroit; Fanny Morrello, to Ward's Opera-house; and Frank West, to Brooklyn. To open 18: the Gorman Brothers, Frank Gibbons, Lottie Grant, Adelaide Miller, Christine Percy, Buckley and Turner, and John D. Griffin..... At the Olympic a fair share of business has been done. Stella Duncan was the only new face 11, she giving satisfaction in serio-comic songs and ballads. Closing 16 were Stella Duncan and Ed. Ryan, both to New York. Announced for 18 are Harry Fox and Annie Rochfort. Advices of Sept. 16.

NEWTON'S VARIETIES, Hartford, Ct., under the management of Lew Clapp, with Frank Harrison as stage-manager, Ed. Clapp treasurer, and Harry Bailey leader of orchestra, was opened for the season Sept. 11. The entertainments commenced with a minstrel scene, introducing T. F. Thomas, Ed. Heeney, Fred Sharpley and Lew Clapp on the ends, and Frank Harrison as interlocutor. In the olio, Alice Somers did songs-and-dances, Mabel Pearl vocalized, Thomas and Heeney appeared in sketches, and the Kine Brothers—James and Harry—were seen in a musical act. Walter Wentworth, contortionist, was added to the company 13. Business throughout the week was good. Thomas and Heeney closed 16, and the announcements for 18 are Alice Gleason and Chace and Davis. Letter of Sept. 17.

THE LYNN SISTERS, writing from Cincinnati, O., under date of Sept. 14, desire us to correct some errors made by our correspondent. They deny that they are song-and-dance performers and say that they will not appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18, but will appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25. They claim to be "the original and only double serio-comic singers or vocalists on the stage," and are performing at the Loewen Garden Theatre, Cincinnati, O., where they are to remain until Oct. 9.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE GIRARDS.—Russell Girard, founder of the troupe of grotesque dancers bearing his name, died at his home in Brighton, Mass., Aug. 28, of hemorrhage of the lungs, after a long illness, at the age of 28 years. His real name was J. D. Russell Clark, and under that name he made his debut on the dramatic stage at the Boston (Mass.) Theatre about the year 1860, and continued there, playing utility business some five years. Witnessing the performances of the Majiltons, and being quite tall and slim in figure, he determined upon organizing a similar troupe. Having associated with himself two other performers, and after much laborious practice they made their first appearance in public as grotesque dancers under the name of the Girards at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass. Subsequently they fulfilled engagements in many of the principal cities of the country, having appeared in this city at Niblo's Garden in "The Black Crook." In December, 1873, they visited California, and sailed from there to Australia, where they met with pronounced success. Returning home in 1874, they performed two weeks, commencing June 8, that year, at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass., with George L. Fox's "Humpty Dumpty" Troupe. During that engagement Russell Girard broke his leg, and did not subsequently appear in public.

THE HARRISON SISTERS and Eliza Eldridge in their terpsichorean and statue specialties, and Billy Lanning in character-songs, met with a favorable reception at Miller's Winter Garden, Philadelphia, during the past week. Master John F. Rhodes, Kearney and Moran, and George Volna are the new faces here on the 18th inst. Gus Mills and Ed. Barker and Miss Lizzie Conway closed on the 16th inst. Business has been very good during the week.

TONY PASTOR occupied the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass, the past week with his company. It is an exceptionally fine organization, and deserves the success achieved. For the coming week there is to be an entire change. The list of names includes Lake Schoolcraft, George H. Coes, Walters and McKee, T. M. Hengler, Bobby Newcomb, Sam Devere, Kelly and Ryan, Harry Kennedy, the Freeman Sisters, Blanche Corelli, and Curry and Fox. Advices of Sept. 16.

NEWTON'S VARIETIES, Hartford, Ct., under the management of Lew Clapp, with Frank Harrison as stage-manager, Ed. Clapp treasurer, and Harry Bailey leader of orchestra, was opened for the season Sept. 11. The entertainments commenced with a minstrel scene, introducing T. F. Thomas, Ed. Heeney, Fred Sharpley and Lew Clapp on the ends, and Frank Harrison as interlocutor. In the olio, Alice Somers did songs-and-dances, Mabel Pearl vocalized, Thomas and Heeney appeared in sketches, and the Kine Brothers—James and Harry—were seen in a musical act. Walter Wentworth, contortionist, was added to the company 13. Business throughout the week was good. Thomas and Heeney closed 16, and the announcements for 18 are Alice Gleason and Chace and Davis. Letter of Sept. 17.

THE LYNN SISTERS, writing from Cincinnati, O., under date of Sept. 14, desire us to correct some errors made by our correspondent. They deny that they are song-and-dance performers and say that they will not appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18, but will appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25. They claim to be "the original and only double serio-comic singers or vocalists on the stage," and are performing at the Loewen Garden Theatre, Cincinnati, O., where they are to remain until Oct. 9.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE GIRARDS.—Russell Girard, founder of the troupe of grotesque dancers bearing his name, died at his home in Brighton, Mass., Aug. 28, of hemorrhage of the lungs, after a long illness, at the age of 28 years. His real name was J. D. Russell Clark, and under that name he made his debut on the dramatic stage at the Boston (Mass.) Theatre about the year 1860, and continued there, playing utility business some five years. Witnessing the performances of the Majiltons, and being quite tall and slim in figure, he determined upon organizing a similar troupe. Having associated with himself two other performers, and after much laborious practice they made their first appearance in public as grotesque dancers under the name of the Girards at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass. Subsequently they fulfilled engagements in many of the principal cities of the country, having appeared in this city at Niblo's Garden in "The Black Crook." In December, 1873, they visited California, and sailed from there to Australia, where they met with pronounced success. Returning home in 1874, they performed two weeks, commencing June 8, that year, at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass., with George L. Fox's "Humpty Dumpty" Troupe. During that engagement Russell Girard broke his leg, and did not subsequently appear in public.

THE HARRISON SISTERS and Eliza Eldridge in their terpsichorean and statue specialties, and Billy Lanning in character-songs, met with a favorable reception at Miller's Winter Garden, Philadelphia, during the past week. Master John F. Rhodes, Kearney and Moran, and George Volna are the new faces here on the 18th inst. Gus Mills and Ed. Barker and Miss Lizzie Conway closed on the 16th inst. Business has been very good during the week.

TONY PASTOR occupied the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass, the past week with his company. It is an exceptionally fine organization, and deserves the success achieved. For the coming week there is to be an entire change. The list of names includes Lake Schoolcraft, George H. Coes, Walters and McKee, T. M. Hengler, Bobby Newcomb, Sam Devere, Kelly and Ryan, Harry Kennedy, the Freeman Sisters, Blanche Corelli, and Curry and Fox. Advices of Sept. 16.

SPECIALTY ARTISTS, sensation stars and novelties of all kinds can find engagements at Front-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md. See card.

AT HEUCK'S HALL, Cincinnati, O., a number of performers are wanted, as stated in the advertisement in another column. James and Baby McDonald, Zittella, Tommy Fish and the Snow Brothers are particularly requested to communicate with Manager Douglas.

BOYD AND WADE are now performing at the New Central Theatre, Baltimore, Md., where they can be addressed until Oct. 16.

CHARLEY BOYD, formerly of Boyd and Scott, comedian and specialty artist, has concluded his engagement with the New Orleans Minstrels, and will rejoin his former partner, Tommy Wade. All communications can be addressed to Boyd and Wade, as per card.

CALL.—The ladies and gentlemen engaged for the Grand Central Theatre, Galveston, Texas, and Thompson's Theatre, Dallas, are requested by Manager Sprague, in his card in another column, to assemble at the Grand Central Depot, this city, Sept. 24, at 9 o'clock. The company includes the Cole Brothers, Eurardo, Collins and Moore, Andy Morris, Frank Eeland, Frank Stansell, Lillie Francis, Fanny Knight, Lizzie Wilson, Emma Clifford, Ida Mausey, Bella Moore, Maggie Wesner, Nellie Marshall and the Florence Sisters. Harry Wells is leader of orchestra.

THE NEW ATTRACTIONS at Ward's Opera-house, Newark, N. J., Sept. 11 were Connors and Kelly in double songs-and-dances, and later in a well-executed double jig, both acts eliciting applause, and Prof. Neil Smith and his troupe of trained dogs. A good business was done. Week 16: Pauline Blanchard, to Meriden, Ct.; Chace and Davis, to Hartford; Poole Bros., Mlle. Poole, Master Zaulo Poole and Prof. Neil Smith, to New York; Sam and Maud Sanyeah, to Baltimore; Ada Sanborn, to Brooklyn; Connors and Kelly, Mlle. Nannie and Mlle. Clair, no engagement. Billed for 18: Rachel Alexander, John Pendy, Tierney and Cronin, the St. Felix Ballet Troupe, the Watson Brothers, Frank Raymond, Fanny Knight, Fanny Morrello, and Alfred Chase. Week 18 et seq.: The Manhattan business has been of an excellent character. The new people 11 were Frank Steele in a burlesque bellringing act; Jennie Wade in vocalisms; Sam and Kitty Parker in Irish musical sketches; and the Manhattan Sisters in song-and-dances and double-clog; Frank West in songs-and-dances on roller skates, giving satisfaction. Closures 16: Will H. Vane, Frank Steele, and Sam and Kitty Parker, to New York; Prof. Fabra and Mlle. Faltony, to open at Coliseum 25; the Twin Sisters French, to Detroit; Fanny Morrello, to Ward's Opera-house; and Frank West, to Brooklyn. To open 18: the Gorman Brothers, Frank Gibbons, Lottie Grant, Adelaide Miller, Christine Percy, Buckley and Turner, and John D. Griffin..... At the Olympic a fair share of business has been done. Stella Duncan was the only new face 11, she giving satisfaction in serio-comic songs and ballads. Closing 16 were Stella Duncan and Ed. Ryan, both to New York. Announced for 18 are Harry Fox and Annie Rochfort. Advices of Sept. 16.

NEWTON'S VARIETIES, Hartford, Ct., under the management of Lew Clapp, with Frank Harrison as stage-manager, Ed. Clapp treasurer, and Harry Bailey leader of orchestra, was opened for the season Sept. 11. The entertainments commenced with a minstrel scene, introducing T. F. Thomas, Ed. Heeney, Fred Sharpley and Lew Clapp on the ends, and Frank Harrison as interlocutor. In the olio, Alice Somers did songs-and-dances, Mabel Pearl vocalized, Thomas and Heeney appeared in sketches, and the Kine Brothers—James and Harry—were seen in a musical act. Walter Wentworth, contortionist, was added to the company 13. Business throughout the week was good. Thomas and Heeney closed 16, and the announcements for 18 are Alice Gleason and Chace and Davis. Letter of Sept. 17.

THE LYNN SISTERS, writing from Cincinnati, O., under date of Sept. 14, desire us to correct some errors made by our correspondent. They deny that they are song-and-dance performers and say that they will not appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18, but will appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25. They claim to be "the original and only double serio-comic singers or vocalists on the stage," and are performing at the Loewen Garden Theatre, Cincinnati, O., where they are to remain until Oct. 9.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE GIRARDS.—Russell Girard, founder of the troupe of grotesque dancers bearing his name, died at his home in Brighton, Mass., Aug. 28, of hemorrhage of the lungs, after a long illness, at the age of 28 years. His real name was J. D. Russell Clark, and under that name he made his debut on the dramatic stage at the Boston (Mass.) Theatre about the year 1860, and continued there, playing utility business some five years. Witnessing the performances of the Majiltons, and being quite tall and slim in figure, he determined upon organizing a similar troupe. Having associated with himself two other performers, and after much laborious practice they made their first appearance in public as grotesque dancers under the name of the Girards at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass. Subsequently they fulfilled engagements in many of the principal cities of the country, having appeared in this city at Niblo's Garden in "The Black Crook." In December, 1873, they visited California, and sailed from there to Australia, where they met with pronounced success. Returning home in 1874, they performed two weeks, commencing June 8, that year, at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass., with George L. Fox's "Humpty Dumpty" Troupe. During that engagement Russell Girard broke his leg, and did not subsequently appear in public.

THE HARRISON SISTERS and Eliza Eldridge in their terpsichorean and statue specialties, and Billy Lanning in character-songs, met with a favorable reception at Miller's Winter Garden, Philadelphia, during the past week. Master John F. Rhodes, Kearney and Moran, and George Volna are the new faces here on the 18th inst. Gus Mills and Ed. Barker and Miss Lizzie Conway closed on the 16th inst. Business has been very good during the week.

TONY PASTOR occupied the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass, the past week with his company. It is an exceptionally fine organization, and deserves the success achieved. For the coming week there is to be an entire change. The list of names includes Lake Schoolcraft, George H. Coes, Walters and McKee, T. M. Hengler, Bobby Newcomb, Sam Devere, Kelly and Ryan, Harry Kennedy, the Freeman Sisters, Blanche Corelli, and Curry and Fox. Advices of Sept. 16.

SPECIALTY ARTISTS, sensation stars and novelties of all kinds can find engagements at Front-street Theatre, Baltimore, Md. See card.

AT HEUCK'S HALL, Cincinnati, O., a number of performers are wanted, as stated in the advertisement in another column. James and Baby McDonald, Zittella, Tommy Fish and the Snow Brothers are particularly requested to communicate with Manager Douglas.

BOYD AND WADE are now performing at the New Central Theatre, Baltimore, Md., where they can be addressed until Oct. 16.

CHARLEY BOYD, formerly of Boyd and Scott, comedian and specialty artist, has concluded his engagement with the New Orleans Minstrels, and will rejoin his former partner, Tommy Wade. All communications can be addressed to Boyd and Wade, as per card.

CALL.—The ladies and gentlemen engaged for the Grand Central Theatre, Galveston, Texas, and Thompson's Theatre, Dallas, are requested by Manager Sprague, in his card in another column, to assemble at the Grand Central Depot, this city, Sept. 24, at 9 o'clock. The company includes the Cole Brothers, Eurardo, Collins and Moore, Andy Morris, Frank Eeland, Frank Stansell, Lillie Francis, Fanny Knight, Lizzie Wilson, Emma Clifford, Ida Mausey, Bella Moore, Maggie Wesner, Nellie Marshall and the Florence Sisters. Harry Wells is leader of orchestra.

THE NEW ATTRACTIONS at Ward's Opera-house, Newark, N. J., Sept. 11 were Connors and Kelly in double songs-and-dances, and later in a well-executed double jig, both acts eliciting applause, and Prof. Neil Smith and his troupe of trained dogs. A good business was done. Week 16: Pauline Blanchard, to Meriden, Ct.; Chace and Davis, to Hartford; Poole Bros., Mlle. Poole, Master Zaulo Poole and Prof. Neil Smith, to New York; Sam and Maud Sanyeah, to Baltimore; Ada Sanborn, to Brooklyn; Connors and Kelly, Mlle. Nannie and Mlle. Clair, no engagement. Billed for 18: Rachel Alexander, John Pendy, Tierney and Cronin, the St. Felix Ballet Troupe, the Watson Brothers, Frank Raymond, Fanny Knight, Fanny Morrello, and Alfred Chase. Week 18 et seq.: The Manhattan business has been of an excellent character. The new people 11 were Frank Steele in a burlesque bellringing act; Jennie Wade in vocalisms; Sam and Kitty Parker in Irish musical sketches; and the Manhattan Sisters in song-and-dances and double-clog; Frank West in songs-and-dances on roller skates, giving satisfaction. Closures 16: Will H. Vane, Frank Steele, and Sam and Kitty Parker, to New York; Prof. Fabra and Mlle. Faltony, to open at Coliseum 25; the Twin Sisters French, to Detroit; Fanny Morrello, to Ward's Opera-house; and Frank West, to Brooklyn. To open 18: the Gorman Brothers, Frank Gibbons, Lottie Grant, Adelaide Miller, Christine Percy, Buckley and Turner, and John D. Griffin..... At the Olympic a fair share of business has been done. Stella Duncan was the only new face 11, she giving satisfaction in serio-comic songs and ballads. Closing 16 were Stella Duncan and Ed. Ryan, both to New York. Announced for 18 are Harry Fox and Annie Rochfort. Advices of Sept. 16.

NEWTON'S VARIETIES, Hartford, Ct., under the management of Lew Clapp, with Frank Harrison as stage-manager, Ed. Clapp treasurer, and Harry Bailey leader of orchestra, was opened for the season Sept. 11. The entertainments commenced with a minstrel scene, introducing T. F. Thomas, Ed. Heeney, Fred Sharpley and Lew Clapp on the ends, and Frank Harrison as interlocutor. In the olio, Alice Somers did songs-and-dances, Mabel Pearl vocalized, Thomas and Heeney appeared in sketches, and the Kine Brothers—James and Harry—were seen in a musical act. Walter Wentworth, contortionist, was added to the company 13. Business throughout the week was good. Thomas and Heeney closed 16, and the announcements for 18 are Alice Gleason and Chace and Davis. Letter of Sept. 17.

THE LYNN SISTERS, writing from Cincinnati, O., under date of Sept. 14, desire us to correct some errors made by our correspondent. They deny that they are song-and-dance performers and say that they will not appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 18, but will appear at Looney's, St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25. They claim to be "the original and only double serio-comic singers or vocalists on the stage," and are performing at the Loewen Garden Theatre, Cincinnati, O., where they are to remain until Oct. 9.

DEATH OF ONE OF THE GIRARDS.—Russell Girard, founder of the troupe of grotesque dancers bearing his name, died at his home in Brighton, Mass., Aug. 28, of hemorrhage of the lungs, after a long illness, at the age of 28 years. His real name was J. D. Russell Clark, and under that name he made his debut on the dramatic stage at the Boston (Mass.) Theatre about the year 1860, and continued there, playing utility business some five years. Witnessing the performances of the Majiltons, and being quite tall and slim in figure, he determined upon organizing a similar troupe. Having associated with himself two other performers, and after much laborious practice they made their first appearance in public as grotesque dancers under the name of the Girards at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass. Subsequently they fulfilled engagements in many of the principal cities of the country, having appeared in this city at Niblo's Garden in "The Black Crook." In December, 1873, they visited California, and sailed from there to Australia, where they met with pronounced success. Returning home in 1874, they performed two weeks, commencing June 8, that year, at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, Mass., with George L. Fox's "Humpty Dumpty" Troupe. During that engagement Russell Girard broke his leg, and did not subsequently appear in public.

THE HARRISON SISTERS and Eliza Eldridge in their terpsichorean and statue specialties, and Billy Lanning in character-songs, met with a favorable reception at Miller's Winter Garden, Philadelphia, during the past week. Master John F. Rhodes, Kearney and Moran, and George Volna are the new faces here on the 18th inst. Gus Mills and Ed. Barker and Miss Lizzie

TERMS.

Single copy 10 cents. Per annum, $4.00 in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. Foreign postage extra.

To clubs of four or more, a deduction of 50 cents is made from each yearly subscription.

Advertising under the head of Amusements, 15 cents per line for each insertion.

Miscellaneous and Sporting advertisements, 20 cents per line for each insertion.

Extracts from other papers, incorporated in news department, 50 cents per line.

Advertisements to be paid for at the time of insertion, and liberal discount made when paid for three months or longer in advance.

FRANK QUEEN, Editor and Proprietor.

CLIPPER BUILDING, Centre and Leonard streets, N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS.

THOUSANDS have been made happy by using Geo. C. Dobson's simplified method for Banjo and Guitar.

EXPENSE AND TROUBLE OF TEACHER SAVED.

By its thorough and practical explanations you at once learn to play either instrument. Bound book, 50 pages, sent on receipt of price, 75cts. JOHN F. PERRY & CO., 338 Wash. street, Boston, Mass. 25-13t

H. CHAPMAN, BUSINESS or STAGE MANAGER, Interlocutor and General Straight Business, open for engagements for season of 1875 and '77.
25-41* 521 St. Charles street, St. Louis, Mo.

NOTICE TO THE MEMBERS OF THE ACTORS' ORDER OF FRIENDSHIP.

A special meeting of the Order is called for Thursday, 21st inst., 3 P. M., at the rooms 528 North Eighth street, Philadelphia, to consider the committee report on establishing in the city of New York a Reading-room and Headquarters for the Dramatic Profession.

A full attendance is desired.

Brothers will please send their address to the secretary.

By order, B. W. TURNER.
25-2t Address, Walnut-street Theatre.

THE VICTORELLIS—HENRY AND ELDON—AND MISS A. BRADDON have played four weeks in Cincinnati with great success. Now at the Vaudeville Theatre, Akron. Engaged with the Heywood Bros.' Great Show for the season. 2-51t*

HARRIS OPERA-HOUSE, MAQUOKETA, JACKSON COUNTY, IOWA. NEW AND ELEGANT; CAPACITY 1,000;

well lighted and ventilated; new first-class piano; large stage and good accommodations. First-class troupes, please address for dates, J. C. HARRIS, Proprietor. 25-13

MISS MARIE SHERMAN, VOCALIST, closed at Theatre Comique, New York, Sept. 9. For open dates managers will please address care above theatre. 25-2t*

NEW INSTITUTE HALL, NEWARK, N. J.

THE LARGEST PLACE OF AMUSEMENT IN THE STATE. SEATING CAPACITY OVER 1,500, newly refitted and furnished, commodious stage 34x45ft., elegant dressing-rooms, full sets of entirely new scenery by Minard Lewis and assistants, and complete stage appurtenances throughout. Stars and first-class combinations desiring dates will address L. C. GRAY, 9 Bank st., Newark, N. J. Will lease for a term of years. 24-41*

MUSIC HALL, LYNN, MASS.

The attention of Managers and agents is called to this well-known and popular theatre. Having been recently thoroughly remodeled, it is the best in New England for traveling companies. The stage, having been enlarged, now measures 42x60 feet; has six sets of grooves, over forty changes of scenery, and a great number of set pieces; also rams, platforms, bridges, etc.; and, having panorama grooves and arched borders, can show a set 23ft. in height, and is under the care of a stage-carpenter who thoroughly understands his business.

The hall has a seating capacity of 1,451, contains good, airy dressing-rooms, and property and baggage-rooms; is heated by steam, and the gas lighted by electricity. For further particulars, apply to SILSBEE & PICKFORD, Agents, 24-13t* No. 1 Union Block.

TO HALL MANAGERS.

Send first open dates immediately, with any useful information. J. W. WALLACE, Manager.
24-4t* 2,126 Park avenue, Philadelphia.

FOR SALE, A SERIES OF Water-color Paintings for public exhibition purposes, with glasses and other necessary fixtures, to make a first-class exhibition. Will be sold cheap. Address MRS. AMELIA ROBINS, 154 So. Jefferson st., Chicago, Ill. 24-3t

PERKINS' THEATRE, HOUSTON, TEXAS.

FOR RENT, weekly or nightly. Seating capacity, 700. Everything necessary for first-class theatre.

GEO. W. GUGOR, Former Lessee Houston Opera-house.
GEO. MADDEN, Billposter. 23-5t*

MOZART HALL, HOPKINSVILLE, KY.

New, neat, and commodious. Open for engagements on favorable terms. No license. Patronage good. Approached by railroad from all directions.

11-30* N. L. BAKER, Agent.

SKETCHES (NEGRO AND VARIETY), Sensational and Specialty Dramas, Stump Speeches, Gags, Songs (serious and comic), Acts, Farces, Burlesques, etc., written to order by I. DAVEAU, 116 South First st., Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y. 24-tf

TO GYMNASTS.

C. H. HAWKINS, No. 118 East 13th street, New York, maker of Gymnastic apparatus, Horizontal Bars, Steel Centre Dancing Barrels, Leaping Boards and bars, etc., etc. Send stamp for circular. 23-13t*

McDONOUGH HALL, Middletown, Ct., Under same roof as McDonough House.

THE FINEST HALL IN THE CITY, TO LET by the night or week, for Dramatic, Minstrel, Musical and all other first-class entertainments. Scenery and gallery. Address A. M. COLEGROVE, P. O. Box 623, Middletown, Ct.

ALSO MUSIC HALL, 328 MAIN STREET. Address as above. Billposting at the usual rates. [20-13t*

NATIONAL HOTEL, GORE & SON, Proprietors, NEARLY OPPOSITE CITY HALL, COR. HOLLIDAY AND FAYETTE STREETS, BALTIMORE, MD.

SPECIAL RATES TO THE THEATRICAL PROFESSION.
21-13t

METROPOLITAN THEATRE ST. JOSEPH, MO.,

will open Sept. 7, entirely refitted and refurnished. Good stars, please write for dates.

24-4t* JOHN M. MARTIN, Manager.

TO MANAGERS.—IN MAKING out routes for Southern tours, managers will find it to their advantage to correspond with DEAN CAMPBELL, Gen. Pass. Agent Montgomery and Eufaula R. R., Montgomery, Ala., for information as to rates, schedules, etc., between Nashville, Memphis, New Orleans or Mobile, and Montgomery, Columbus, Macon, Eufaula, Atlanta, and Savannah. All letters cheerfully and promptly answered.

Where schedules do not suit dates, special trains will be furnished at low rates. 24-13t

HOOLEY'S NEW CHICAGO THEATRE, Clark street, opposite Sherman House, CHICAGO, ILL.

R. M. HOOLEY.....Manager
BILLY RICE.....Business-manager
HOOLEY'S MINSTRELS

NOW IN THE FULL TIDE OF SUCCESS. Strictly first-class talent can apply as above. 26-tf

CITY HALL, LEWISTON, MAINE.

This is a new hall, facing the Park, located on three streets, and is one of the best halls in New England. Will seat 1,500. Large and commodious stage, with all modern improvements and a full set of scenery. Brilliantly lighted with gas, and furnished with every convenience to make it first-class. Thirty per cent. reduction from last year's prices. For dates and particulars address

10-32t* CITY HALL, Lewiston, Me.

WHEELER OPERA-HOUSE, TOLEDO, OHIO.

Population, 60,000; seating capacity, 1,400; standing-room, 500; iron tilting chairs. License, light, heat and stage-hands furnished. Rent, $75 per night. For sharing terms address R. J. WHEELER. 21-12t*

BEETHOVEN HALL, 621 Washington street, Boston, OPPOSITE THE GLOBE THEATRE.

This popular and fashionable hall may be rented, for single nights or by the week, for FIRST-CLASS DRAMATIC, OPERATIC OR MINSTREL COMBINATIONS.

The stage is well stocked with new scenery and stage appointments. Seating capacity 1,500, with plenty of standing-room. Managers wishing dates for the Fall and Winter season may address J. J. HALEY.
19-51* 615 Washington street.

MASONIC TEMPLE, NASHVILLE, TENN. J. O. MILSOM, lessee. Just Refinished. Everything Entirely New. Dress-circle and parquet with patent folding chairs; family circle with handsome chairs. Reclined seats, new drop-curtain, new scenery, new stage. Seating capacity, 1,300. The most elegant and complete theatre in the State. Rent low, or liberal sharing terms. For terms, dates, etc., apply to WM. KING, Agent, Nashville, Tenn. Refer to Adelaide Phillipps Opera Troupe, John T. Ford (Edwin Booth Co.), Maggie Mitchell, Furbish's Fifteen-in-One Co., Hall's Combination, Harrigan and Hart, Bryant's, Kelly & Leon's, Harry Robinson's, Cal Wagner's, and other minstrel troupes. 1-51t*

SAVANNAH THEATRE.

Seating capacity, about 1,200; complete stock of new scenery and stage appointments.

COMBINATIONS—DRAMATIC, OPERATIC, PANTOMIMIC, VARIETY, MINSTREL—AND OTHER FIRST-CLASS ENTERTAINMENTS, desiring time for the season of 1876-7, will please address 18-36t* THOMAS ARKWRIGHT, Prop'r, Savannah, Ga.

CIRCUS COMPANIES, THEATRICAL, MINSTREL AND OPERA TROUPES AND ARTISTS

furnished with favorable rates on Toledo, Peoria and Warsaw Railway and connections on application to

H. C. TOWNSEND, 13-39t* Gen'l Passenger Agent, Peoria, Ill.

CONCERT HALL, CARTHAGE, JEFFERSON COUNTY, NEW YORK.

Capacity, 800; entrance from sidewalk into portico; then 2 wide doors, 10 steps, through 2 wide doors, to hall. 3 railroad lines meet here. For printed details, address postal card to CONCERT HALL, 18-13t* Carthage, N. Y.

BEDFORD HALL, BEDFORD, PA.,

within a mile of the celebrated Bedford Springs.

SEASON GOOD THROUGHOUT THE YEAR. Connection made at Huntingdon, Pa., R. R., and at Bridgeport on the Pittsburg and Connellsville R. R. This town is suitable for SMALL TROUPES OR SINGLE PERFORMERS.

The present proprietor has just purchased the property, and is willing to do all he can for the success of parties renting. Terms very easy. Address Proprietor of Hall, 14-51* Bedford, Pa.

HILL'S OPERA-HOUSE, ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN.

Seating capacity, 1,200; population, 12,000; to rent by the night or week; also first-class combinations engaged on liberal sharing terms. Communications addressed to

HARRY R. HILL, P. O. Box 1,581. [19-51*eow] Manager.

TO PROFESSIONALS VISITING BOSTON.—Elegant furnished rooms, with hot and cold water, bath, furnace-heated, etc., with first-class table-board, can be obtained on the most reasonable terms at 1,(2d) WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS. Horse-cars and stages pass the door to all the theatres.
25-13t Address MRS. S. H. KIMBALL.

ENGLISH OPERA. ORCHESTRA parts of Bohemian Girl, Martiana, Rose of Castile. Beautiful and correct copies. For sale by 25-3t* FR. KUEHN, 177 Eldridge st., N. Y.

WANTED IMMEDIATELY FOR A WHOLE SEASON,

an extra balladist, tenor, and an extra good flute and piccolo player, who can play a good tenor horn; also a good clarionetitist, who can play a B solo baritone in band. Must be strictly temperate and reliable, and have first-class instruments. Salary sure, weekly, but must be moderate to secure the engagement. Apply to Lowell, Mass., at Washington Hotel, by letter, stating lowest salary, etc., to CHAS. DUPREZ, Manager 25-3t Duprez & Benedict's Gigantic Minstrels.

GRAND OPERA-HOUSE, LITTLE ROCK, ARK.

R. A. LITTLE.....Proprietor
W. J. JOHNSTON.....Manager
W. L. TERRY.....Treasurer

Entirely refitted, and new scenery by J. S. Hutton. Seating capacity, 1,200; population, 20,000. For rent or sharing terms. Address W. J. JOHNSTON, Manager. 25-4t*

HOBOKEN OPERA-HOUSE. First-class male and female talent wanted. Open all the year round. Address E. R. DINGLEY, Proprietor and Manager, 61 and 63 Washington st., Hoboken, N. J. 25-12t*

MAGICAL MANUFACTORY. Having purchased the whole of M. Hartz's Repository, late of Broadway, I have the largest and cheapest collection of STAGE ILLUSIONS of any house in the United States. CARD FOUNTAINS, CAKE ROLLS, GOLDEN BOXES, DRUMS AND CLOCKS in endless variety. Send 3c. or 15c. for new Illustrated Catalogue. W. J. JUDD, 24-3t* 131 Henry street, N. Y.

MARIE BATES can be engaged for SOUBRETTE, JUVENILE OR CHARACTER BUSINESS. MARIE BATES, 9 Stanford street, Boston, Mass.
26-2t* or SIMMONDS & WALL, 10 Union square, N. Y.

ATHENÆUM, McGREGOR, IOWA, SEATS 600 people; newly frescoed, thoroughly refitted; town contains a population of 2,500; accommodations first-class and terms reasonable. Address
25-4t* THOS. ARNOLD, McGregor, Iowa.

MISS ALICE PLACIDE IS AT LIBERTY TO ENGAGE FOR LEADING BUSINESS, or as the attraction of a reliable traveling company. 739 Spring-garden street, Philadelphia, Pa. 26-1t

CLARK BROS. WILL PLAY SEVERAL INSTRUMENTS THAT ARE ORIGINAL IN THE MUSICAL MOKE BUSINESS THIS SEASON. 26-1t*

WANTED, for a season of four months, a Serio-comic Vocalist, Song-and-dance Lady, Leader of Orchestra and Brass Band, and one young Lady to learn the business. Salary low, but sure every week. Ladies, inclose photograph.

Address J. D. ROWLEY, Avon, N. Y.
P. S.—Will D. S. Gerry write? 26-1t*

WANTED, TENT IN GOOD ORDER, not smaller than 17x18ft., nor larger than 40x40ft. State in what condition. State lowest cash price. C. E., 26-1t* Care of CLIPPER.

FRIENDSHIP'S GOLDEN DAYS.

A beautiful song, written and composed by B. S. Haskell, and dedicated to Nell Burgess. Price, 30 cents. Sent post free anywhere on receipt of price.

WM. B. NELSON, 26-1t* Music Dealer, St. Johnsbury, Vermont.

REVELLE THEATRE, 95 SOUTH HALSTED STREET, CHICAGO, ILL.

RYDER & FOLEY.....Sole Lessees
J. F. WOULF.....Musical Director
JOHN NICHOLS.....Stage-manager

OPEN THE YEAR ROUND. FIRST-CLASS ARTISTS OF ABILITY can address as above at all times. 26-1t*

NEW DEPARTURE

SEASON OF 1876-77.

LEW BENEDICT'S MINSTRELS AND BRASS BAND.

CAPITAL, TALENT AND REPUTATION COMBINED.

TWENTY-ONE STAR PERFORMERS.

The above organization, under the immediate management of the world-renowned LEW BENEDICT, will start out on or about the 25th of September for a season of eight months, fully equipped with all the requirements of a first-class company. ENTIRELY NEW PICTORIAL PRINTING AND LITHOGRAPHS, NEW ACTS, NEW SONGS, NEW MUSIC.

MR. LEW BENEDICT

will positively appear at each performance.

Managers of Theatres and Halls will please take notice, and send their open dates to the undersigned by an early mail.

J. E. JACKSON,
Business-manager LEW BENEDICT'S MINSTRELS,
Union-place Hotel, New York City.

WANTED, two first-class SOLO SINGERS, TENOR and BARITONE; also one or two SPECIALTY ARTISTS. Salaries must be low, as payment will be sure. Would like to hear from ADAMS AND LEE. Address

LEW BENEDICT,
25-2t Union-place Hotel, New York City.

OPERA-HOUSE, FRANKLIN, PA.,

will be finished Oct. 2, 1876.

Wanted, a party to open it. Will rent or share. For open dates address S. T. JACK, Manager.
24-5t* OIL $4 PER BARREL. Oil City, Pa.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, OPERA-HOUSE,

the best place after Galveston.

ALL COMBINATIONS PLAYED ON SHARES, or moderate rental. Address
25-2t* D. J. MURCHINSON.

TURNER HALL,

HOUSTON, TEXAS.

ONLY FIRST-CLASS PLACE.

Combinations wishing dates at Houston, either on sharing or rent, can have same by addressing H. GREENWALL, Manager Tremont Opera-house, Galveston. 25-4t

ED. G. NAGLE,

ADVANCE-AGENT, is now open for an engagement. Hard worker, sober and reliable.

Address 51 West Baltimore street, Baltimore, Md.
23-4t*

GRAND CENTRAL THEATRE,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

R. Y. KANAGA - - - - - - - Proprietor
JAMES COLLINS, Business and Stage Manager

THE LEADING VARIETY THEATRE OF PHILADELPHIA. PLAYING TO CROWDED HOUSES NIGHTLY.

Fall and Winter season commences Sept. 2, 1876.

First-class variety stars, burlesque combinations and novelties of every description will please communicate at once.

Parties applying for dates receiving no reply within seven days consider silence a polite negative, but write again. 20-13t*

WM. HAYLE AND CHAS. KANE

THE GREATEST OF ALL IRISH REEL, CLOG AND JIG DANCERS.

Direct all letters in care of CLIPPER. 26-1t*

ATTENTION, SHOWMEN. FOR SALE,

THE FINEST SHOW STOCK IN THE COUNTRY.

The stock consisting of ten educated horses and trick-mule, two riding goats, and all the paraphernalia formerly belonging to the show called Dan Rice's New Show, will be sold at SHERIFF'S SALE at Ashland Fair Grounds, Ashland, Boyd Co., Ky., on TUESDAY, OCT. 3, 1876. Terms of sale, five hundred dollars in 30 days, the balance in equal proportions, six and twelve months, with approved security.

24-3t* A. T. ROBERTS, Sheriff.

PANTOMIME CLOWN, CHAS. H. YALE,

NOW IN HIS TENTH WEEK AT THEATRE COMIQUE, PROVIDENCE, R. I.,

OPENS OCT. 9

AT BOYLSTON MUSEUM, BOSTON, FOR THE SEASON.

THE CARROLLS,

4 brilliant stars, will arrange with all first-class managers to produce their world-wide reputed specialties, THE McFADDENS (a new feature, NEW YORK ITALIES), MASQUERADE, and numerous others. Note.—Western and Southern managers can secure the Carrolls by arranging connecting dates to avoid R. R. expense. Address R. M. CARROLL, 42 Bond street, New York.

P. S.—We have no agents. 26-1t

GREAT SUCCESS OF

LITTLE TODD,

THE GREAT GERMAN WONDER, at the Howard Athenæum, Boston. Second appearance there in his great acrobatic contortion and balancing specialty on the column of gold. Little Todd is the only one-hand balancer in the world, and must be seen to be believed. Opens at the Holliday-street Theatre, Baltimore, Sept. 18; at liberty Oct. 2. Managers wishing to engage this wonderful novelty for future dates will please address his tutor and manager,

CHAS. CROSBY.

N. B.—A splendid three-sheet poster, also lithos on hand. 26-1t*

JOHN H. MURRAY'S GRAND CIRCUS AND TRIPLE AGGREGATION,

COMPRISING

CIRCUS, PANTOMIME AND TRAGEDY

WILL INAUGURATE AN

EQUESTRIAN SEASON IN NEW YORK,

THURSDAY, SEPT. 21,

FOOT OF HOUSTON ST., E. R.

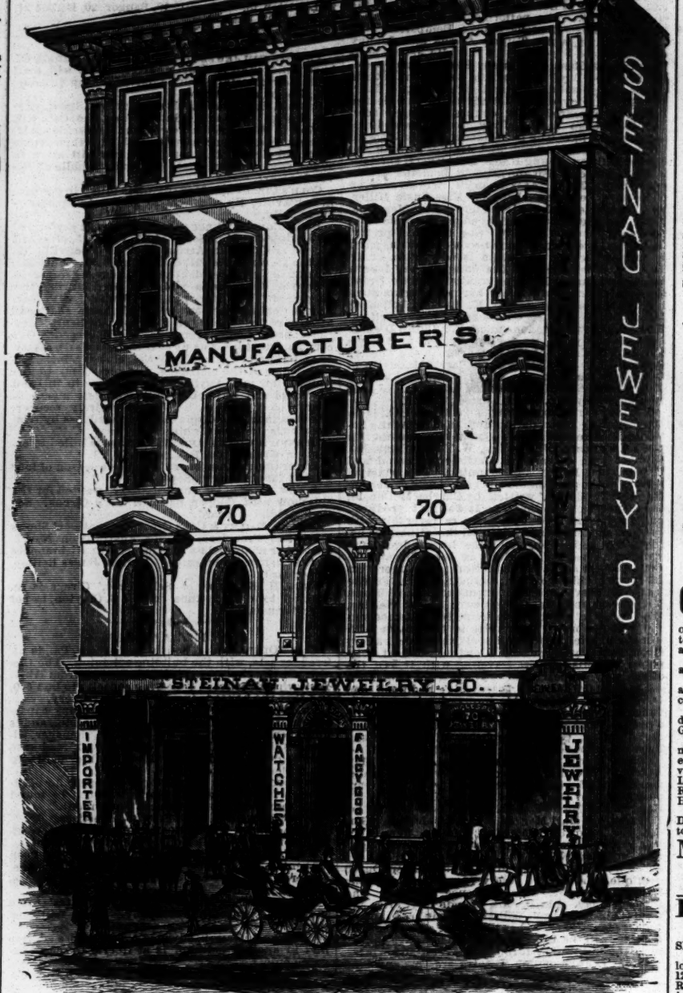
THE LARGEST, BEST, AND ONLY LEGITIMATE CIRCUS IN AMERICA. 26-1t

STEINAU JEWELRY CO.,

NO. 70 FOURTH STREET,

OPPOSITE PIKE'S OPERA-HOUSE,

CINCINNATI, O.



MANAGER'S OFFICE, STEINAU JEWELRY CO., No. 70 FOURTH STREET (Up stairs), CINCINNATI, SEPT. 15, 1876.

We hereby announce to the TRADE THAT WE HAVE REMOVED FROM 163 WALNUT STREET TO OUR NEW BUILDING.

SEND FOR OUR NEW CENTENNIAL PRICE LIST,

CONTAINING OVER 1,000 SPLENDID ENGRAVINGS OF ALL KINDS OF

CHEAP JEWELRY, ETC.,

MAILED FREE. Address STEINAU JEWELRY CO., P. O. Box 616, Cincinnati, O. 26-tf

BILLY PASTOR'S STAR TROUPE

THE FINEST TRAVELING ORGANIZATION IN THE WORLD,

Combining All Features of Amusements, Dramatic, Burlesque, Vaudeville and Comedy, Specialty, Vocal and Instrumental Musical Acts, Character Sketches, Etc.

This Magnificent Organization, the result of months of preparation, will make a tour of the United States and Canadas, visiting the principal cities, and appearing only at First-class Theatres.

MR. PASTOR with pride announces the names of the following talented specialty artists:

THE GREAT PHOITES, three in number, in their nondescript revels, goblin antics, and Kickazoo dances.

CHARLES DIAMOND, the Milanese Minstrel, in his songs and dances, accompanying himself on the harp. The only artist in the world who performs this difficult act.

HENRIETTA MOLLANHAUER the gifted and classical cantatrice.

JAS. S. AND KATE EDWARDS the refined dual artists, who stand the very head and front of their profession in their respective lines.

PHIL HEATH, the master ventriloquist of the world.

NED WAMBOLD, the people's favorite comedian, in his original negro farces.

PAT ROONEY, the Irish vocalist and dancer, who stands without rival.

THE FOY SISTERS BERTHA AND IDA, in their original and unrivaled musical sketches.

TIERNEY AND MORRIN, the talented song-and-dance artists.

The original ASHANTEE RECRUITS.

KEARING AND SANDS, the musical wonders, who perform in an artistic manner upon over twenty different instruments.

THE PARKER SISTERS, the beautiful and accomplished song-and-dance artists.

PROF. MOORE, with full orchestra and brass band, composed entirely of solo performers.

The above array of talent will appear in an unrivaled programme under the immediate direction of

OUR AMERICAN COMIC VOCALIST, BILLY PASTOR.

Business-manager and Treasurer, GEORGE WALTON. Advance Agent, W. E. COLEMAN. Stage-manager, JAS. S. EDWARDS

JUST RETURNED FROM A SIX MONTHS' TOUR OF THE PACIFIC STATES!

MR. ALF. BURNETT

AMERICA'S GREATEST HUMORIST,

who, for thirty years, has been the "Best Laughed-at Man" in the universe. His delineations of character and wonderfully rapid transformations of FACE AND FIGURE are unequaled by any living actor, and he has been fitly termed the "Successful Successor" of the elder CHARLES MATHEWS; and, as an Elocutionist, the counterpart of MRS. SIDDONS. MR. BURNETT is ably assisted by the popular American Artist who, for ten years past, has been delighting the American public in every city in the United States as MRS. CAUDLE in Douglas Jerrold's great character creation.

MISS HELEN NASH,

MR. BURNETT has a repertory of thirty characters, together with the finest printing material, Illustrated Posters, Mammoth Cuts, and Lithographs. For full particulars address

ALF. BURNETT,
26-1t ROSE MANOR, Glendale, Hamilton County, Ohio.

PETROLIA OPERA-HOUSE

PETROLIA, BUTLER CO., PA.

Open all the year round. Seating capacity, 1,000. Size of stage, 29x52ft. First-class scenery. Lighted by gas. Decker Bros.' grand piano in hall. The best show town of its size in Pennsylvania. First-class troupes draw largely. All communications from the profession answered promptly, and will be strictly confidential. Open a hotel in Opera-house building, which, for comfort and elegance, will not be surpassed by any in the oil regions. The profession liberally dealt with.

26-13t* G. W. FLETCHER, Manager.

TO MANAGERS OF TRAVELING PARTIES.

AN IRISH COMEDIAN, A LADY BALLADIST AND SERIO-COMIC AND A PIANIST,

WHO ALSO PLAYS VIOLIN AND ORGAN, will engage with good party for long season.

Business FIRST-CLASS. BEST of references. Specialties (if desired) of Lecture, Clog and Jig Dancing, Irish Sketches, etc., etc. Address "TRIO," care Chas. Norris, Cheyenne, W. T. 26-1t*

HOLMAN OPERA-HOUSE,

LONDON, ONTARIO,

To Let by the Night or Week.

Combinations played on liberal sharing terms or certainties. STARS desiring dates for the Fall and Winter season will please address GEO. HOLMAN, 14-13t* London, Ontario, Canada.

NOTICE.

YOST'S OPERA-HOUSE FOR SALE,

with a building adjoining, suitable for a hotel; will also rent by the night, or will play combinations on shares.

SEATING CAPACITY, 1,200.

Scenery, twenty-four full sets, as good as new. Address South Bethlehem, Pa. Abraham Yost, Proprietor. [26-13t*

TO LADY STARS

KATRINA.

MS. OF PLAY FOR SALE.

KATRINA is destined to take its place among the LEADING tragedies upon the American stage. * * * In the title-role Mrs. Cain sustained her fine reputation as an actress. * * * At the point in the fourth act where she curses her faithless husband, Baron Lord of Lieteneau, her acting was grand and carried the house by storm.—DECATUR (Illinois) DAILY REPUBLICAN.

For terms, etc., address the authoress,
26-1t* M. L. CAIN, Decatur, Ill.

AGNES WALLACE

is preparing to appear in a new play written expressly for her. 24-4t

FLAGS AND MILITARY GOODS.

Shannon, Miller & Crane.

IMPORTERS AND MANUFACTURERS OF

THEATRICAL GOODS,

No. 43 Maiden Lane, New York.

BEST ENGLISH COTTON TIGHTS & SHIRTS,	per suit...$2 75
ROWING SHIRTS,	each...$4 00 to 4 50
ROWING TIGHTS,	from $3 00 upwards.
WORSTED KNEE TIGHTS,	per pair,.. 2 00
WORSTED TIGHTS, SHIRTS, LEOTARDS and BODY DRESSES,	each,.. 2 50
BEST SILK TIGHTS, COTTON TOPS,	per pair,..12 50
WORSTED TRUNKS,	per pair,.. 1 75
RED CLOGS,	per pair...from $2 50 to 4 50
CLOWN SUITS,	from $5 00 upwards.
STRIPED STOCKINGS,	per pair,..$1 75 and upwards.
SPANGLES,	per lb.,..2 25
SKULL CAPS,	from 75c. each, upwards.
SUPPORTERS,	each,.. 1 00
MAKE-UP BOXES,	each,.. 1 00
PREPARED BURNT CORK & CLOWN WHITE, in Boxes of ¼, ½, ¾, and 1 lb.,	per lb.. 2 00
NEGRO WIGS	each,..$1 50 $2 50 and $3 50
CHARACTER WIGS,	from $5 00 upwards
MUSTACHES,	from 25 to 50c.
WHISKERS and BEARDS,	per set,..$1 25 to $ 50
BOXING GLOVES,	per set of two pairs, from $3 00 upwards.
CALF STOCKING PADS,	per pair... 2 75
CALF and THIGH PADS,	per pair,.. 3 50
LONG BURLESQUE SONG & DANCE SHOES, 12, 15, and 18 inches,	per pair,..6 50
WHITE CANVAS SLIPPERS,	per pair,.. 1 00
WHITE CANVAS GAITERS,	per pair,.. 2 50

THEATRICAL, MILITARY & REGALIA GOODS IN EVERY VARIETY.

Flags, Banners; Rowing Suits; Bear, Monkey, Frog, and other Suits; Theatrical Jewelry; Papier-Maché Heads and Wax Figures to order; Combat Swords; Linen Thread for Spangling; Gilt, Plated and Tinsel Fringes; Laces, Gimps, Braids, Cords, Stars, Tassels, Brocades; Embroideries, &c.—every variety; Cotton and Satin Dominoes, and Wire Masks; Foil Paper and Copper Foil; Armor, Helmets, &c.; Indian Moccasins, Sandals, &c.; Satin Opera Slippers and Theatrical Boots; Gold and Silver Leather; Real Skeletons and Imitation of Papier-Maché; Fencing Materials; Worsted and Silk Fringes, Tassels, &c.; Banner Silk and Bunting; Spears, Eagles, &c.; Every Pattern of Hat to order; Horse Plumes.

Goods Sent C. O. D. Send for Circular.

4-26t*

NOLAN'S PATENT Opera Chair Improved occupies, when folded, only seven inches space, and allows ten per cent. more chairs, with less obstruction to ingress and egress, than any other kind.

Folds together by a single noiseless movement, and guaranteed not to get out of order or break down.

The iron work alone furnished, or we will fit up complete, at short notice, any building in the country, at rates in accordance with the times.

The following are a few of the houses we have furnished during the past two years with the above or NOLAN'S GALLERY-CHAIR, which comes very cheap, viz.:

Ford's Opera-house, Baltimore; Portland, Me., Museum; King's Palace, Nashville; French's Lyceum Hall, Lynn, Mass.; Gordon's Hall, Rahway, N. J.; Oddfellows' Hall, Springfield, Mo.; Town Hall, Columbia, Pa.; New Central Theatre, Baltimore; Walnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia; Academy of Music, Fall River; Kraly's Alhambra, Philadelphia.

For samples, photographs, or other particulars, apply to DEMAREST, JOYCE & CO., Sole Manufacturers, 30 Morton street, Brooklyn, E. D., N. Y. 16-13t* prepared to accept dates through her agents, MESSRS. SIMMONDS & WALL, No. 10 Union square, New York.

MRS. J. H. HACKETT

22-tf

DETROIT OPERA-HOUSE DETROIT, MICH.

SEATING CAPACITY 1,800.

THIS MAGNIFICENT BUILDING, located in the centre of our city, containing a population of 120,000 inhabitants, is now IMPROVED, REFITTED, and REFURNISHED with new leveled stage, five new sets boxed scenery, twenty-four pair new flats with wings and borders to match, set pieces, new furniture, new seating, decorating, carpets, etc. It is open to the profession during the season of 1876-77. For rent at reasonable rates or sharing terms. Correspondence solicited. Address 21-13t D. S. AMSDEN, Agent, 113 Woodward avenue.

WIGS! WIGS!

SCHMIDT & FOOTNER,

Theatrical wig, beard and moustache makers. Character wigs from $4. 746 BROADWAY, N. Y.
22-13t* GOODS SENT C. O. D.

TO CIRCUS AND SIDESHOW MANAGERS.

JAMES MARTIN & SON,

Manufacturers of Circus and Show Canvases, Bunting, Flags, etc. 114 Commercial street, Boston.
PRICE LIST SENT FREE 14-13t*

CENTRAL HOTEL,

HOLLIDAY STREET,

Opposite New City Hall, adjoining Holliday-street Theatre,

BALTIMORE, MD.

Everything new and first-class. Convenient to all the theatres. Special rates to the theatrical profession. 18-10t

CHARLES CHRISDIE,

PANTOMIMIST.

is prepared to treat with managers of theatres, variety halls, fire company for benefits, etc., for the production of the following pantomimes:

JACK AND THE BEANSTALK,
HUMPTY DUMPTY,
NIMBLE NIP, JACK AND JILL,
MOTHER GOOSE,
INDIAN TABLEAUX, COMIC SONGS, AND BALLET PANTOMIMES,

with all tricks and properties. Can furnish full company, including specialties, on sharing terms or certainty. Address 68 East 12th street, N. Y. 25-3t

TO THE PROFESSION.

AGENTS OF TRAVELING COMPANIES visiting St. Louis should call at the ST. CLAIR HOTEL and learn our prices and see our bills of fare, before contracting elsewhere.

A FIRST-CLASS HOTEL AT SECOND-CLASS RATES.

A. CHESLIE, Proprietor.

References: Grand Opera-house, Olympic Theatre, St. Louis. 25-13t

CHARLESTON, S.C. OWENS' ACADEMY OF MUSIC

JOHN E. OWENS, PROPRIETOR.

The above elegant establishment may be rented by the night or week for DRAMATIC COMBINATIONS, STARS, Operatic and Concert Troupes, etc., etc. Seating capacity 1,200. Six private boxes, etc. Agents for first-class entertainment will address FRANK ARTHUR, Business-manager. Owen's Academy of Music, 11-tf Charleston, S. C.

McCORMICK MUSIC HALL,

is the LARGEST, BEST and most POPULAR hall in CHICAGO

Apply to E. L. SHELDON, Manager, McCormick's Music Hall, for terms and dates. 23-13t*

FOX'S AMERICAN THEATRE.

OPEN ALL THE YEAR ROUND.

Proprietor and Manager.....ROBERT FOX
Business-manager.....WOOD BENSON

Applicants for dates in all branches of the variety, dramatic, burlesque and acrobatic business to be made personally or by letter to ROBERT FOX, American Theatre, Chestnut street, above Tenth, Philadelphia.
[26 tf]

ARTISTS APPLYING FOR ENGAGEMENTS WILL PLEASE SEND THEIR PRIVATE ADDRESS OR HOTEL AT WHICH THEY ARE STOPPING.

TOOTLE'S OPERA-HOUSE ST. JOSEPH, MISSOURI.

Acknowledged to be the best-arranged and most elegant theatre in the West.

SEATING CAPACITY, 1,500.

Located in the heart of the city, with a population of above 30,000. Will rent reasonably, or share with first-class combinations. Address for dates, etc.,
16-13t* JULIUS CRONE, Agent.

WARD'S OPERA-HOUSE,

FORMERLY ODEON, NEWARK, N. J., opening for the Fall and Winter season MONDAY EVENING, SEPT. 4, 1876.

Opening dates for only first-class variety artists and sensational novelties. Address all communications to WALLY WARD, Manager.

Artists engaged for opening dates, send business im mediately. 25-4t*

H. MINDHEIM & CO.,

FROM PARIS,
273 BOWERY, N. Y.
THEATRICAL BOOTS AND SHOES.
Goods sent C. O. D.
Business house in Paris, 26 BOULEVARD VOLTAIRE.
5-26t*

JIG CLOG AND BREAKDOWN DANCING MADE EASY.

With sketches of noted Jig Dancers (illustrated). Sent prepaid on receipt of price. ED. JAMES, 25 and 90 Centre street, New York City.

RED CLOGS with JINGLES from $4 per pair.

OPERA-HOUSE, TERRE HAUTE, IND.

The only first-class theatre in the city, and conceded to be the finest in the West. Stage, 45ft. by 80ft., with forty sets of the very finest scenery.

SEATING CAPACITY, 1,500.

Will either rent or play first-class combinations on sharing terms. Address C. R. HOSFORD, Agent, Terre Haute, Ind. 21-12t

MARTIN OPERA-HOUSE, ALBANY, N. Y.

The largest and most popular place of amusement in the city. Elegant Scenery. Spacious Dressing-rooms. Heated by Steam.

For terms and open dates, address
22 13t* THEO MOSHER, Agent.

THE

REDPATH LYCEUM BUREAU,

HATHWAY & POND, MANAGERS,

26 BROMFIELD STREET, BOSTON. TRIBUNE BUILDING, CHICAGO.

SEASON OF 1876-7.

Are prepared to make engagements for all the leading lecturers, musical combinations, and solo artists of the country. We are special agents for

REV. HENRY WARD BEECHER,
JOHN B. GOUGH,
SENATOR GEO. S. BOUTWELL,
T. DE WITT TALMADGE,
SCHUYLER COLFAX,
MARK TWAIN,
THOMAS NAST,
WENDELL PHILLIPS,
MARY A. LIVERMORE,
MISS HELEN POTTER,

GILMORE'S BAND, ENGLISH GLEE CLUB, BAY STATE ENGLISH OPERA CO., PAYSON'S ENGLISH OPERA CO., CARRENO-SAURET CONCERT CO., HENE-PAREPA CONCERT CO., GEO. H. TYLER'S PANTOMIME TROUPE (FORMERLY G. L. FOX'S), BERGER FAMILY, SOL SMITH RUSSELL, HYERS SISTERS' GREAT MUSICAL DRAMA "OUT OF BONDAGE," AND MANY OTHERS.

SEND FIFTY CENTS and get our ILLUSTRATED LYCEUM MAGAZINE, for September, now ready, which contains all information relative to organizing and how to conduct Lyceum Entertainments and Lecture Courses successfully, together with a full list of all the first-class talent in America and Europe. Address all letters to

THE REDPATH LYCEUM BUREAU,
21-3t* 26 BROMFIELD STREET, Boston, Mass.

W. DAZIAN,

220 BOWERY, NEAR HOUSTON STREET.

IMPORTER AND MANUFACTURER OF Theatrical and Equestrian Goods.

THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT IN ALL SHADES AND QUALITIES OF SILKS, SATINS, VELVETS, TARLATANS, LACE, SHAWLS, SACQUES AND FLOUNCINGS, GOLD AND SILVER ARMOR CLOTHS, BROCADES, LACES, FRINGES, SPANGLES, JEWELS, ALSO, CONSTANTLY ON HAND, AND MADE TO ORDER, ALL KINDS OF SILKS, LISLE-THREAD, WORSTED AND COTTON SHIRTS AND TIGH